When I heard the Learn'd Astronomer

When I heard the learn'd astronomer,
When the proofs, the figures, were ranged in columns,
before me,
When I was shown the charts and diagrams, to add,
divide and measure them,
When I was sitting and heard the astronomer where he lectured with much applause in the lecture room, how soon unaccountable I became tired and sick,
Till rising and gliding out I wandered off by myself,
In the mystical moist night air, and from time to time,
Looked up in perfect silence at the stars.

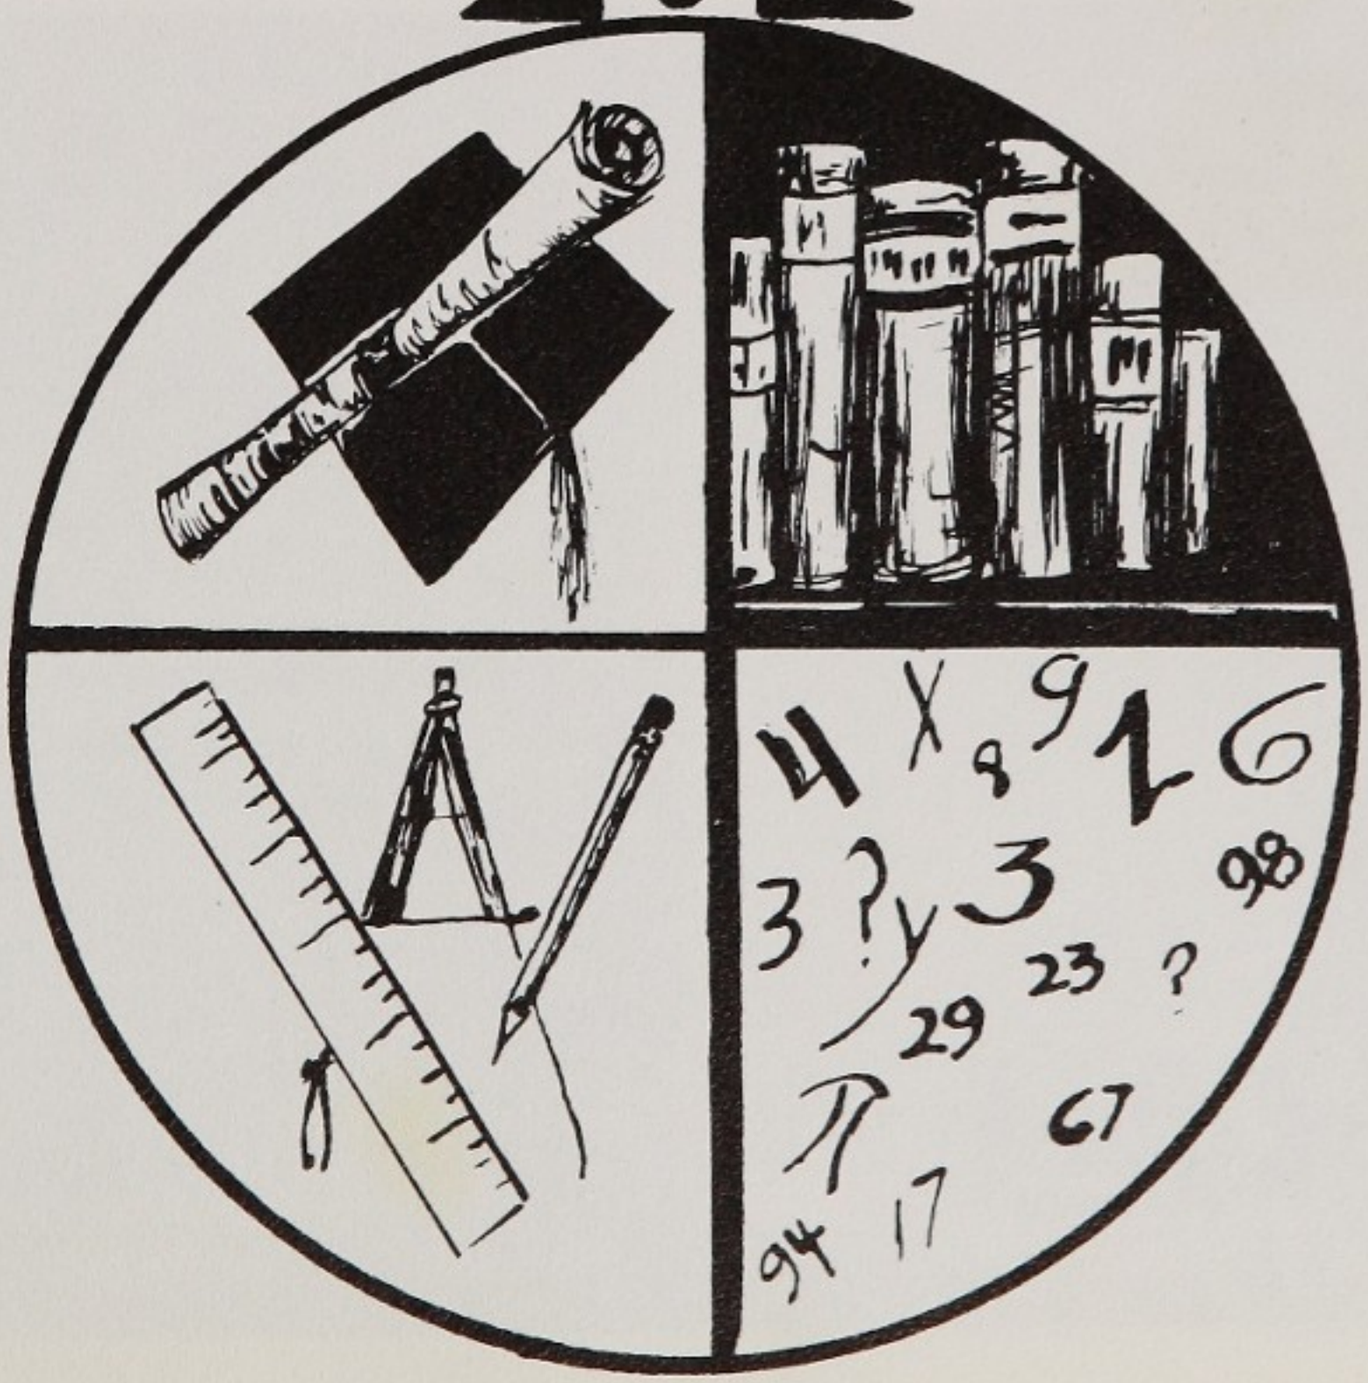
CURRICULUM



As our school population grows, the administrative responsibilities are increasing greatly. Even with the additional new classrooms, the single problem of finding classroom space for more students has become overwhelming.

Because of the complexity of educational requirements, the administrative duties have also become more complex. The administration constantly strives to keep our school standards equal to or higher than those of the changing society and the needs of higher education. Mr. Schreiber must spend time studing college and job requirements as part of making sure the school standards are up to par.

Mr. Meyers in his roll as assistant principal, supervises school-parent relationships, student conduct, and sees that substitute teachers are always on hand.

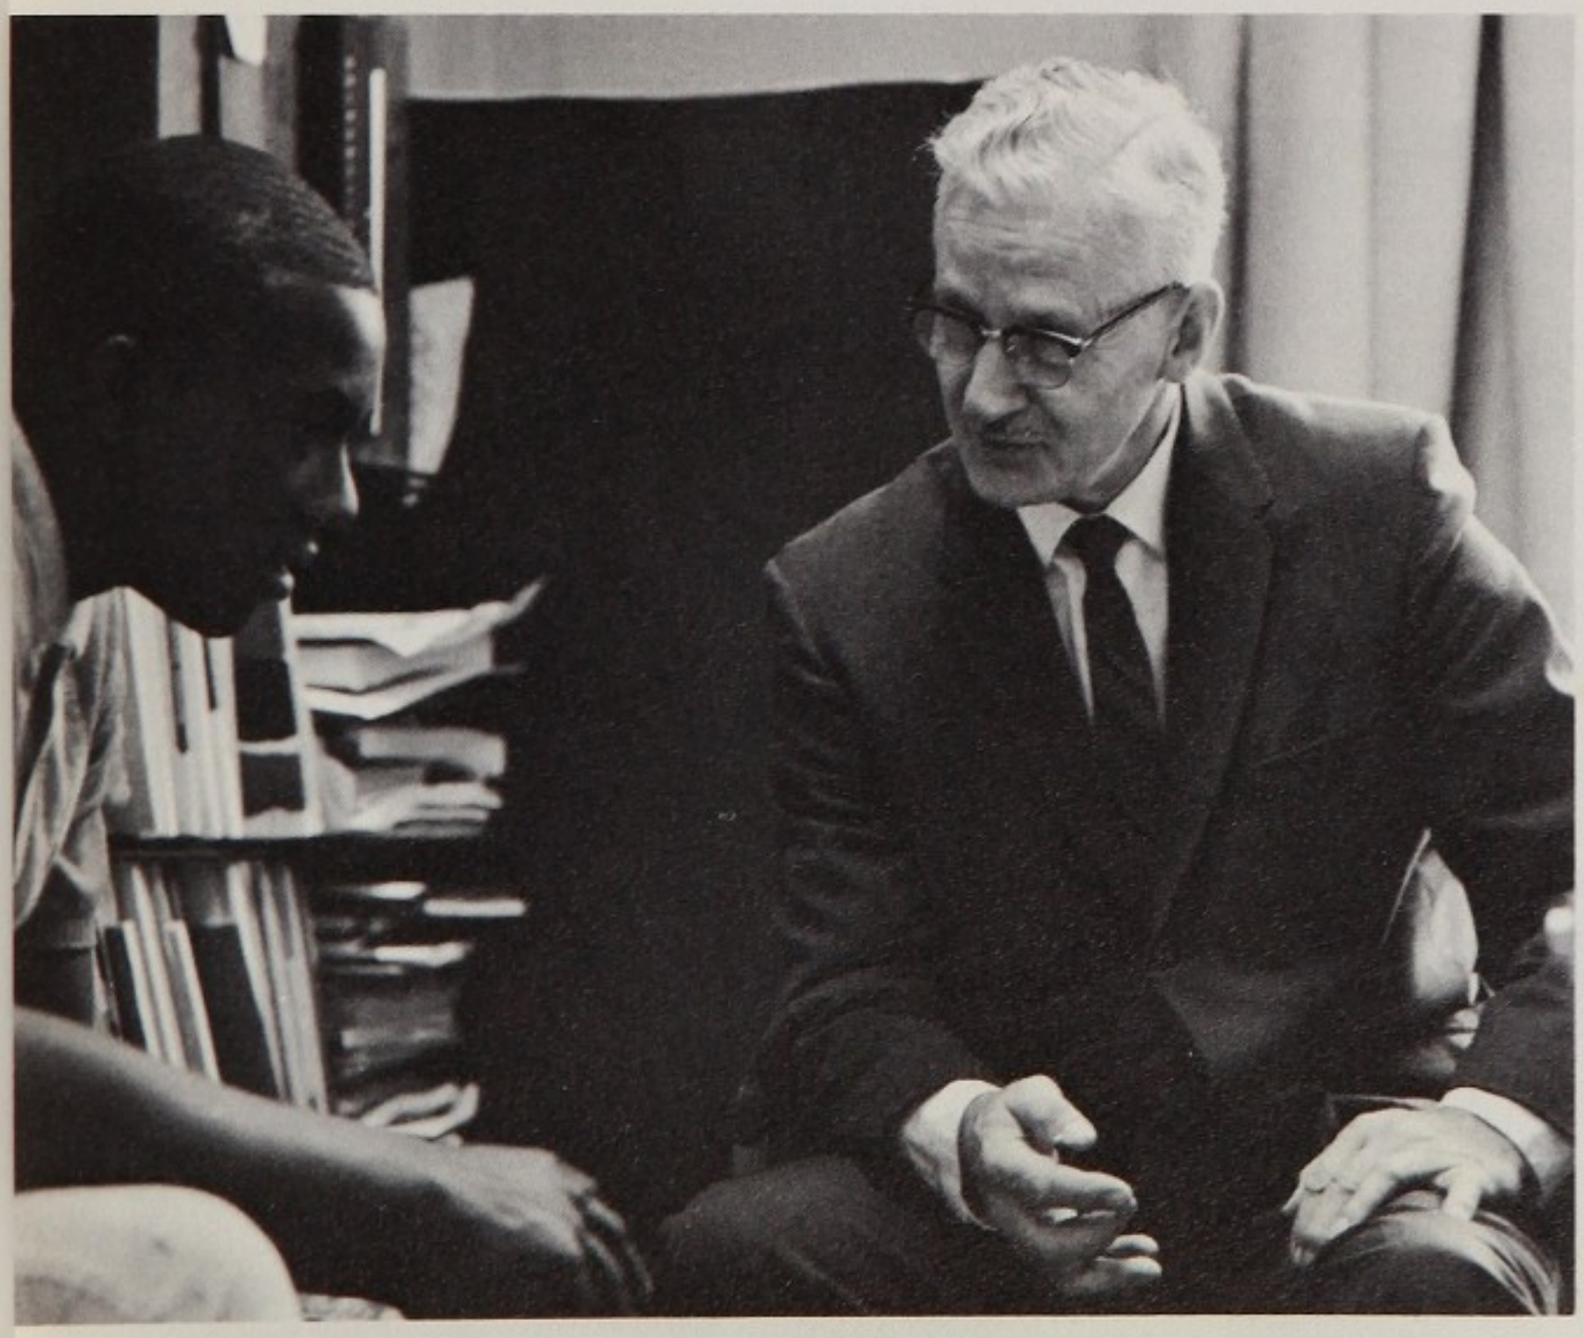
Mrs. Ruth Straight, as the senior advisor, helps Jim Louwsma with college requirements.



The whole counseling system has undergone a remodeling this year. The staff makes a distinction between class counselors and advisors. The class counselors are the same as the former advisors. They counsel students on educational plans and are available to both homeroom teachers and students for advice. One advisor helps each class to co-ordinate requirements for graduation with curriculum.

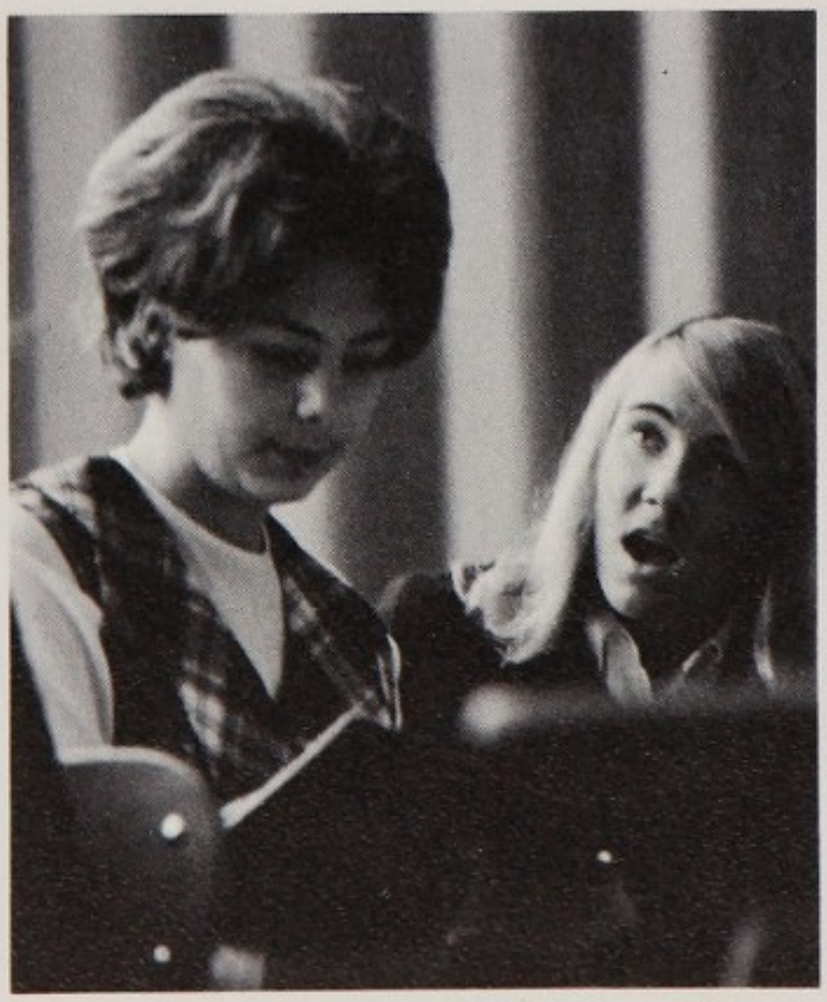
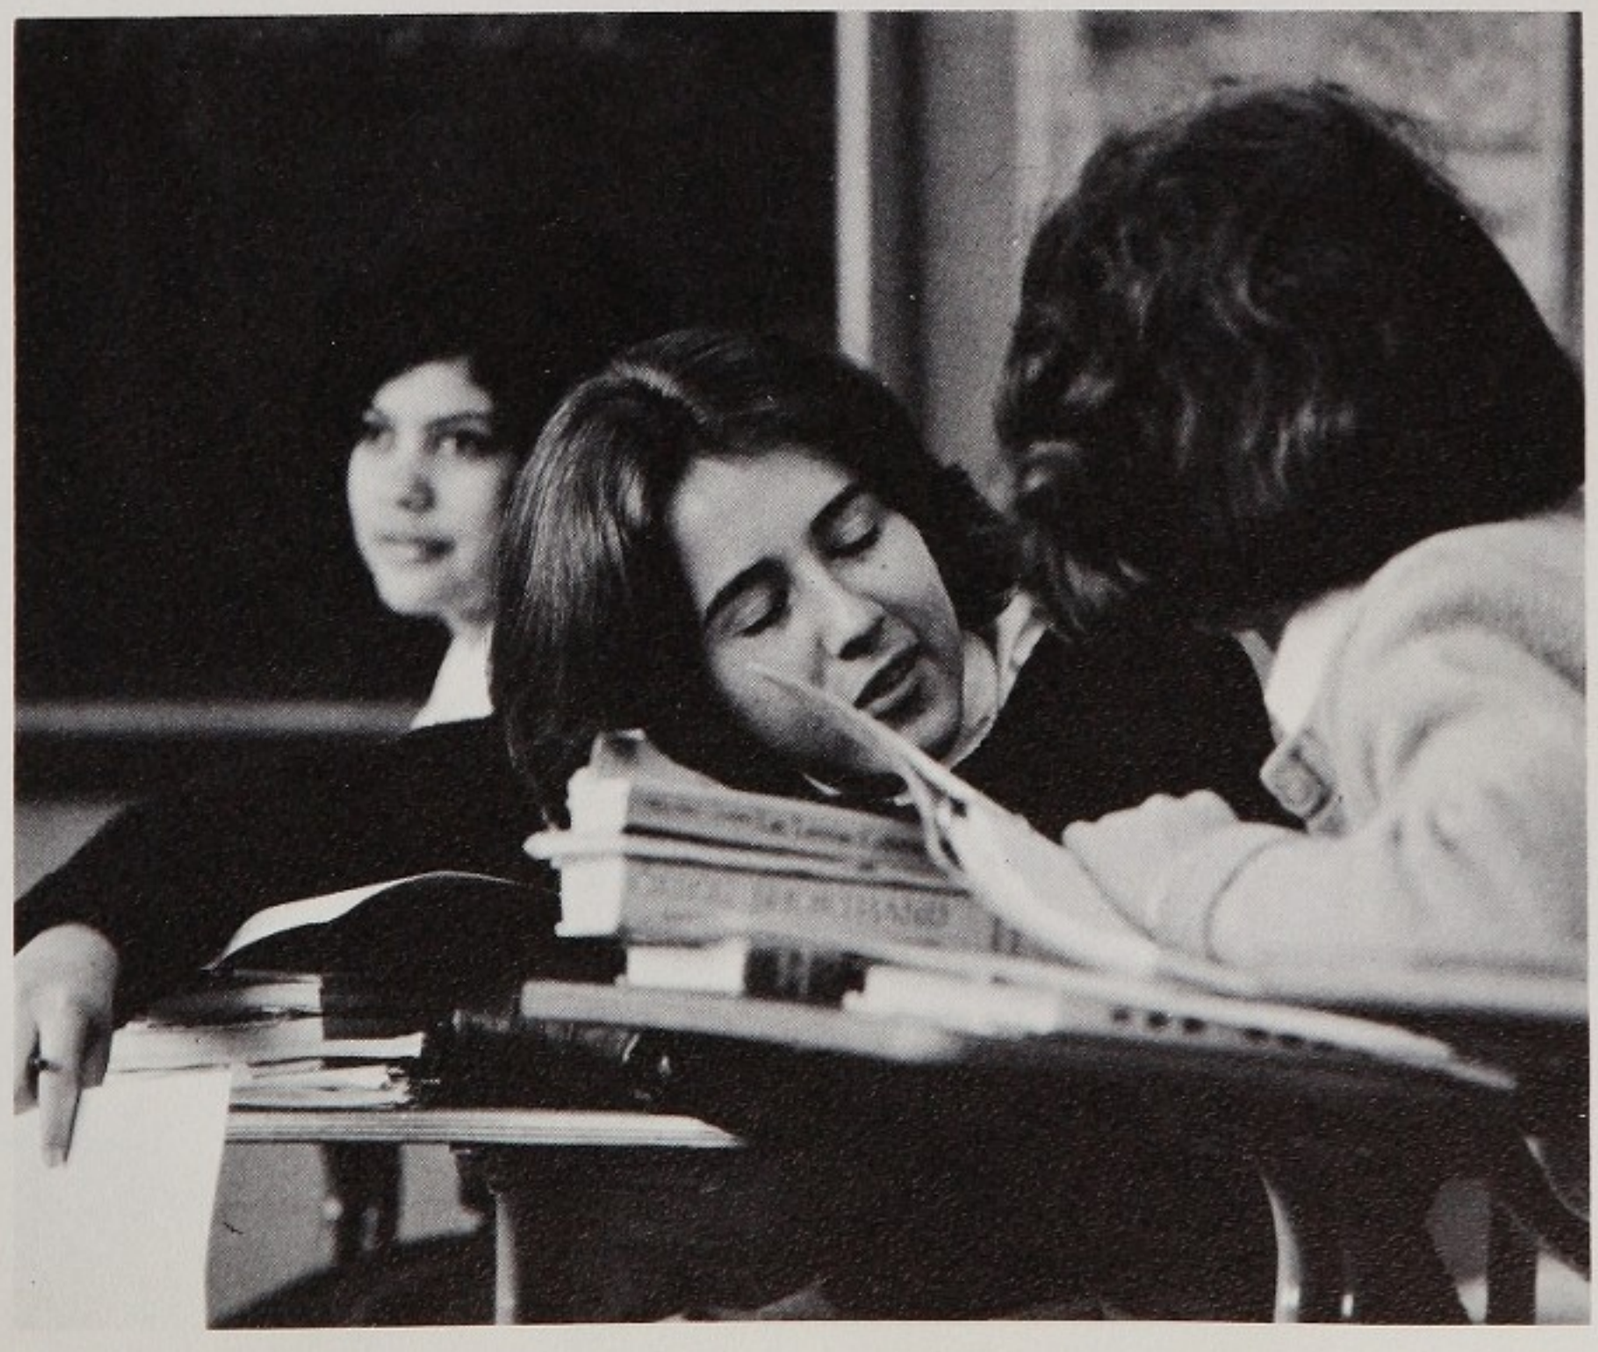
The English Department stresses clarity of thought through writing.

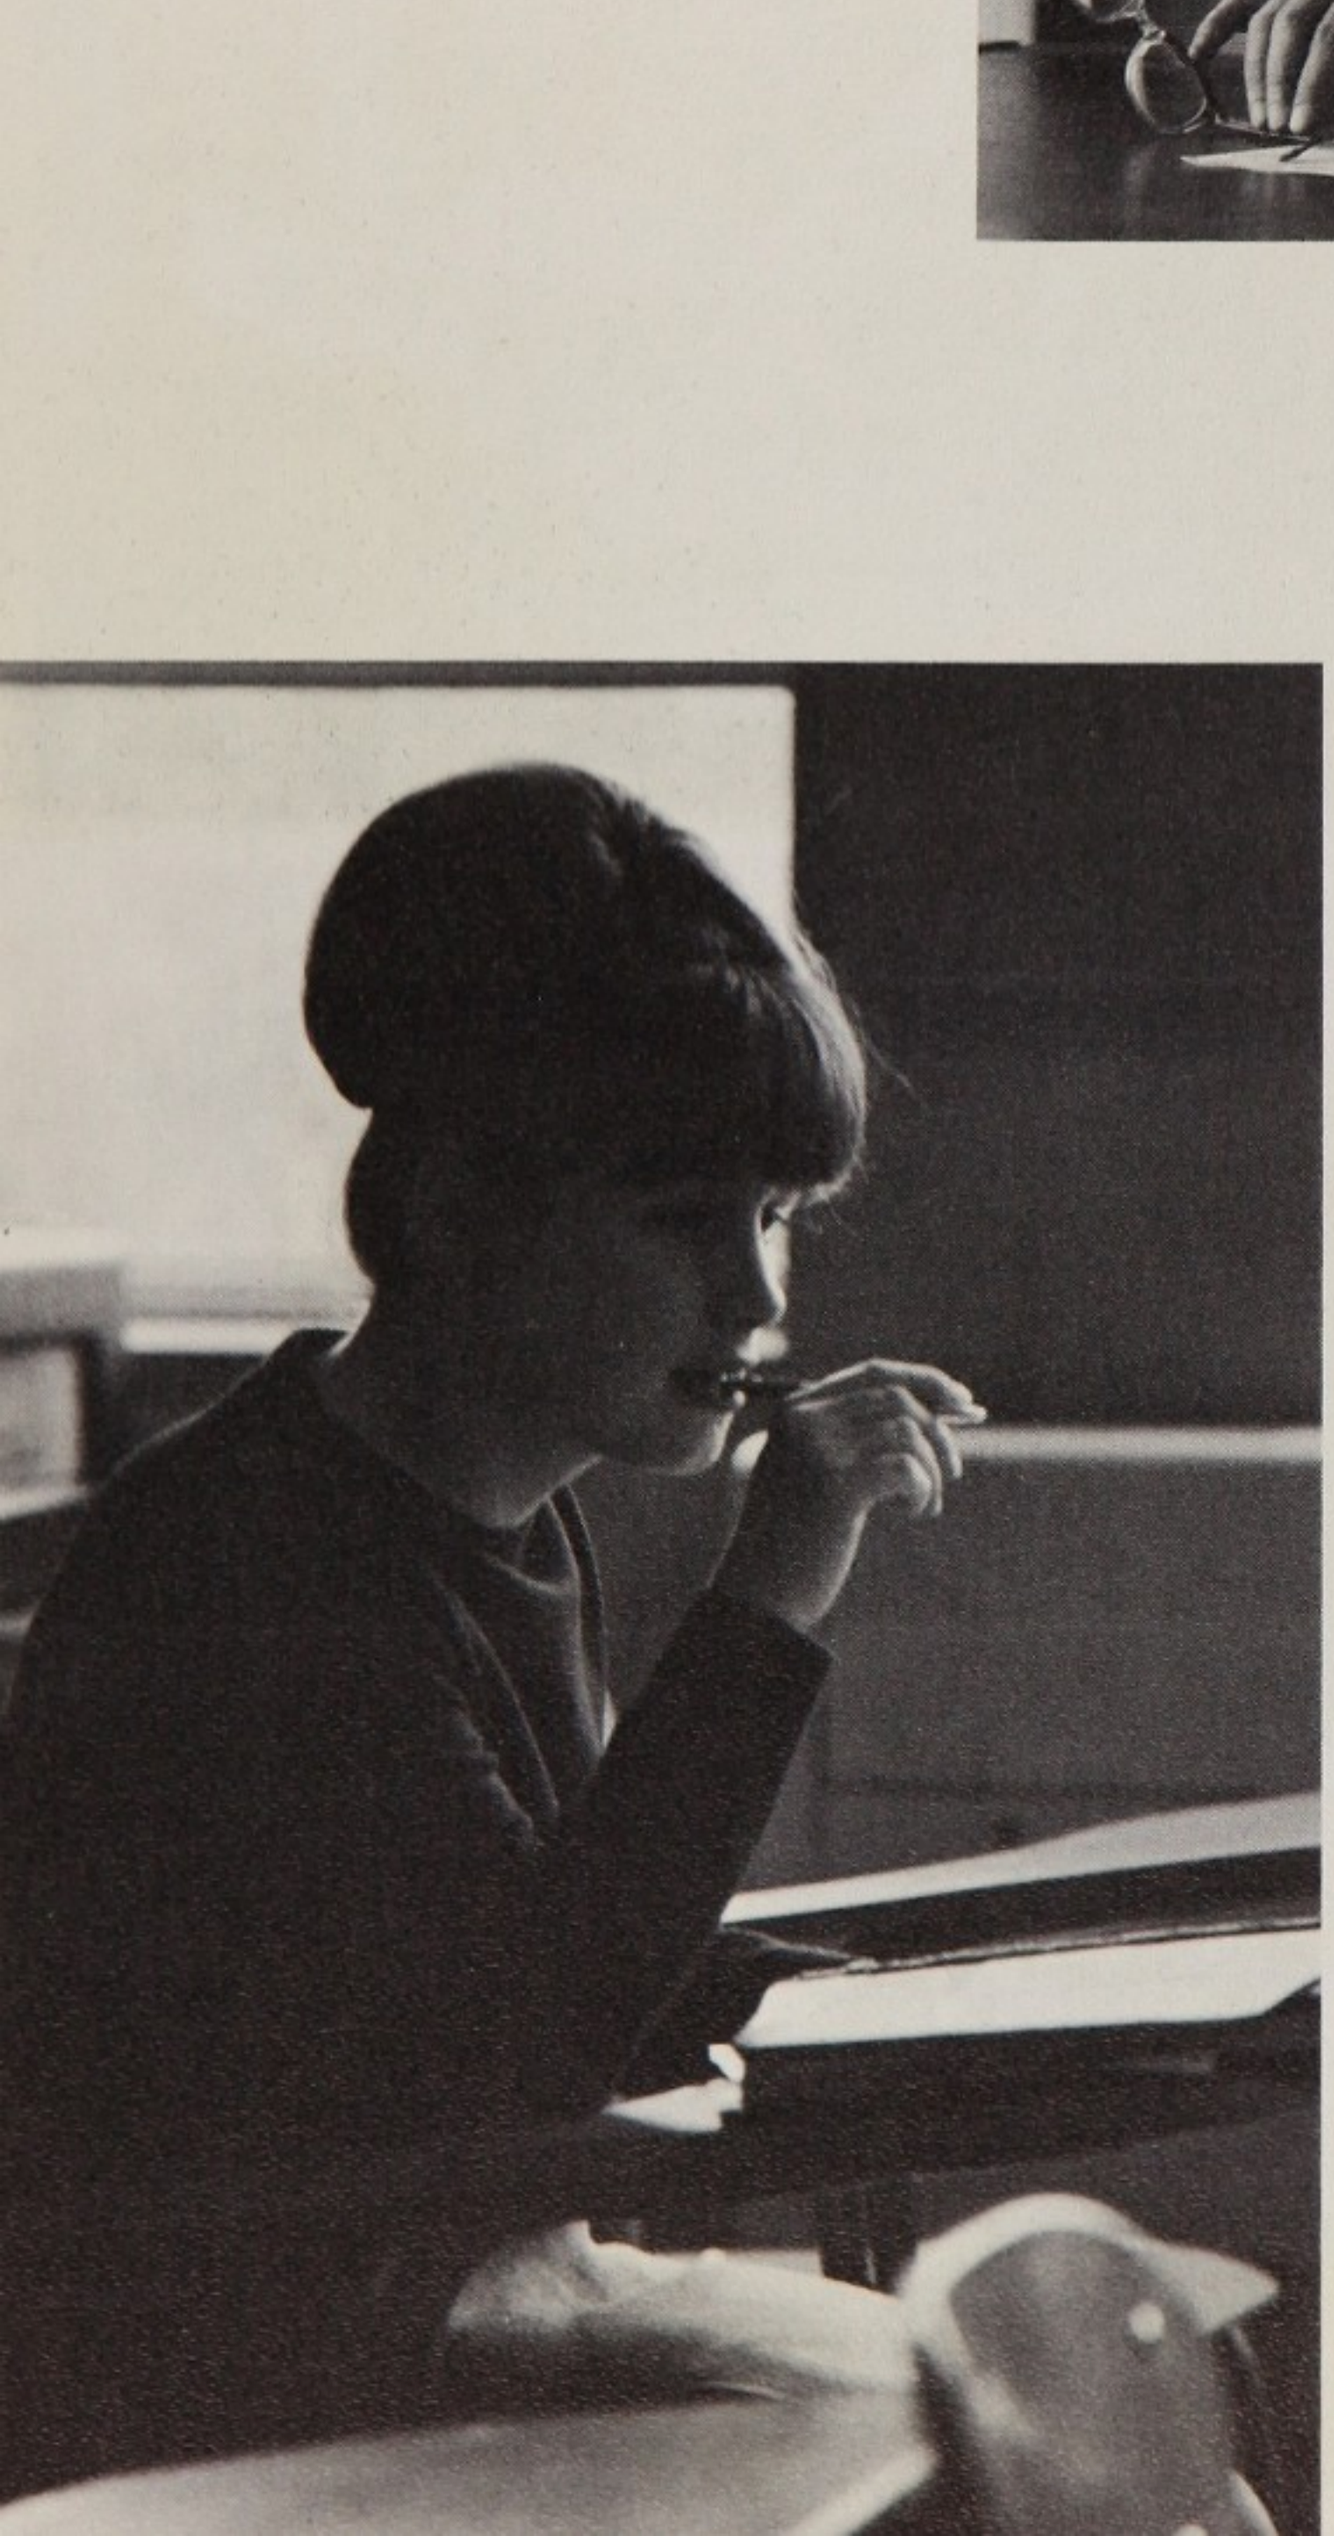


Aside from the usual English courses, the English department this year is offering creative writing and journalism. As the name implies, creative writing offers those students interested in developing a creative potential in writing a chance to do so. Poetry as well as the short, short story is studied and written. Creative writing gives the student a chance to express thoughts and ideas otherwise left unexpressed in the ordinary English classes. In journalism the student studies the history of various types of communication and does quite a bit of writing. The purpose of this course is to create better writers and intelligent readers and listeners. Another new course offered under the auspices of the English department is American culture. This course is much like humanities in that it is taught by a team of teachers and includes art, music, and English. American history is also included in this course and fulfills the history requirement for graduation.



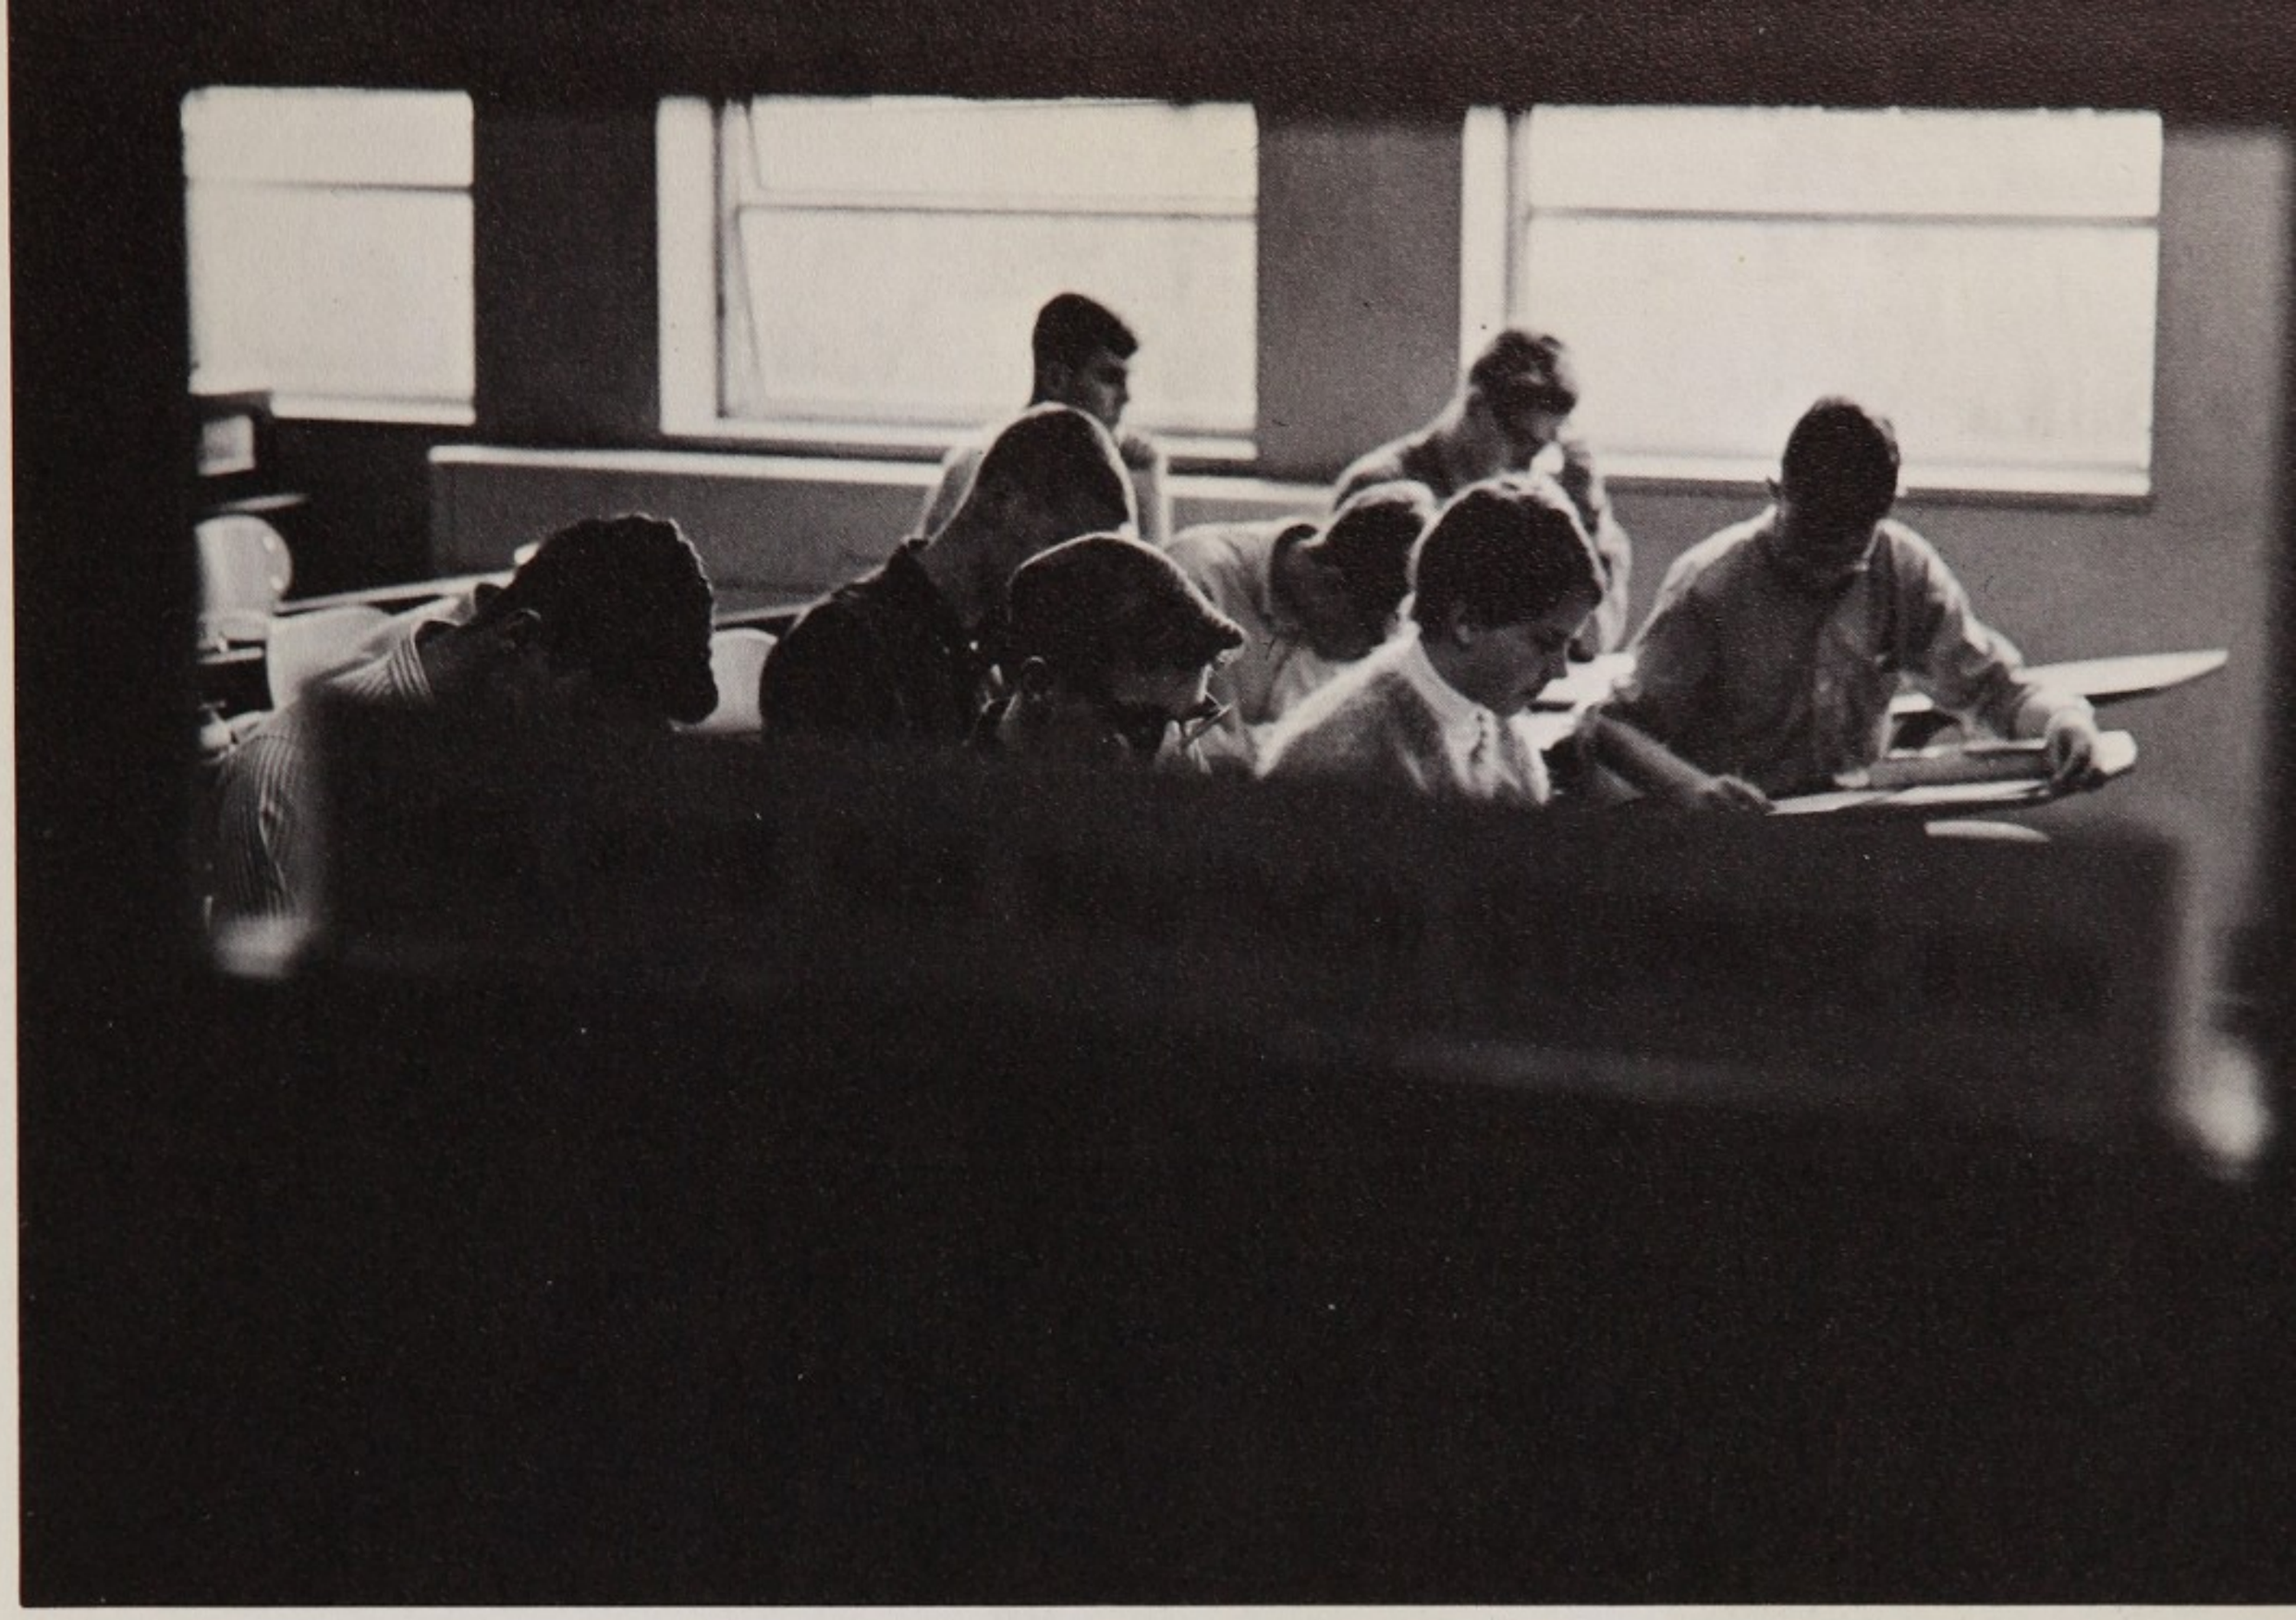
Foreign Languages

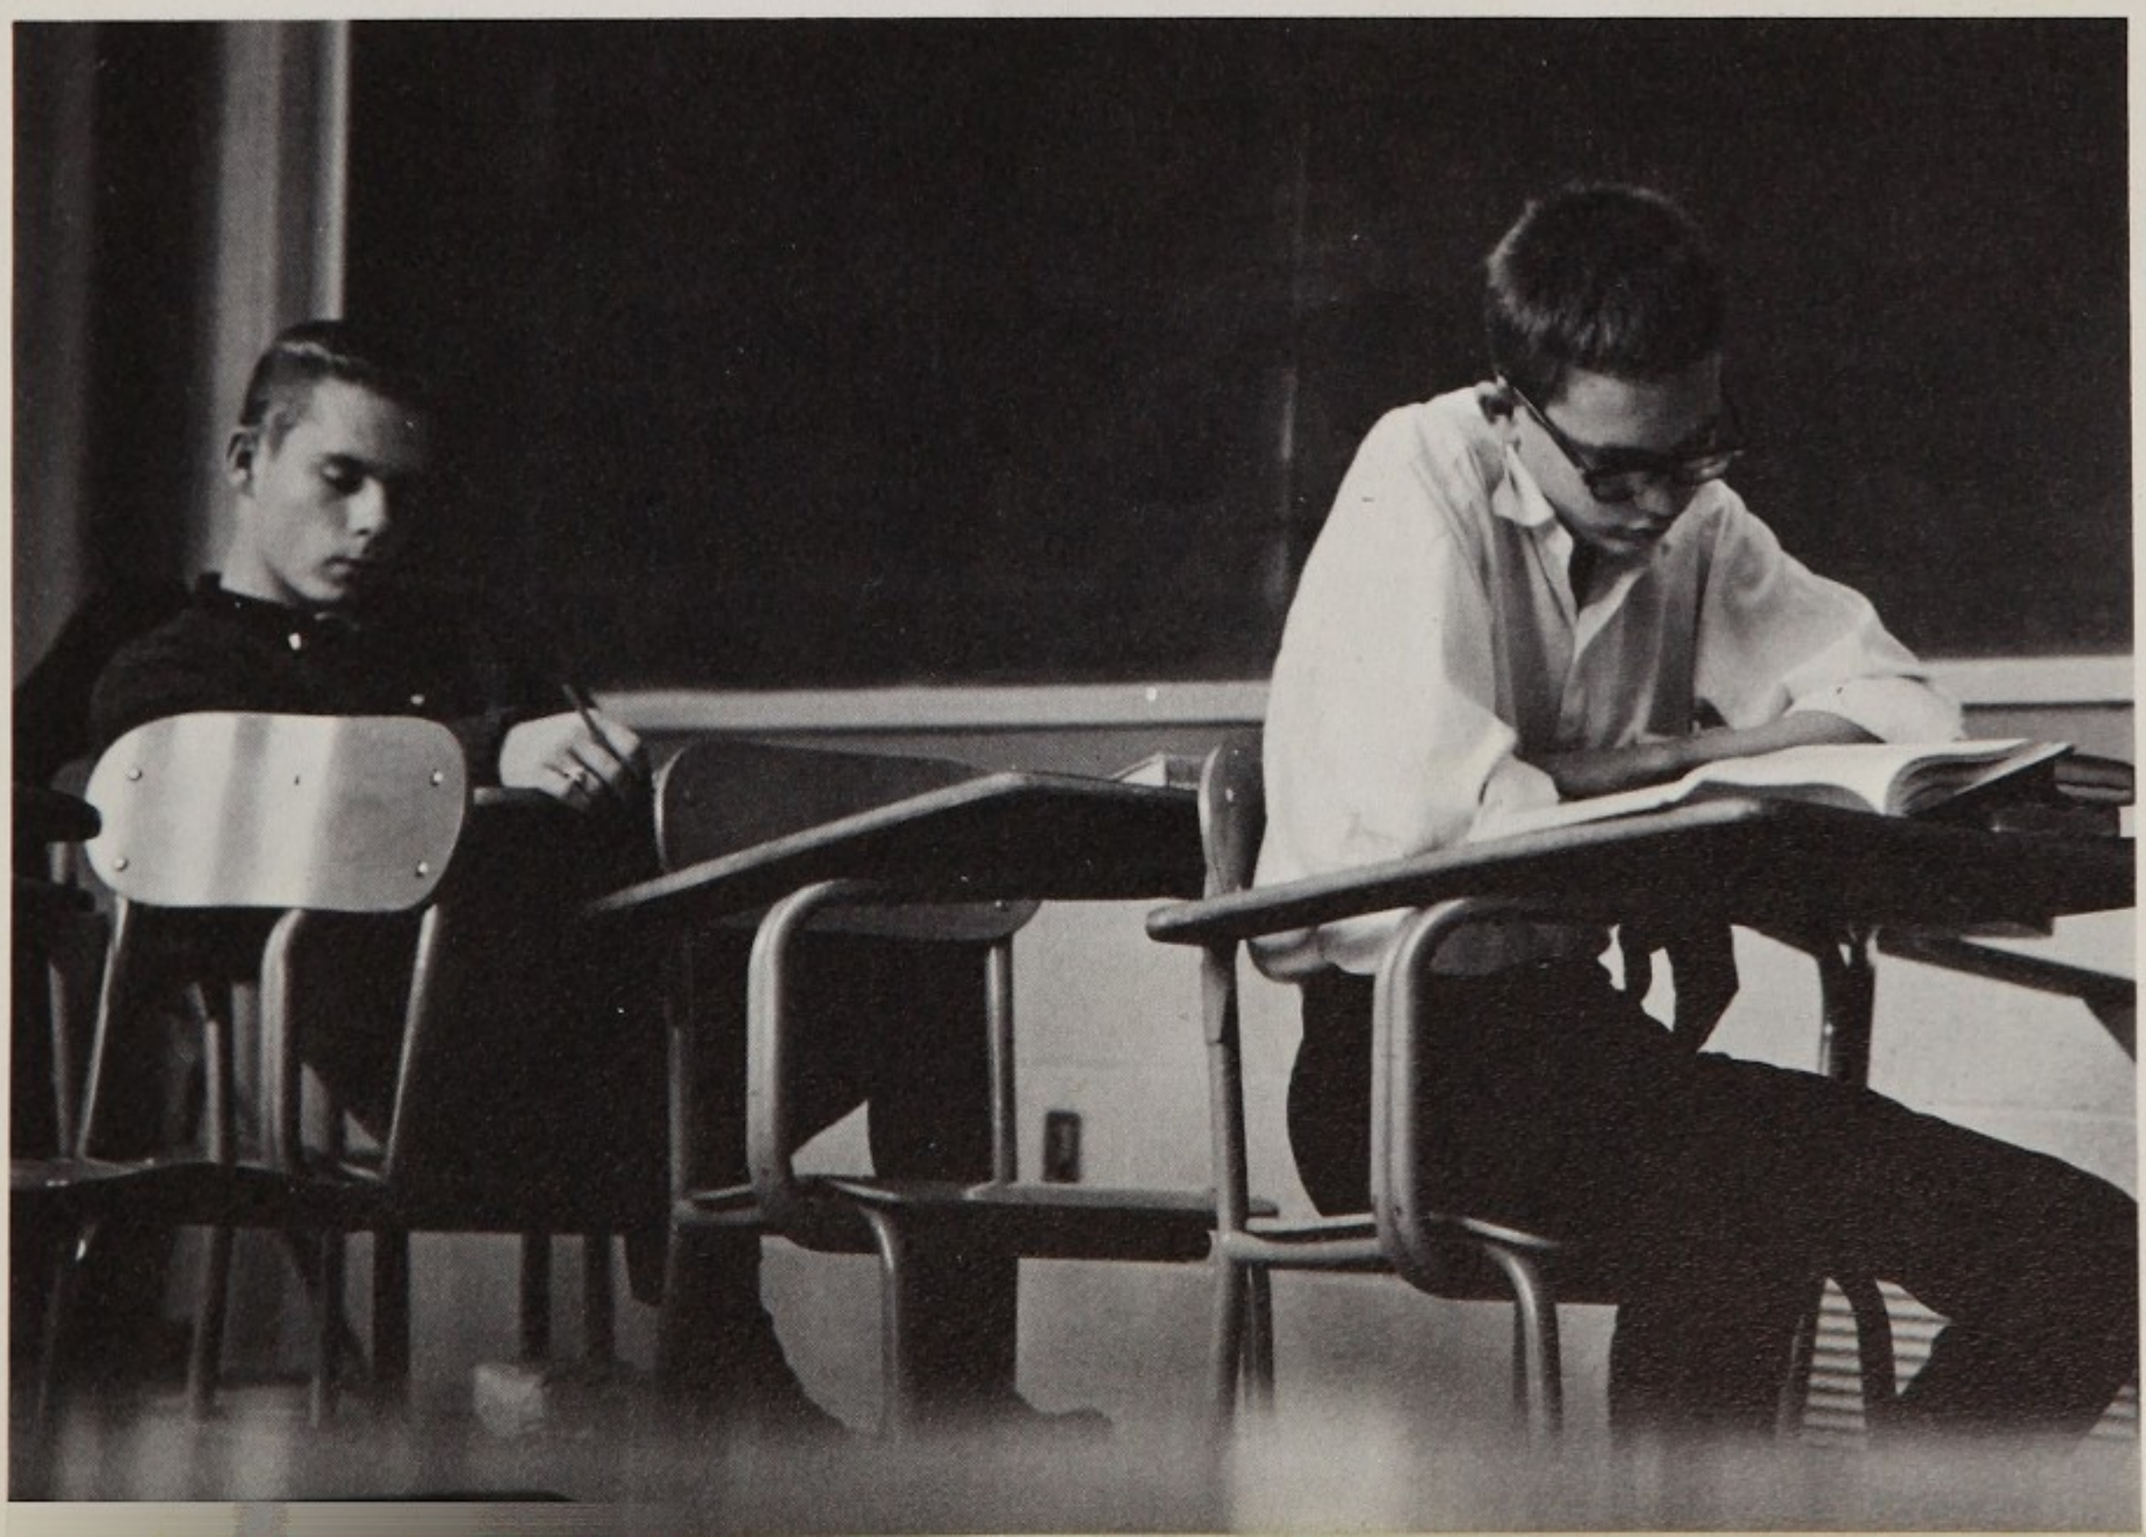
introduce new worlds.



The language department offers a variety of languages for a variety of interests. Those who wish to study a classical language may take Latin. The other languages are: French, German, Russian, and Spanish. These four modern languages stress the spoken and written word and include studies of the literature. The language laboratory helps students who are studying modern languages to speak with facility.

The head of the department is Mr. Roger Swanson.





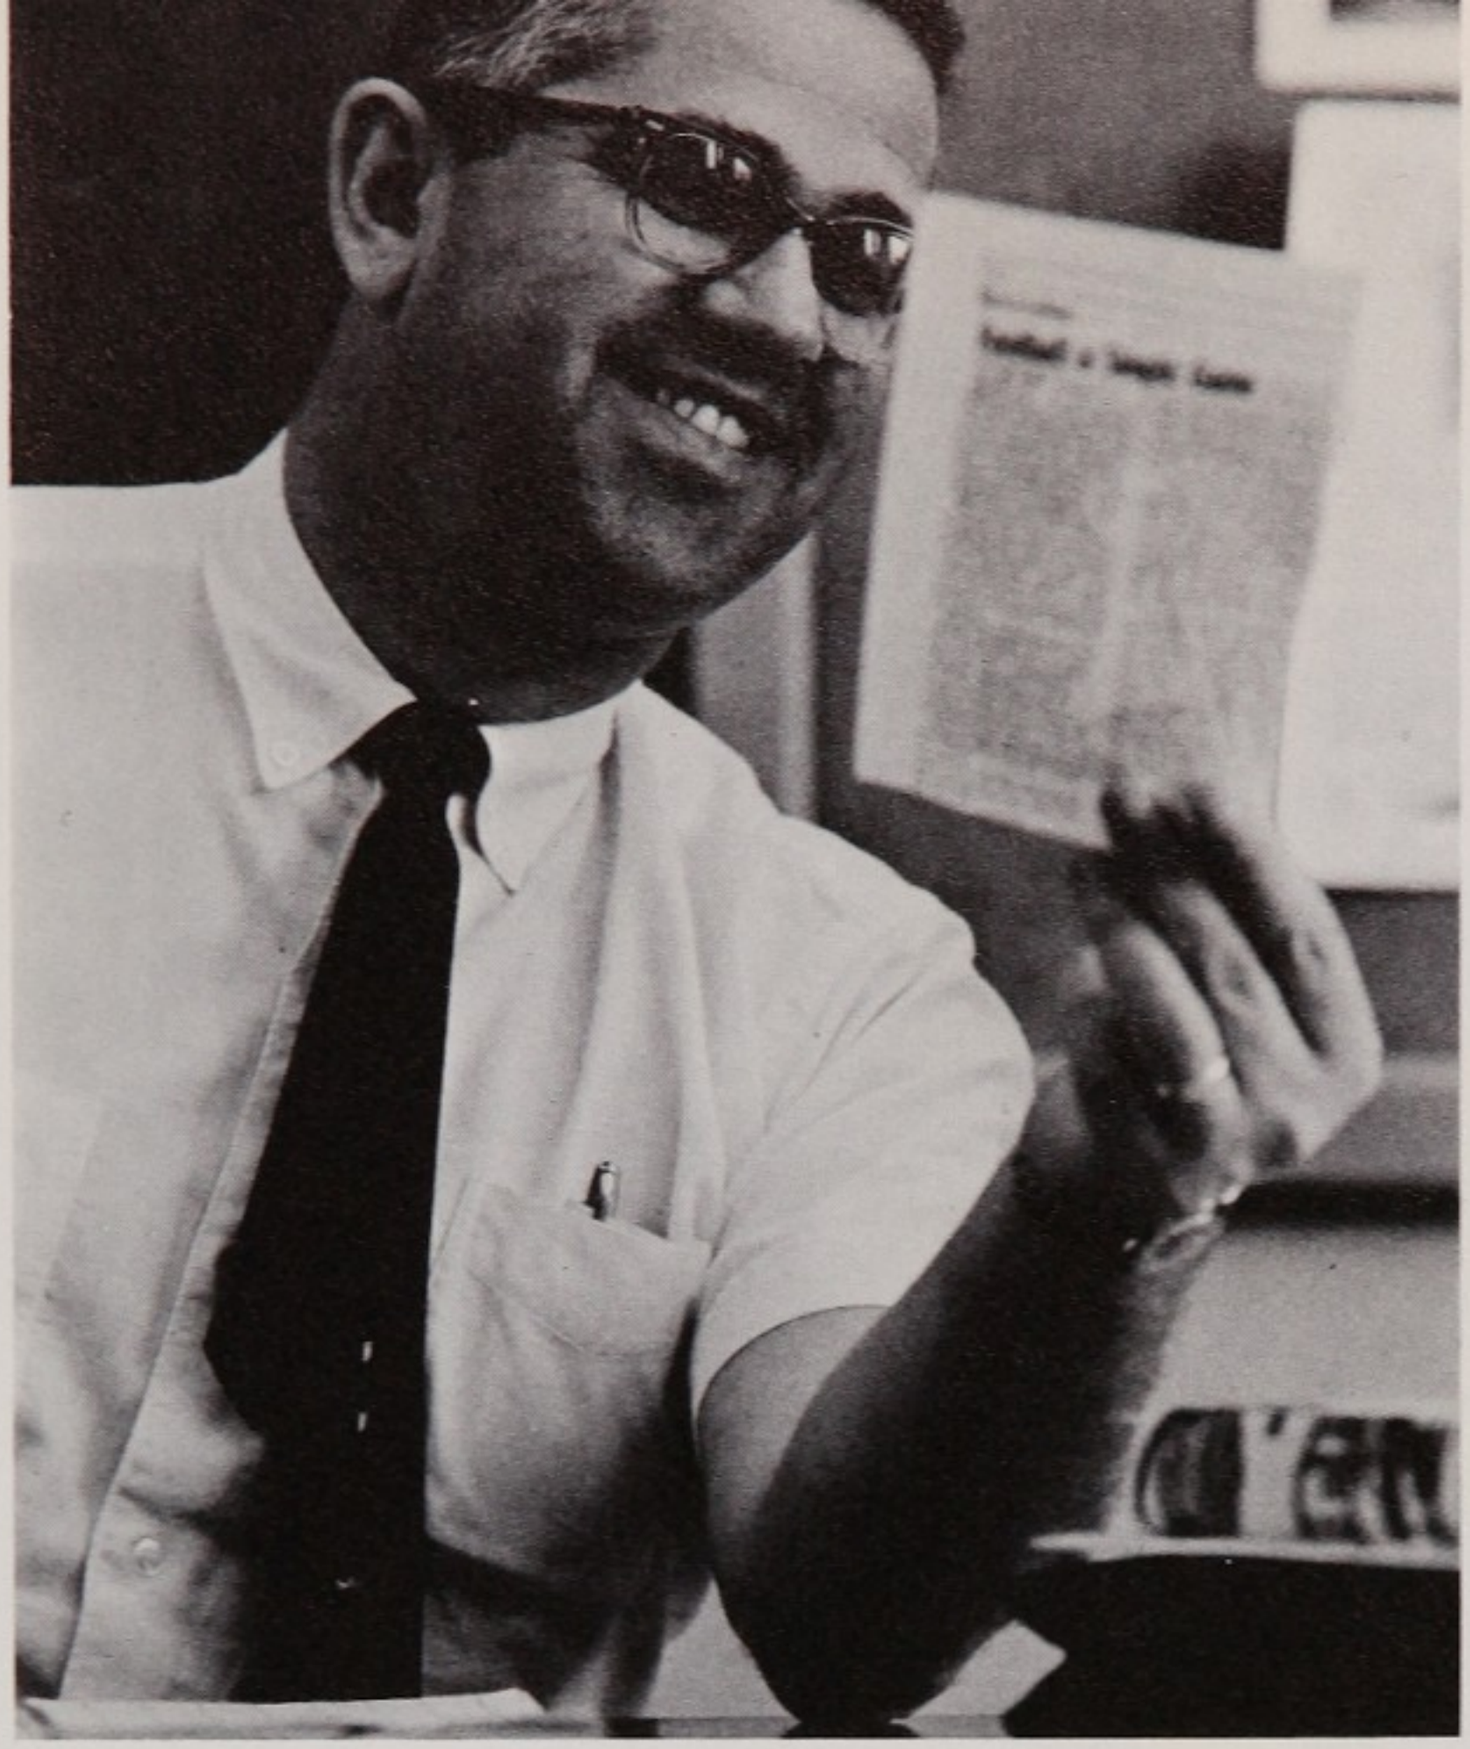
The social studies department offers a wide range of courses in its aim to promote the student into thinking about and interpreting world and domestic problems.

Past history may be studied in such courses as world history and American history. Current history may be studied in modern history, international relations, geography, economics, and American government. Areas of the domestic nature of the social studies field may be studied in family living and social problems.

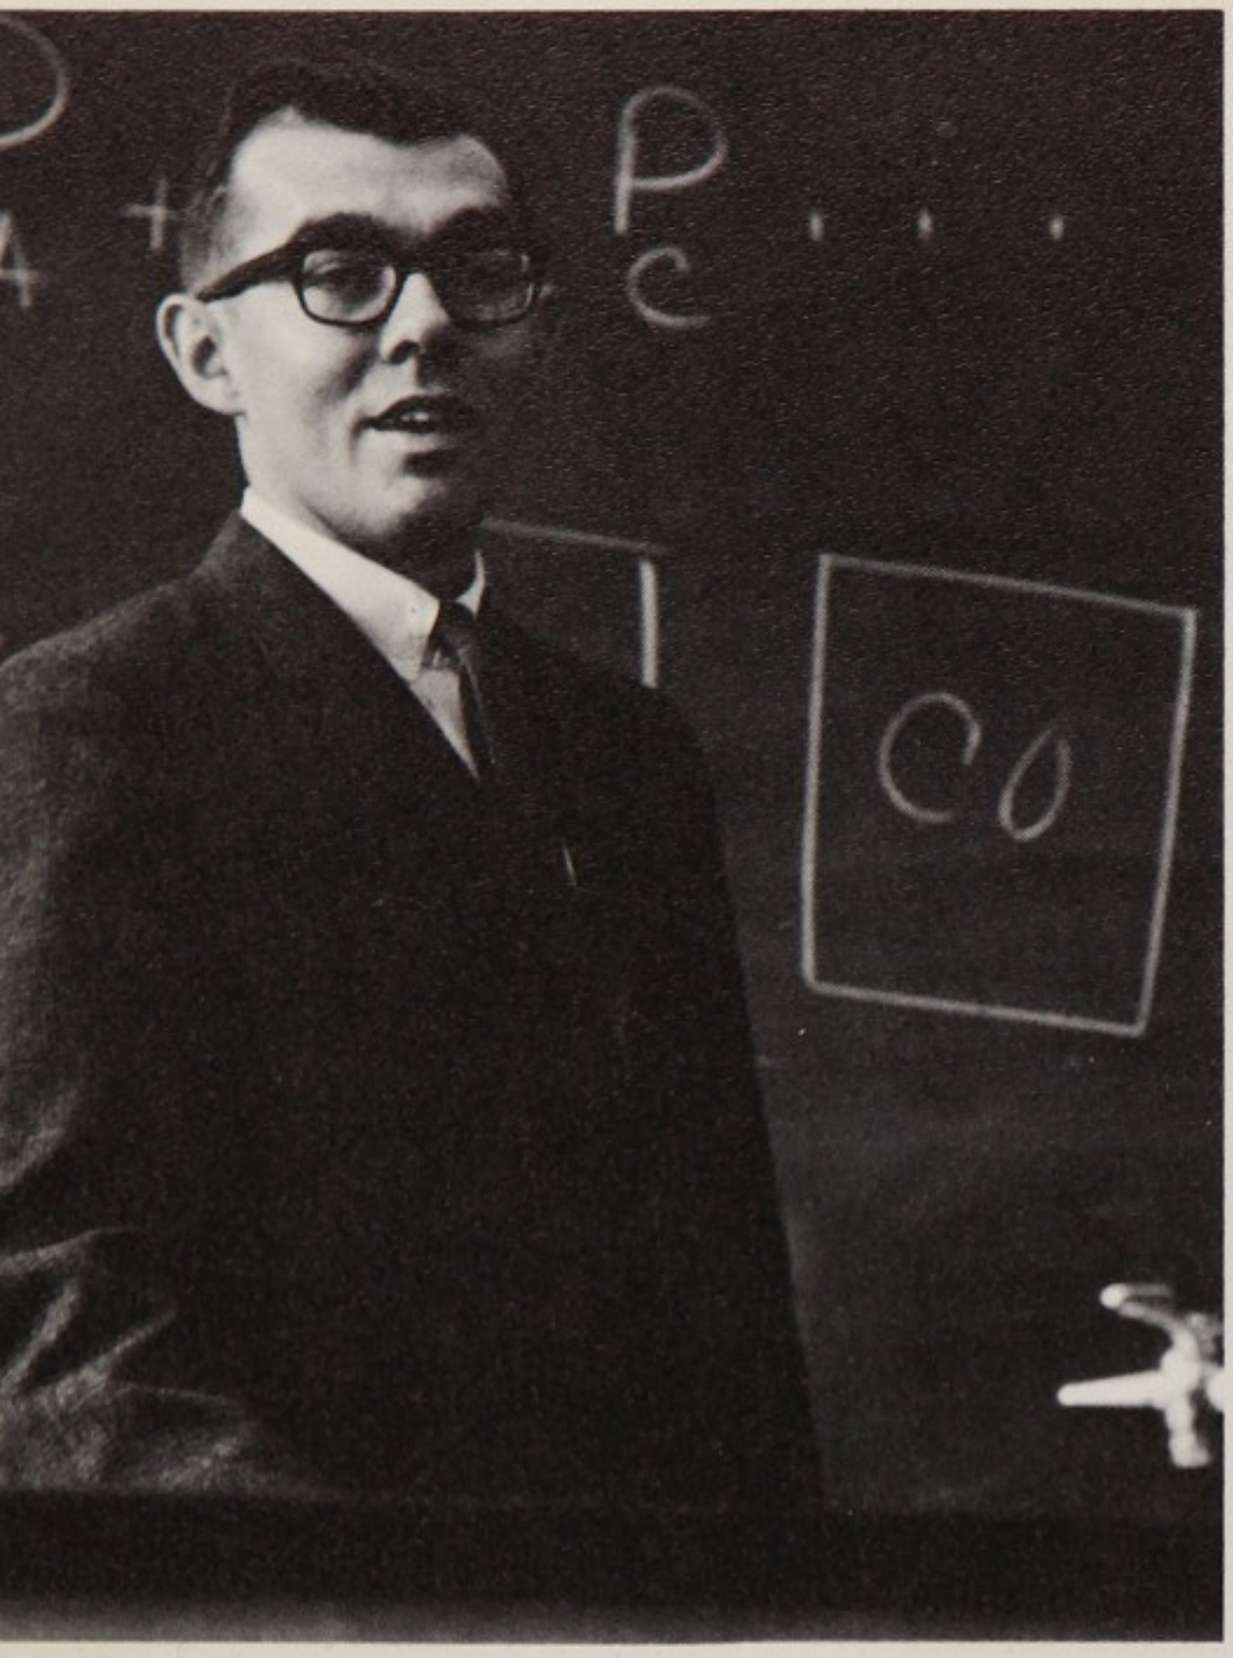
Through study in these courses one is able to see the relationship between past and current history, for the separation between the two cannot be clearly defined.

Mr. Donald Schultz is the chairman of the department.

Social Studies



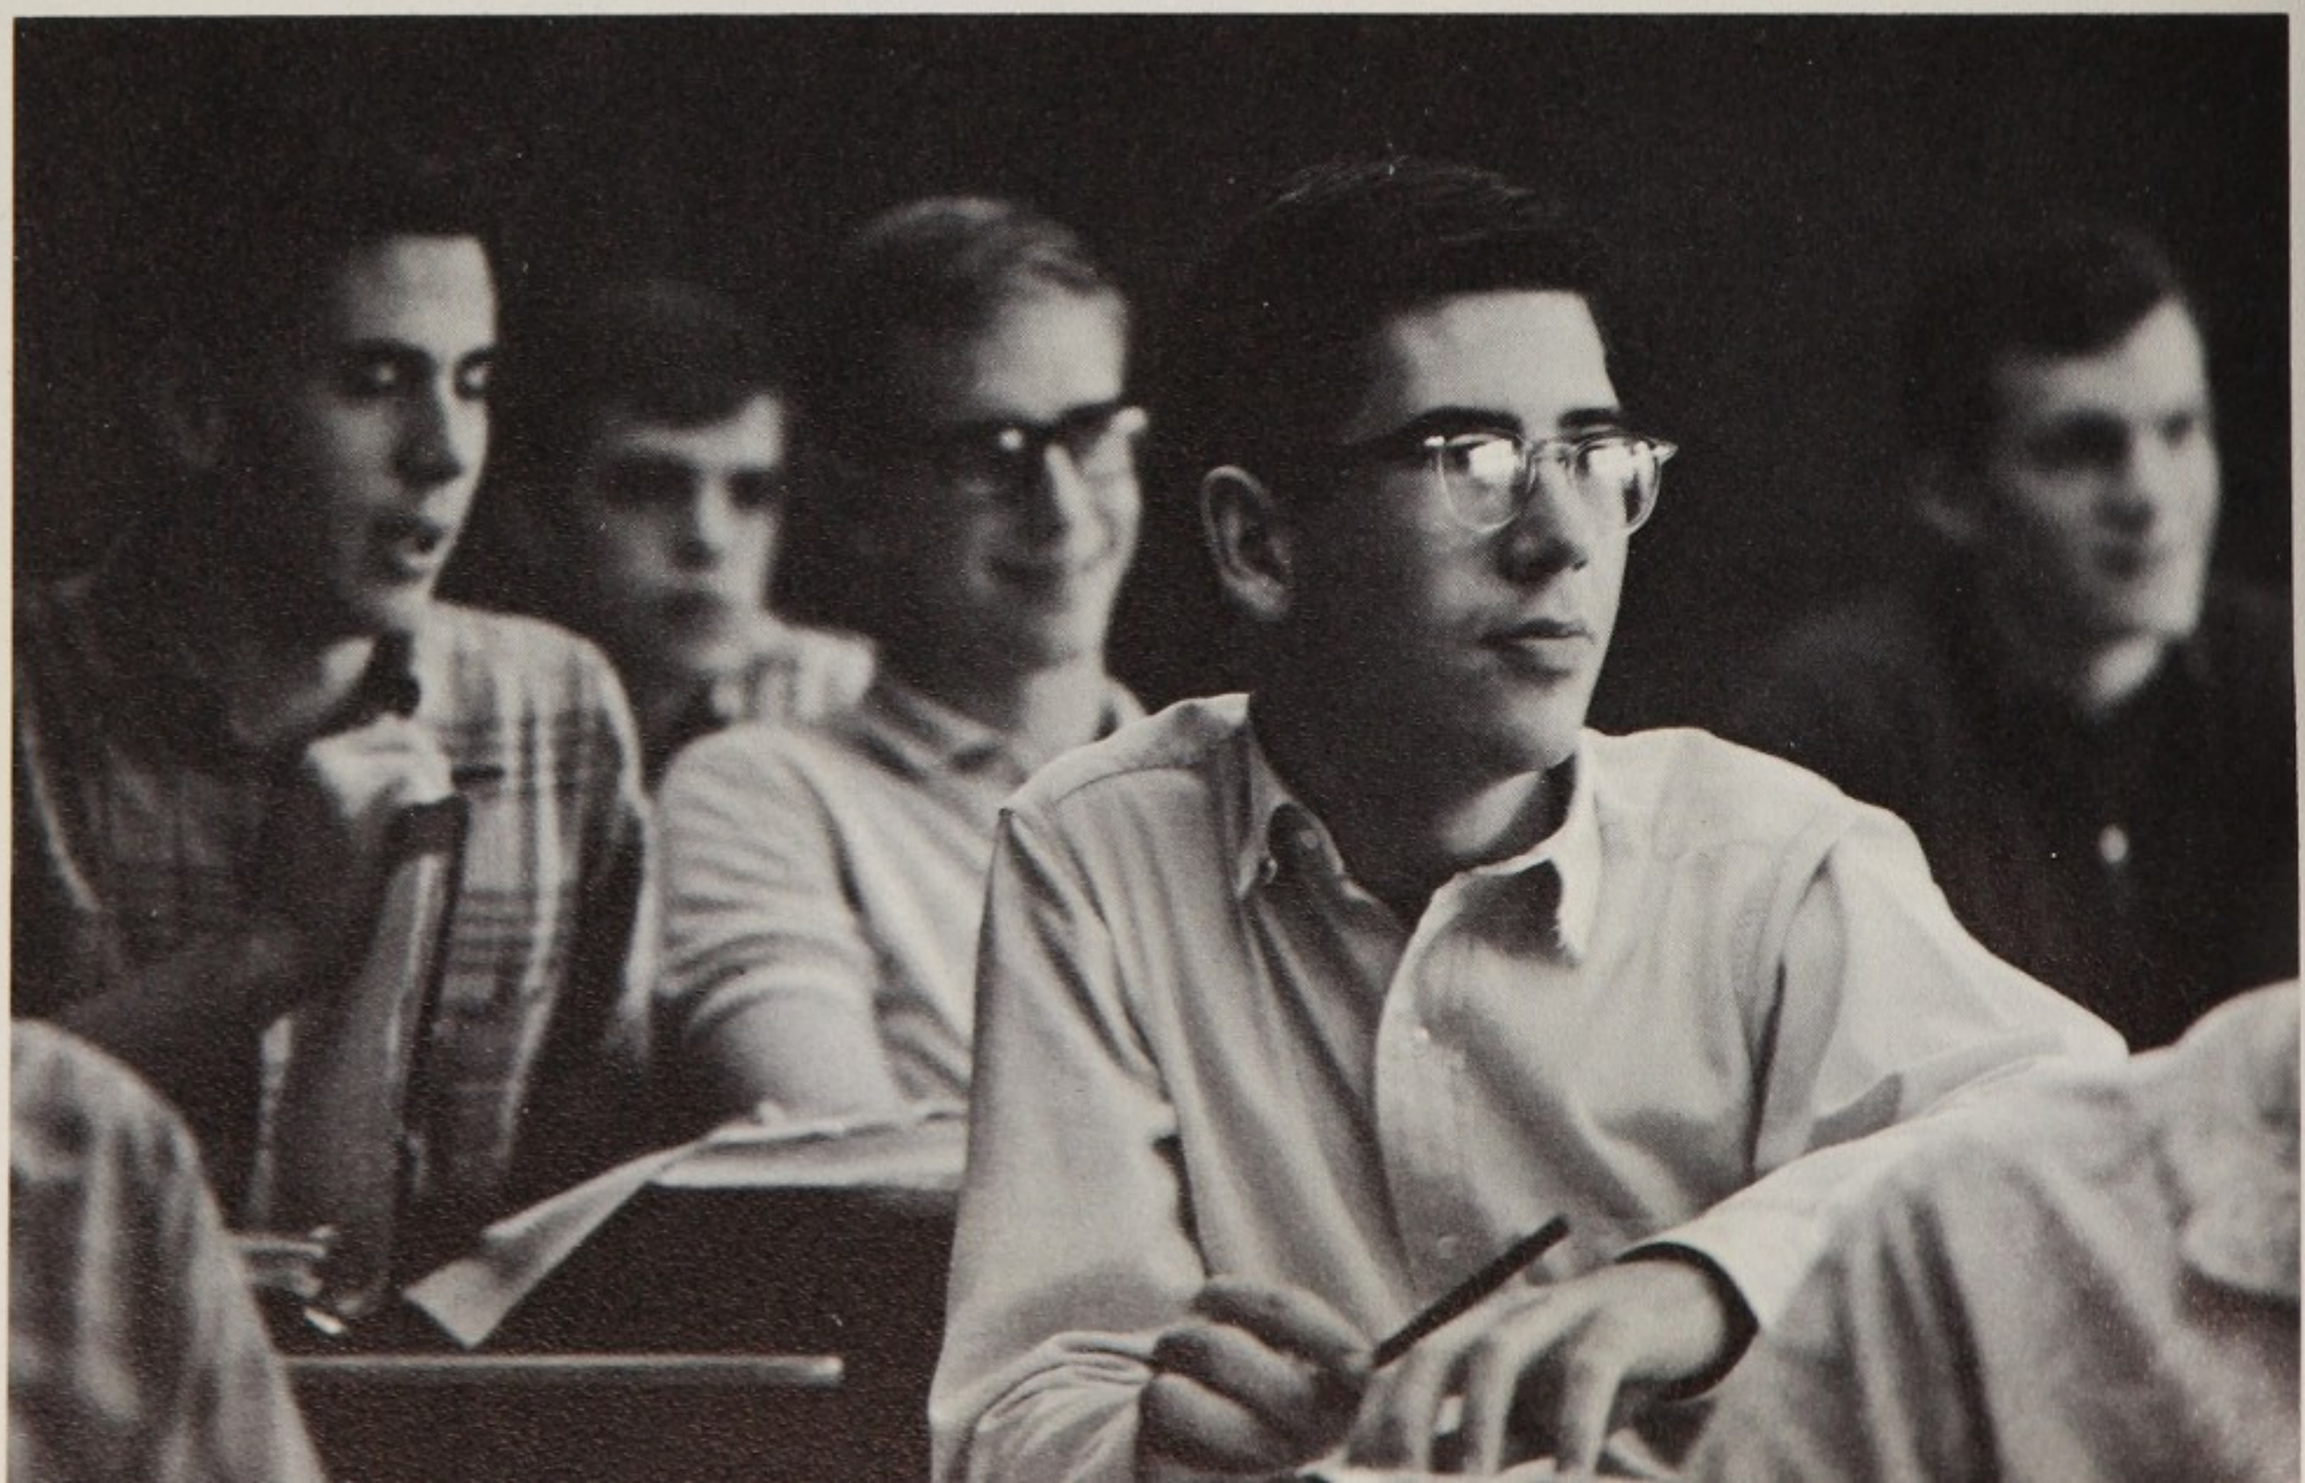
provides a background for current events.

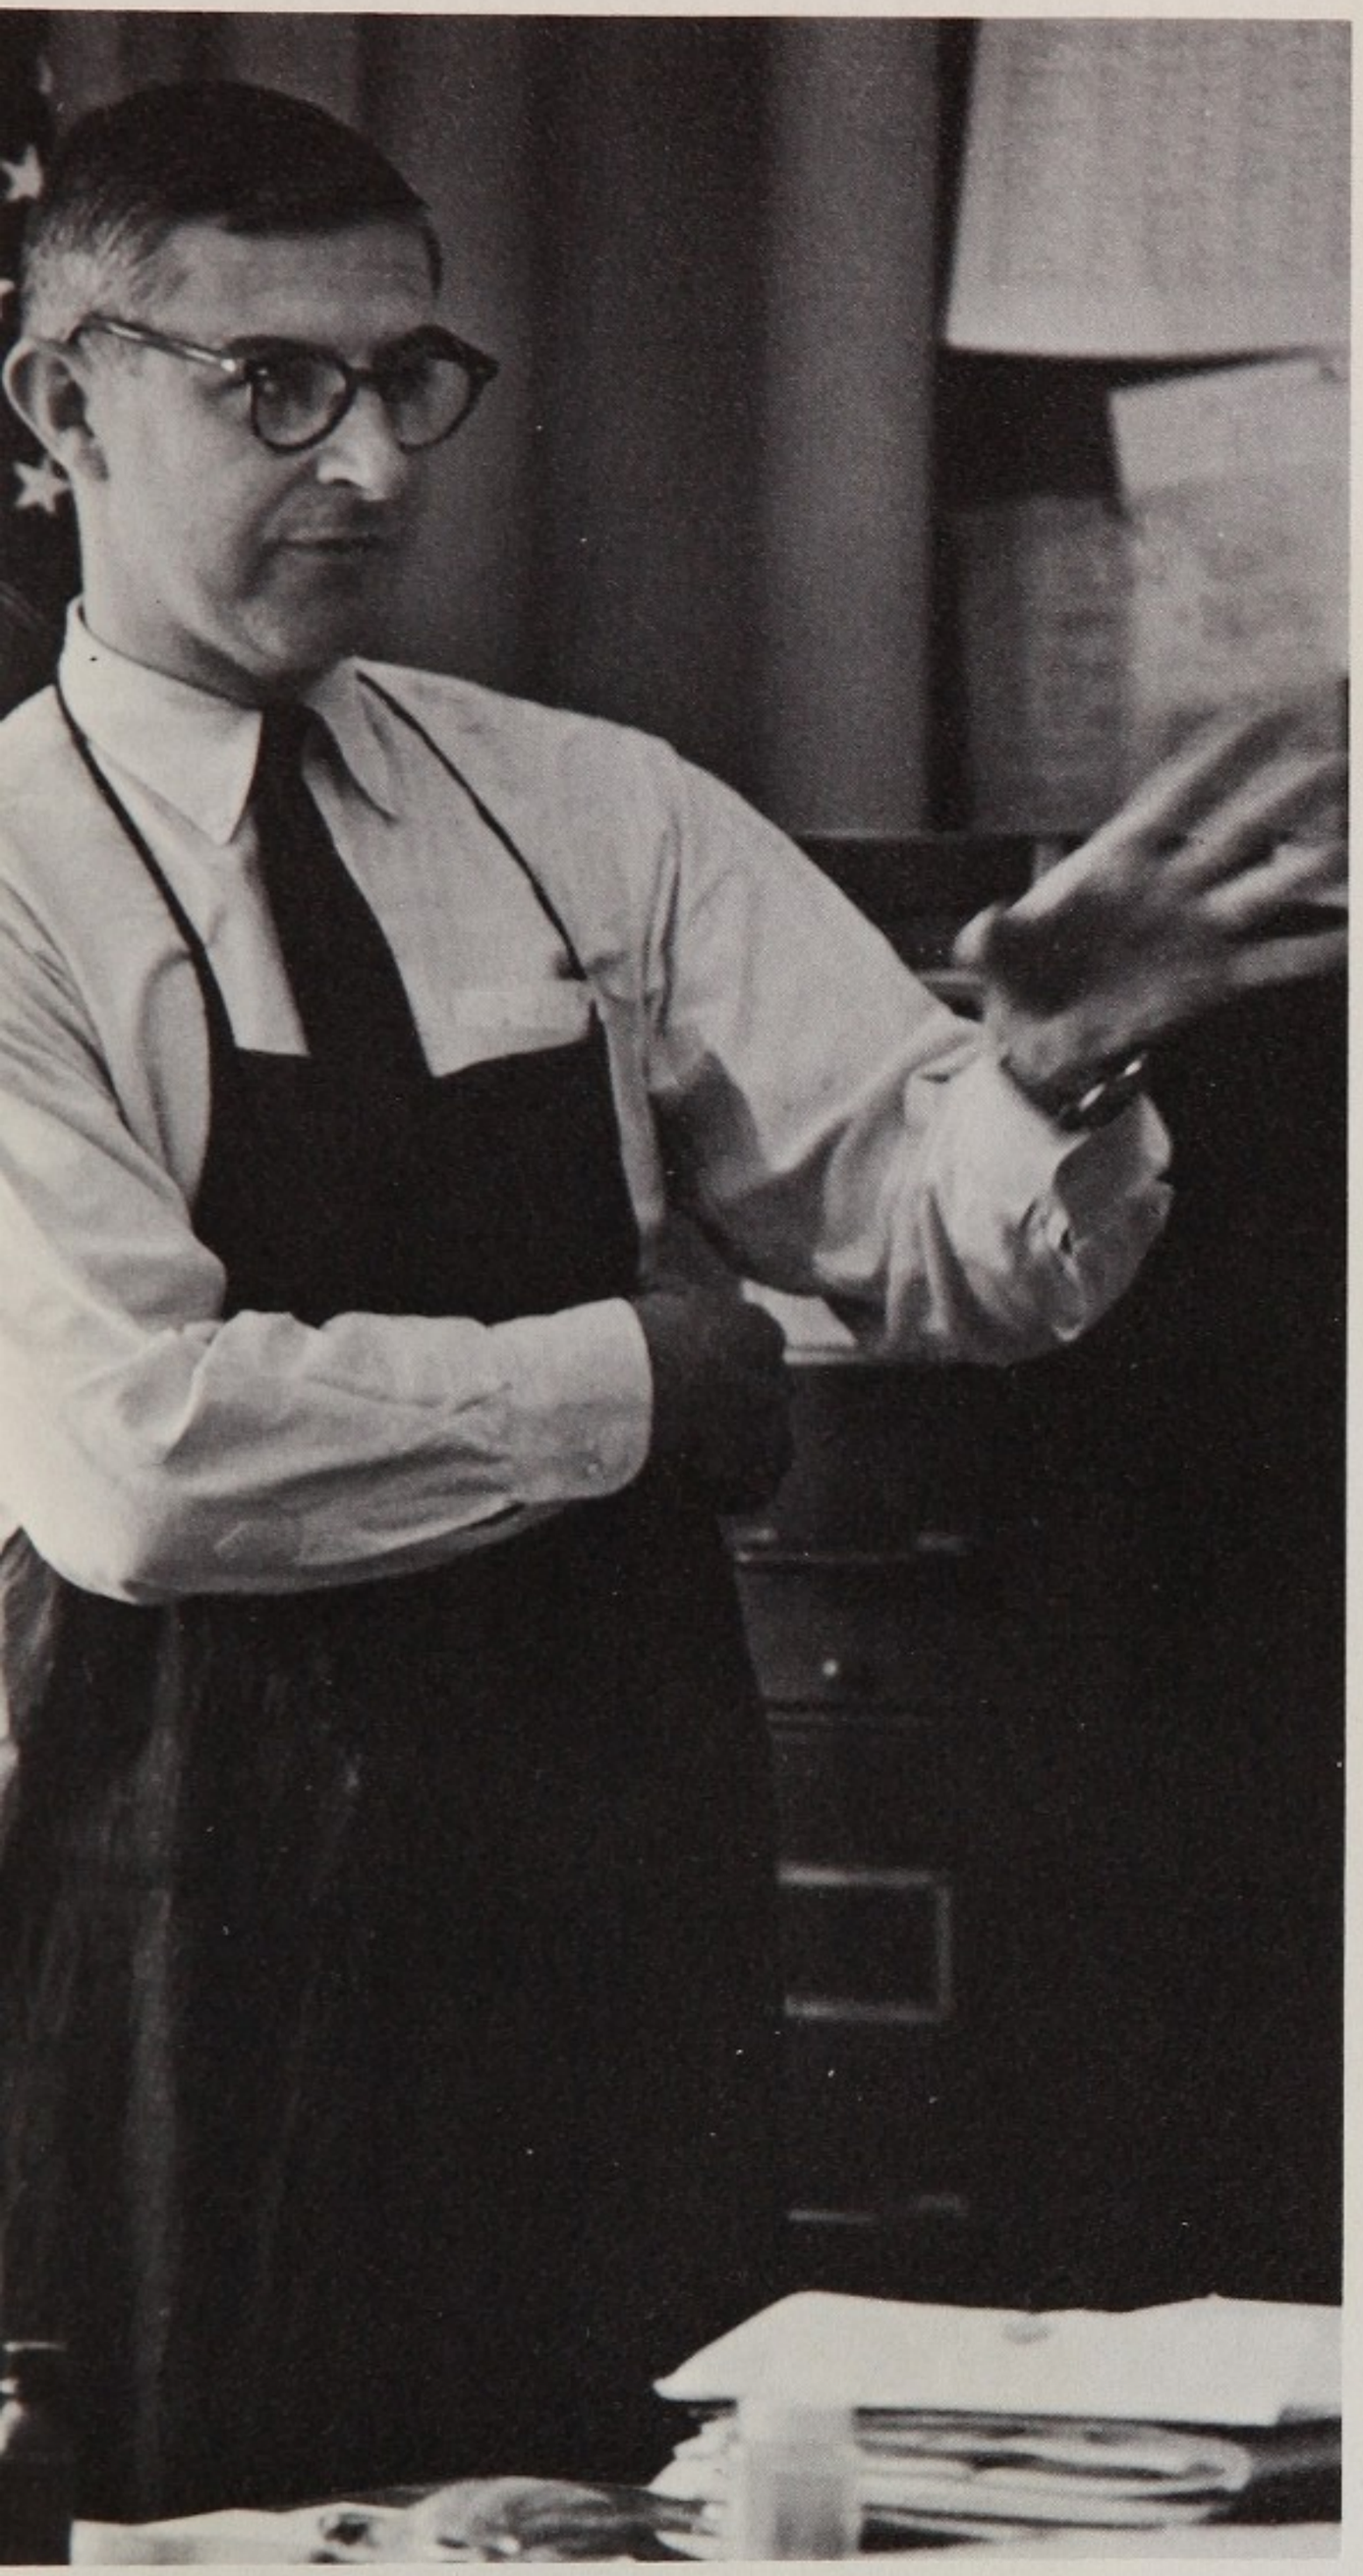


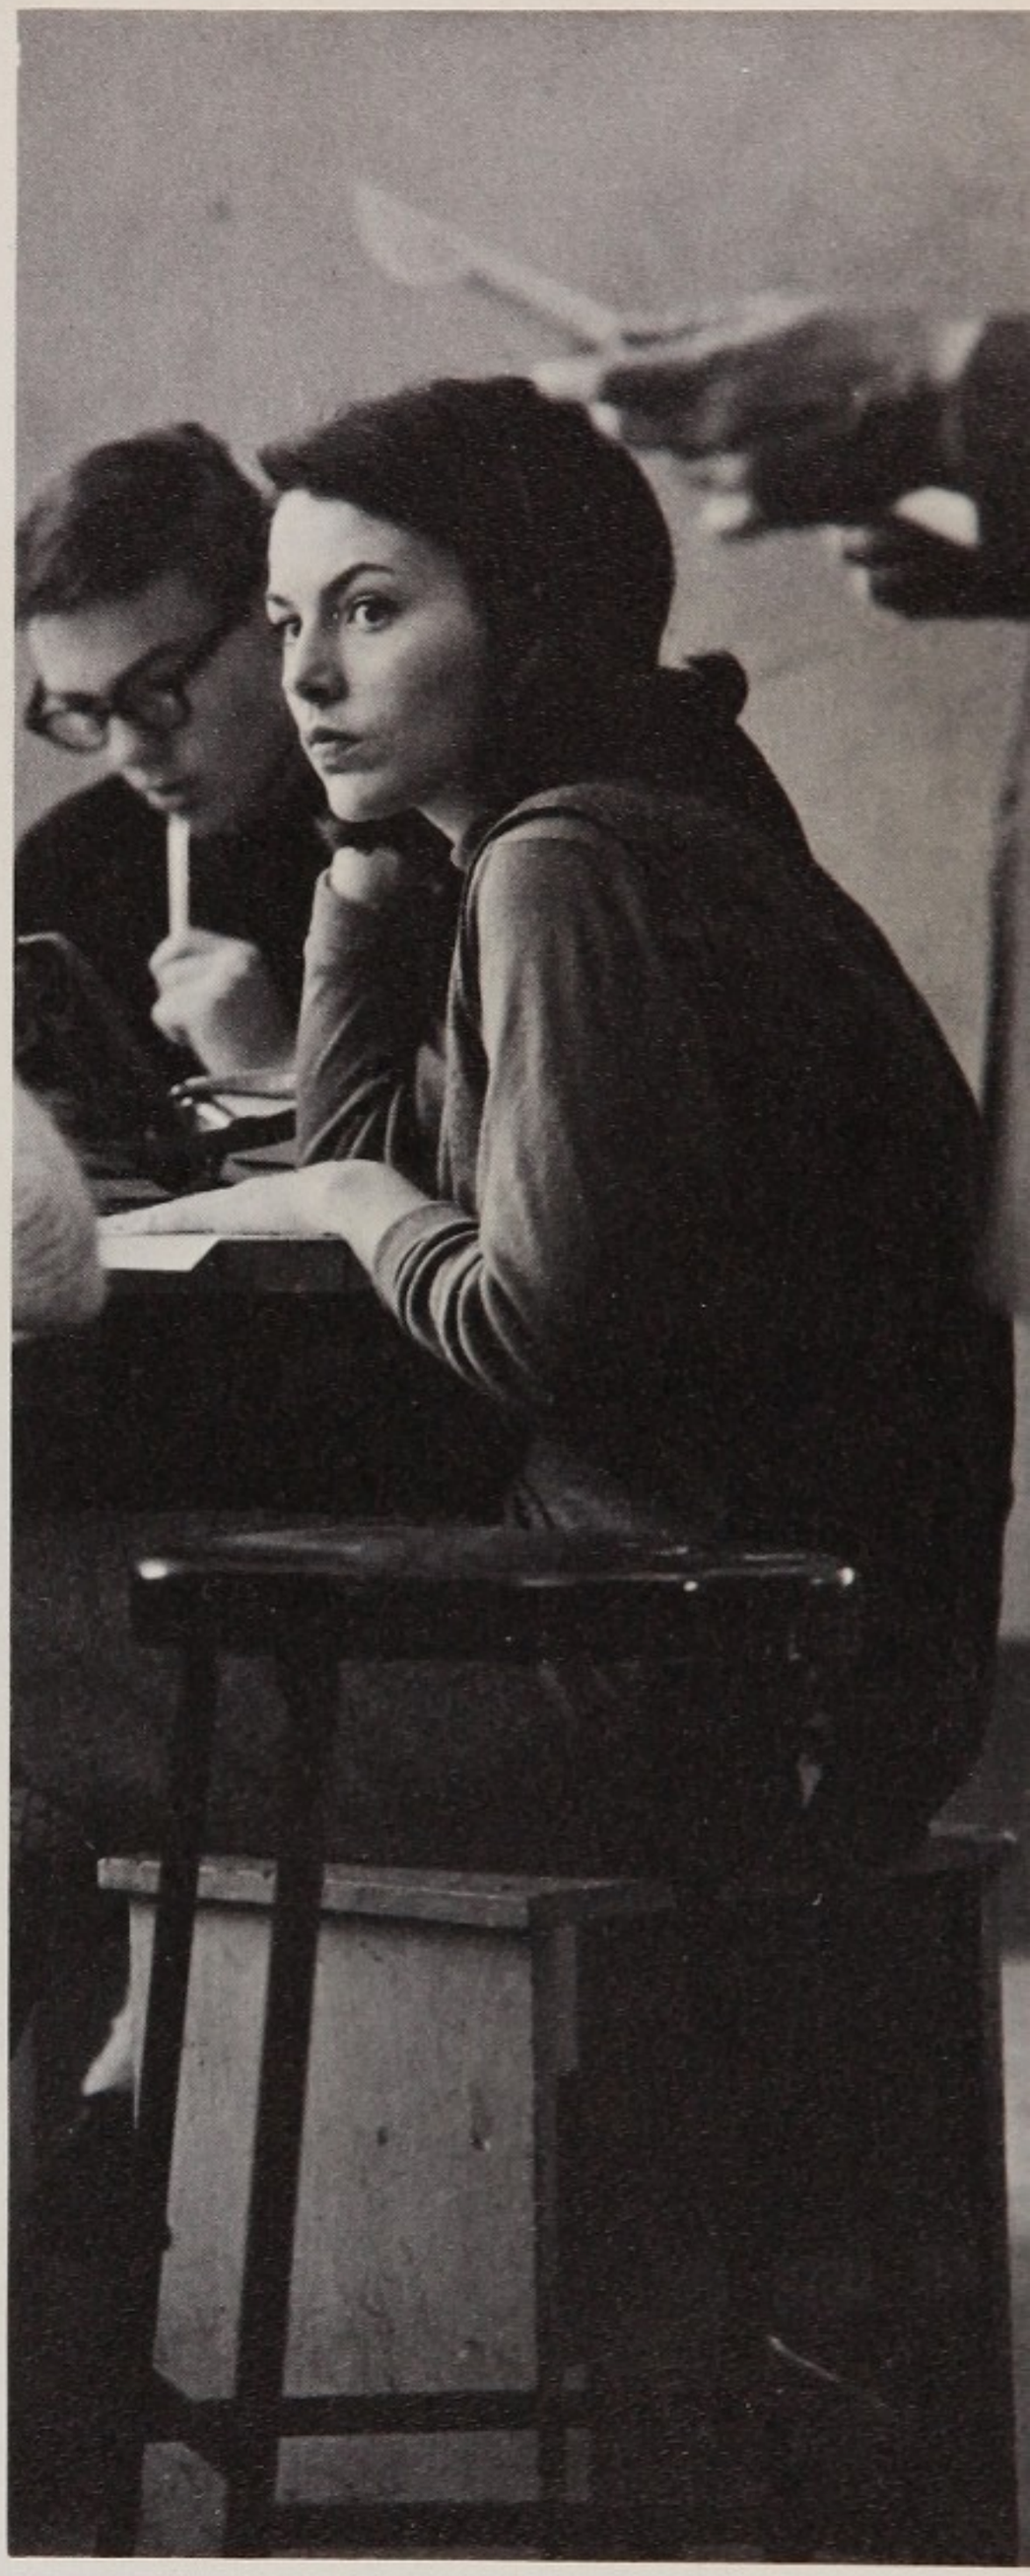
Science—an area of rapid advancement

Because of growing emphasis on science, the science department has expanded its facilities to meet new and previous course requirements. As a result, there are few comprehensive high schools that offer more science courses than Ann Arbor High School. Some of these courses offered are biology, chemistry, physics, physical science, photography, and astronomy. Laboratories are available to students taking some of these courses. Other facilities used by the science department are a greenhouse, a weather station, a telescope, an observation deck, and one of the first planetariums in a high school.

Mr. Merlyn Dasse is the chairman of the science department.





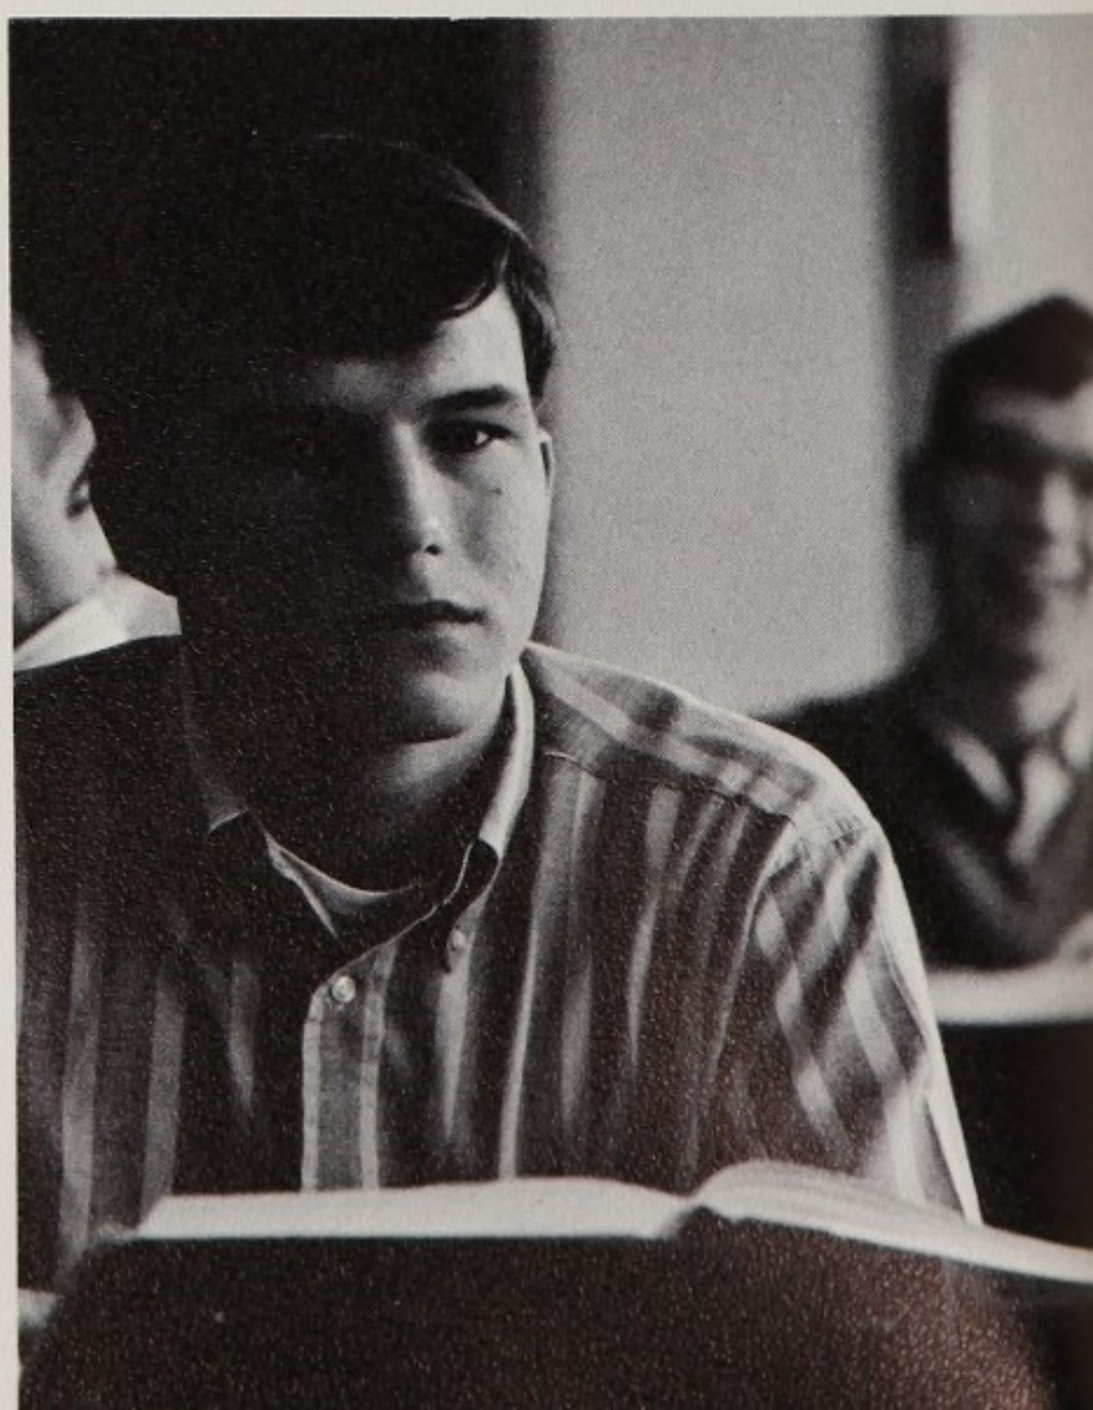


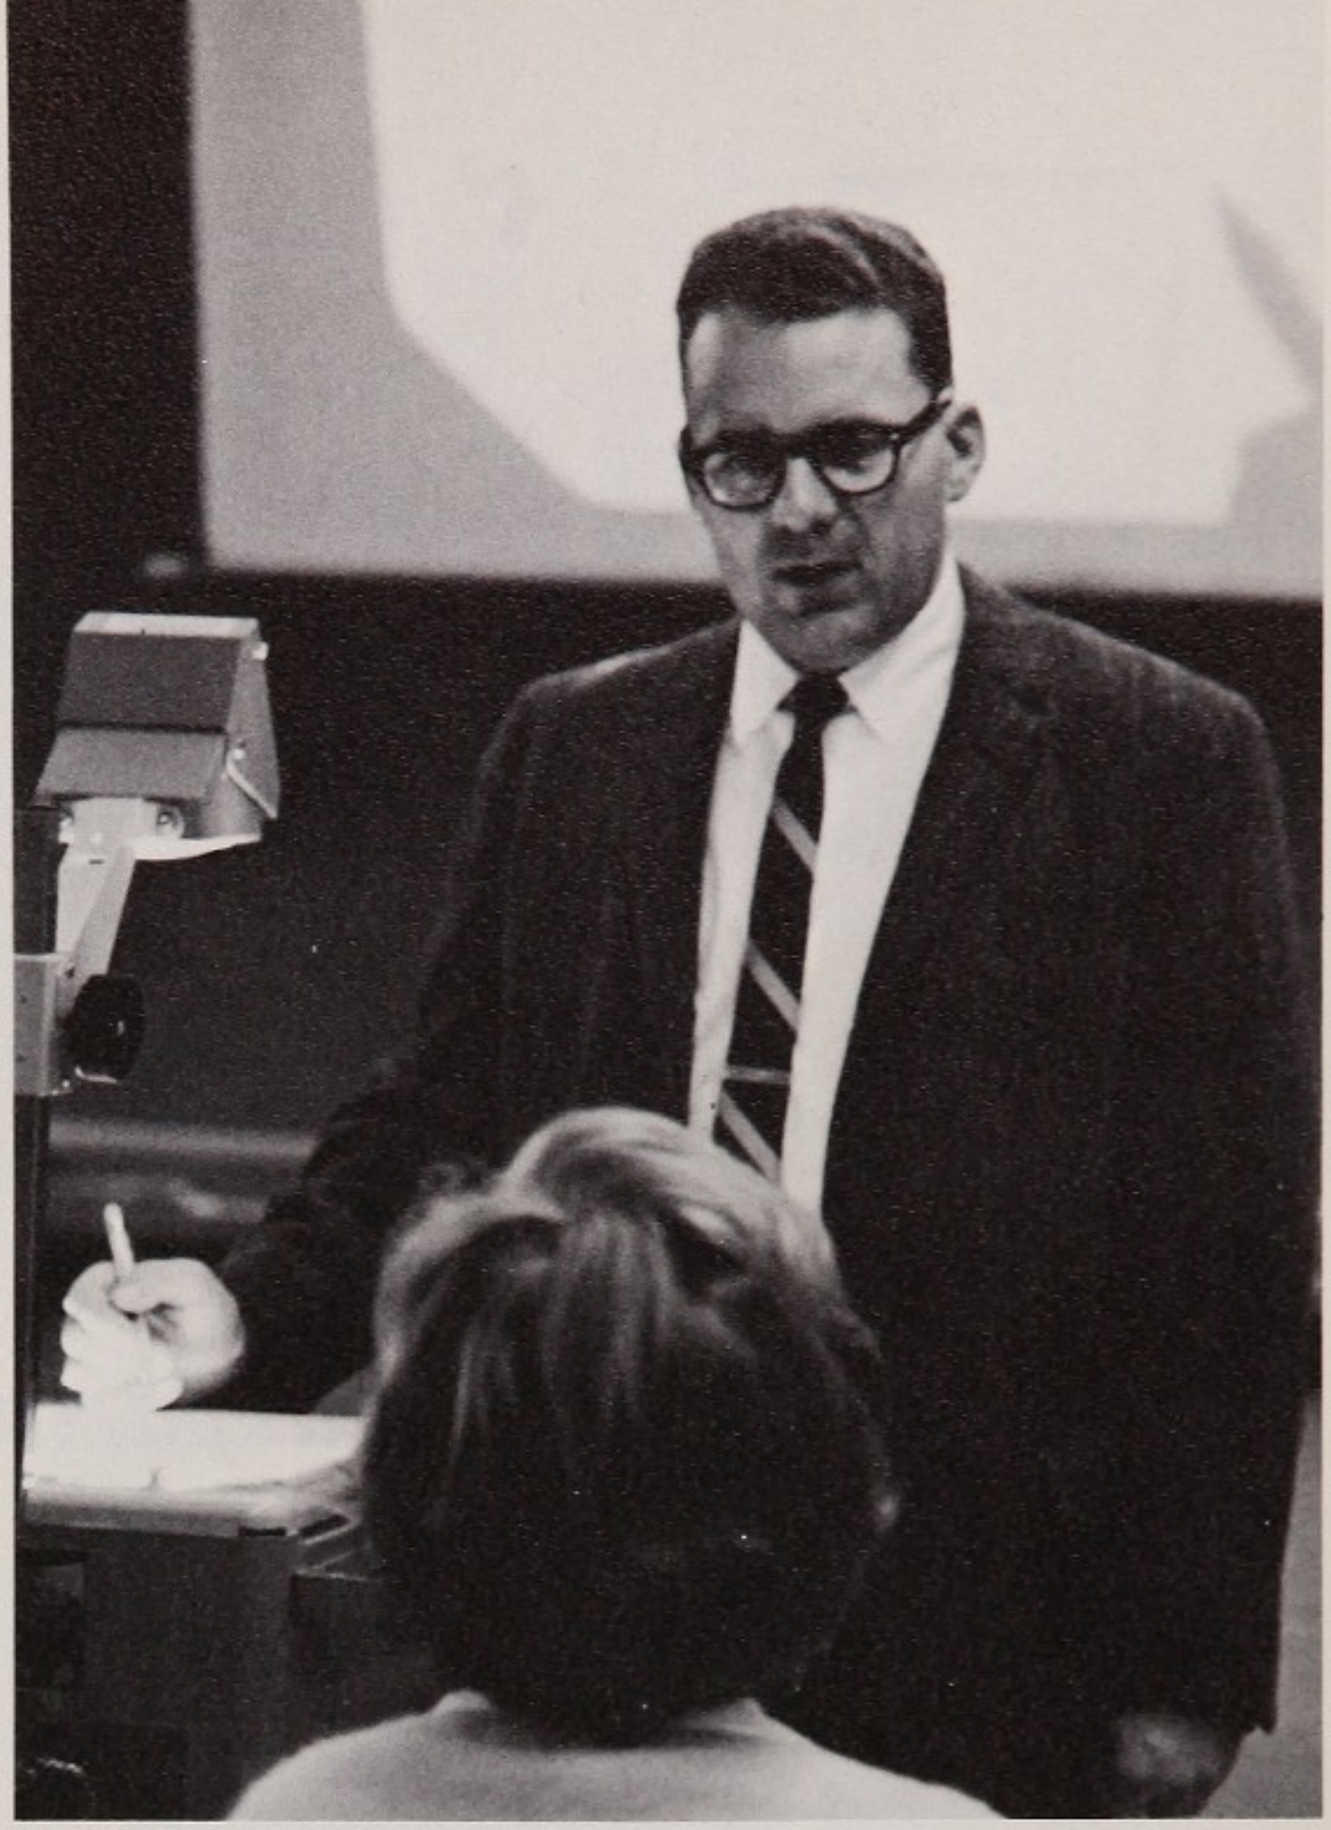
Mathematics—a field of growing importance

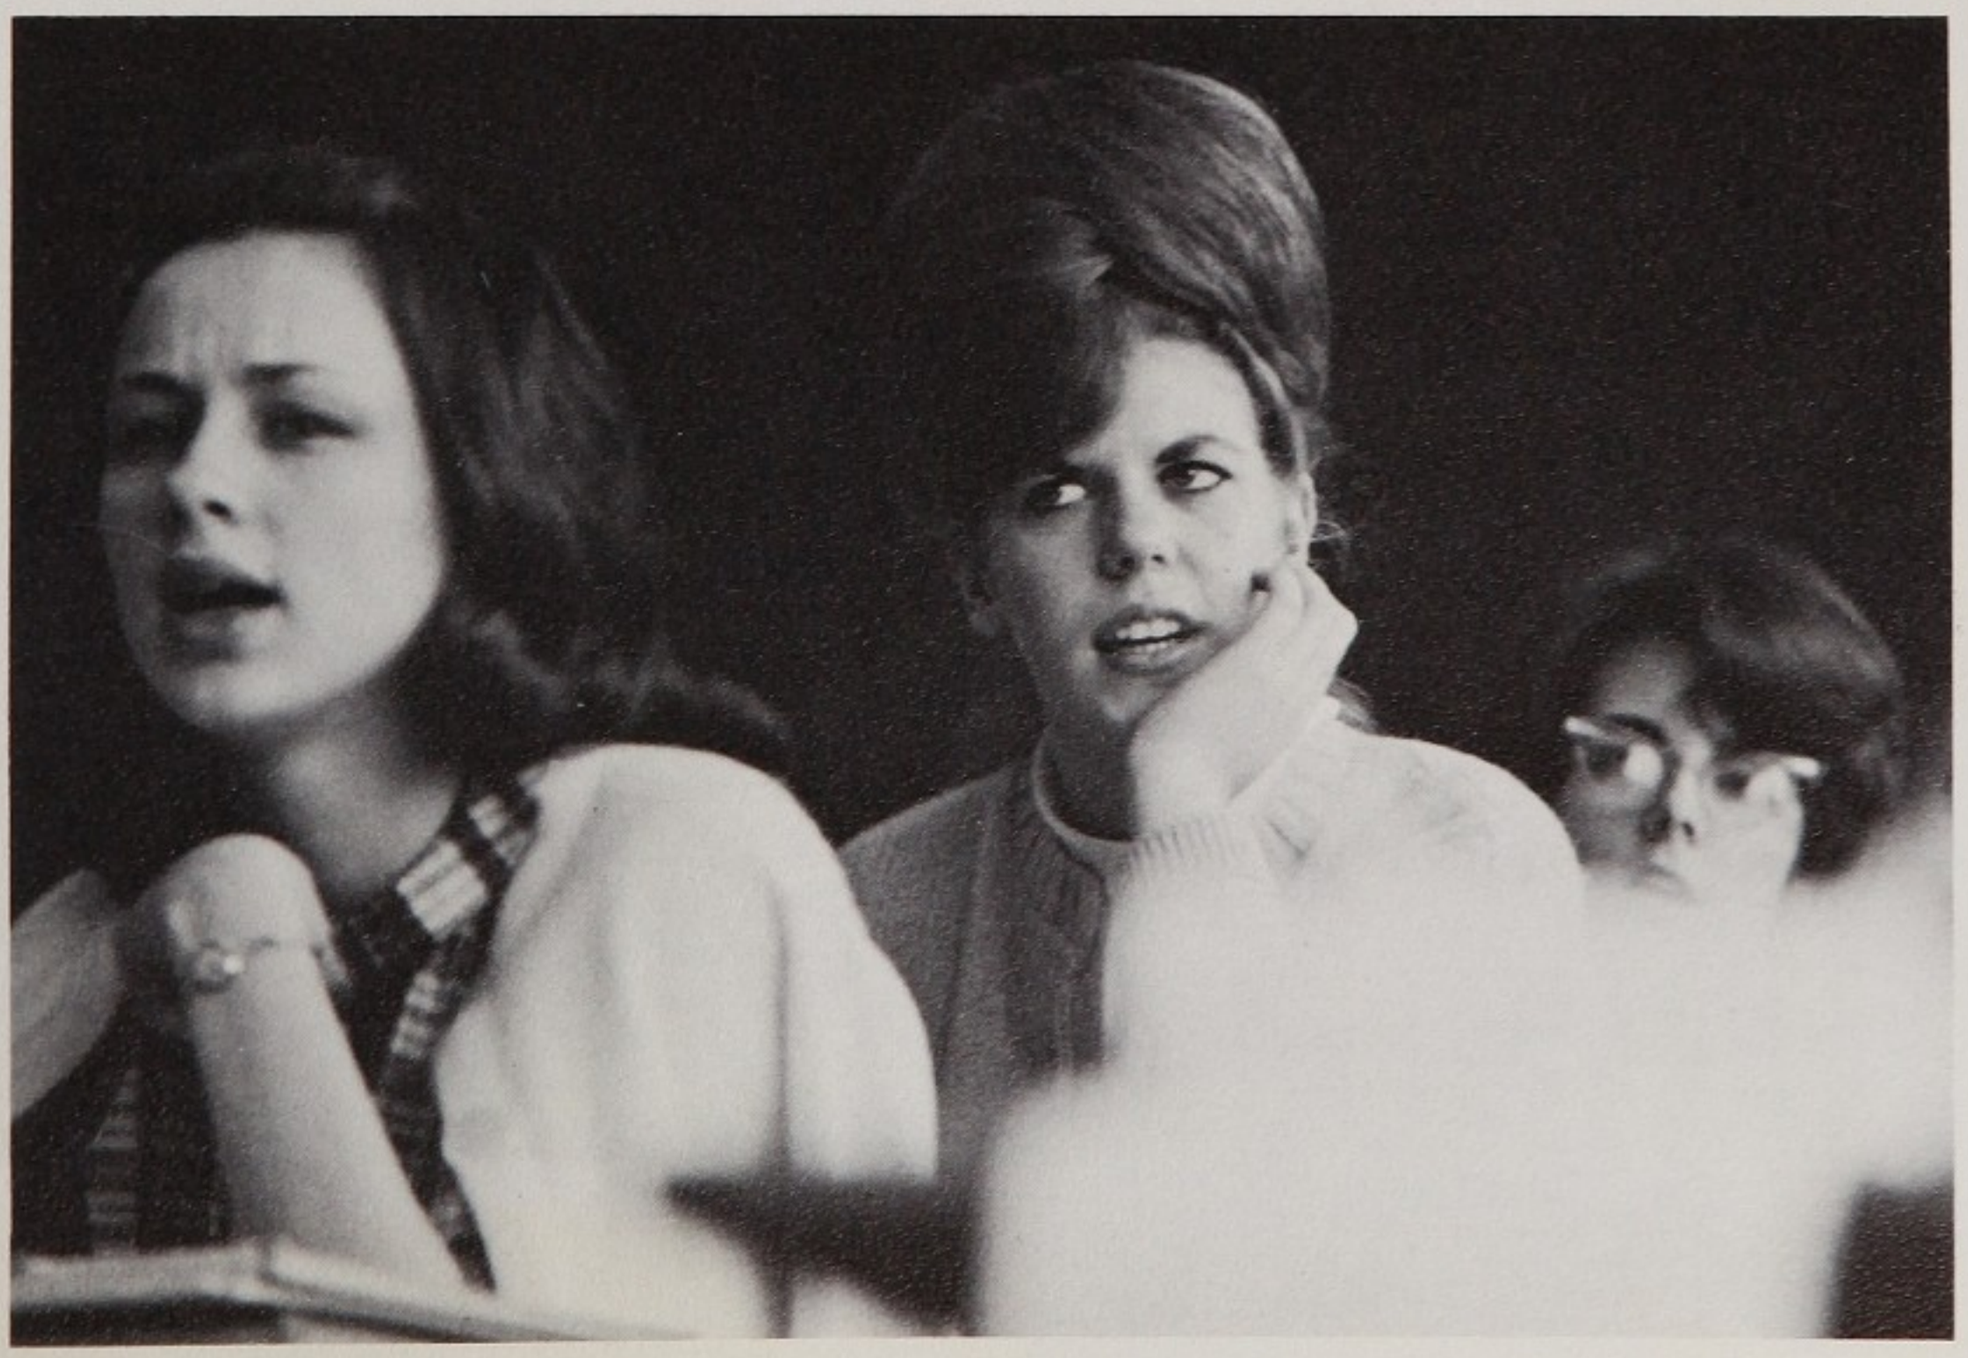
The mathematics department contains quite an extensive number of courses. Included are algebra, geometry, trigonometry, math analysis, accelerated and advanced placement math. In order for a student to take math analysis he must have successfully completed geometry, algebra, and trigonometry. Math analysis consists of a more extensive treatment of geometry set theory, logic, matrices, and others. Those students completing five and six advanced placement math are eligible to take the advanced placement exams in mathematics. If a suitable score is attained, college credit is received.

With increasing emphasis being put on the importance of mathematics as a major field, Ann Arbor High School is fortunate to have as complete a math department as it does. A good basic mathematical background is almost an essential, because in many cases colleges are raising their entrance requirements in mathematics.

Miss Dorothy Noyes is the chairman of the math department.







The Music department gives pleasure and fulfillment.

The music department at Ann Arbor High not only offers a variety of performing groups, but also new courses in music theory and appreciation. For the first time music appreciation meets everyday and receives a full credit. The first semester course deals with the fundamentals of listening to music and learning about rhythm, form, melody, harmony, and instruments. The second semester concentrates mainly on the historical development of music. Music theory, on the other hand, teaches students about the structure of music from scales to intervals and chords. These two courses augment the fine performing groups. Three instrumental groups, a junior varsity band, a concert band, and an orchestra play for assemblies and concerts; and the bands march during football season. Three of the five vocal groups are open to all interested singers: girls' chorus, boys' chorus, and mixed ensemble. The other two groups are robed and selective choirs that perform for school as well as community functions. Mr. Robert Pratt is the chairman of the department.

The Art department

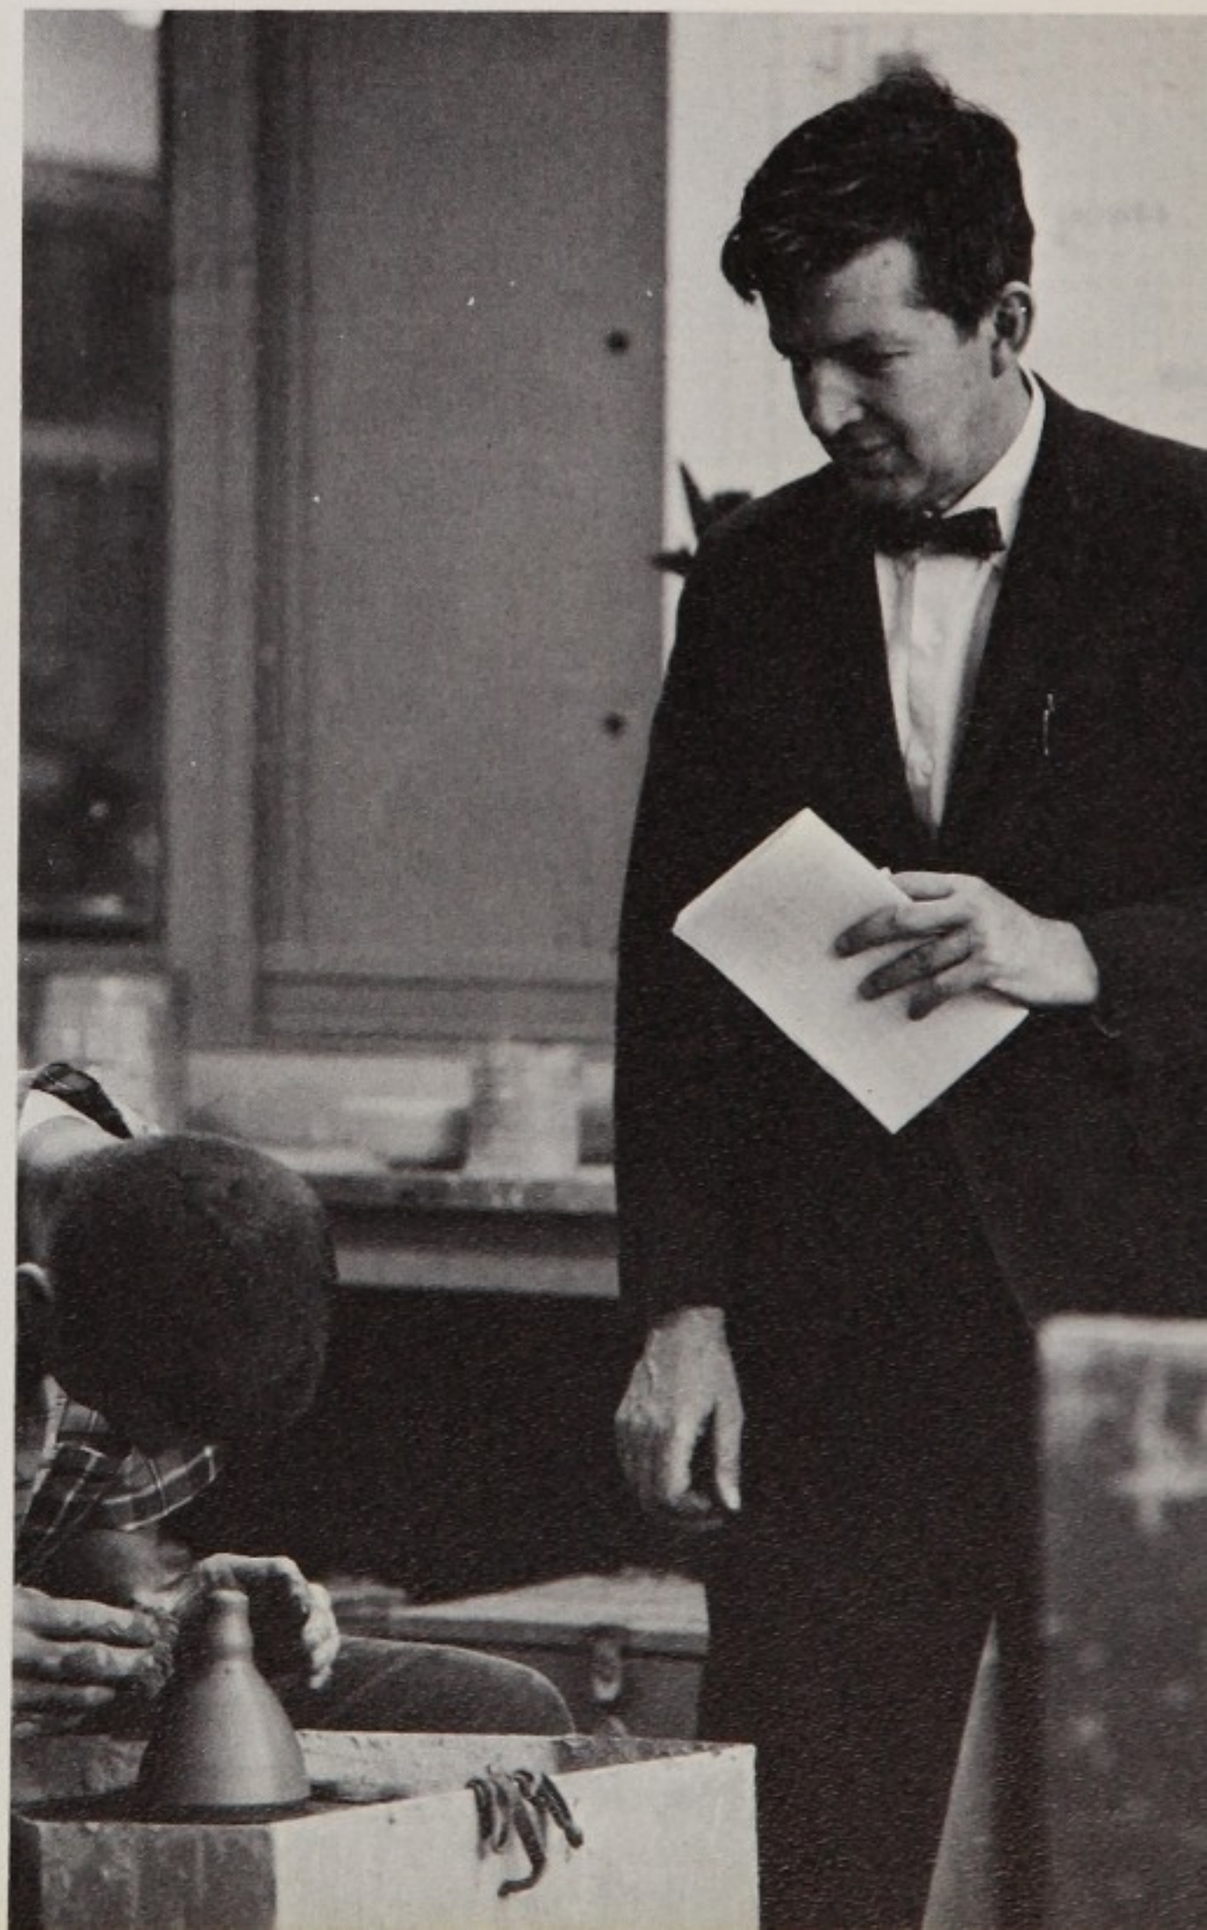
dexterity is essential



The art department, headed by Mr. North, consists of the following courses: introductory art, exploratory art, commercial art, advanced art, jewelry and design, and crafts and ceramics. Introductory art is recommended as a prerequisite for the other art courses. The purpose of this course is to introduce the various aspects of art through the assignment of a variety of projects. In exploratory art the student is introduced to water color painting, sculpture, graphic arts, plaster casting and others. The emphasis of this course is on the development of creative expression. An interesting aspect of advanced art is the fact that a student may repeat it for credit as many times as the instructor thinks the student will benefit. These students primarily interested in making art a career or specialized hobby usually take this course.

Home Economics—where important domestic skills are taught

Contrary to popular opinion, the home economics department includes more than just cooking and sewing. Other courses offered by this department are home management, home decoration, personal development, and child development. Personal development deals with helping girls to understand themselves and parental attitudes. The emphasis of this course is on grooming, etiquette, and the development of poise. Home decoration, an elective for juniors and seniors, includes a study of house architecture, room planning, and knowledge in making wise buying choices for the home. Another useful and interesting course offered is senior home economics. This course incorporates facets of the above courses except food preparation and sewing. Miss Mildred Peterson is the chairman of the department.

Business prepares students for the world

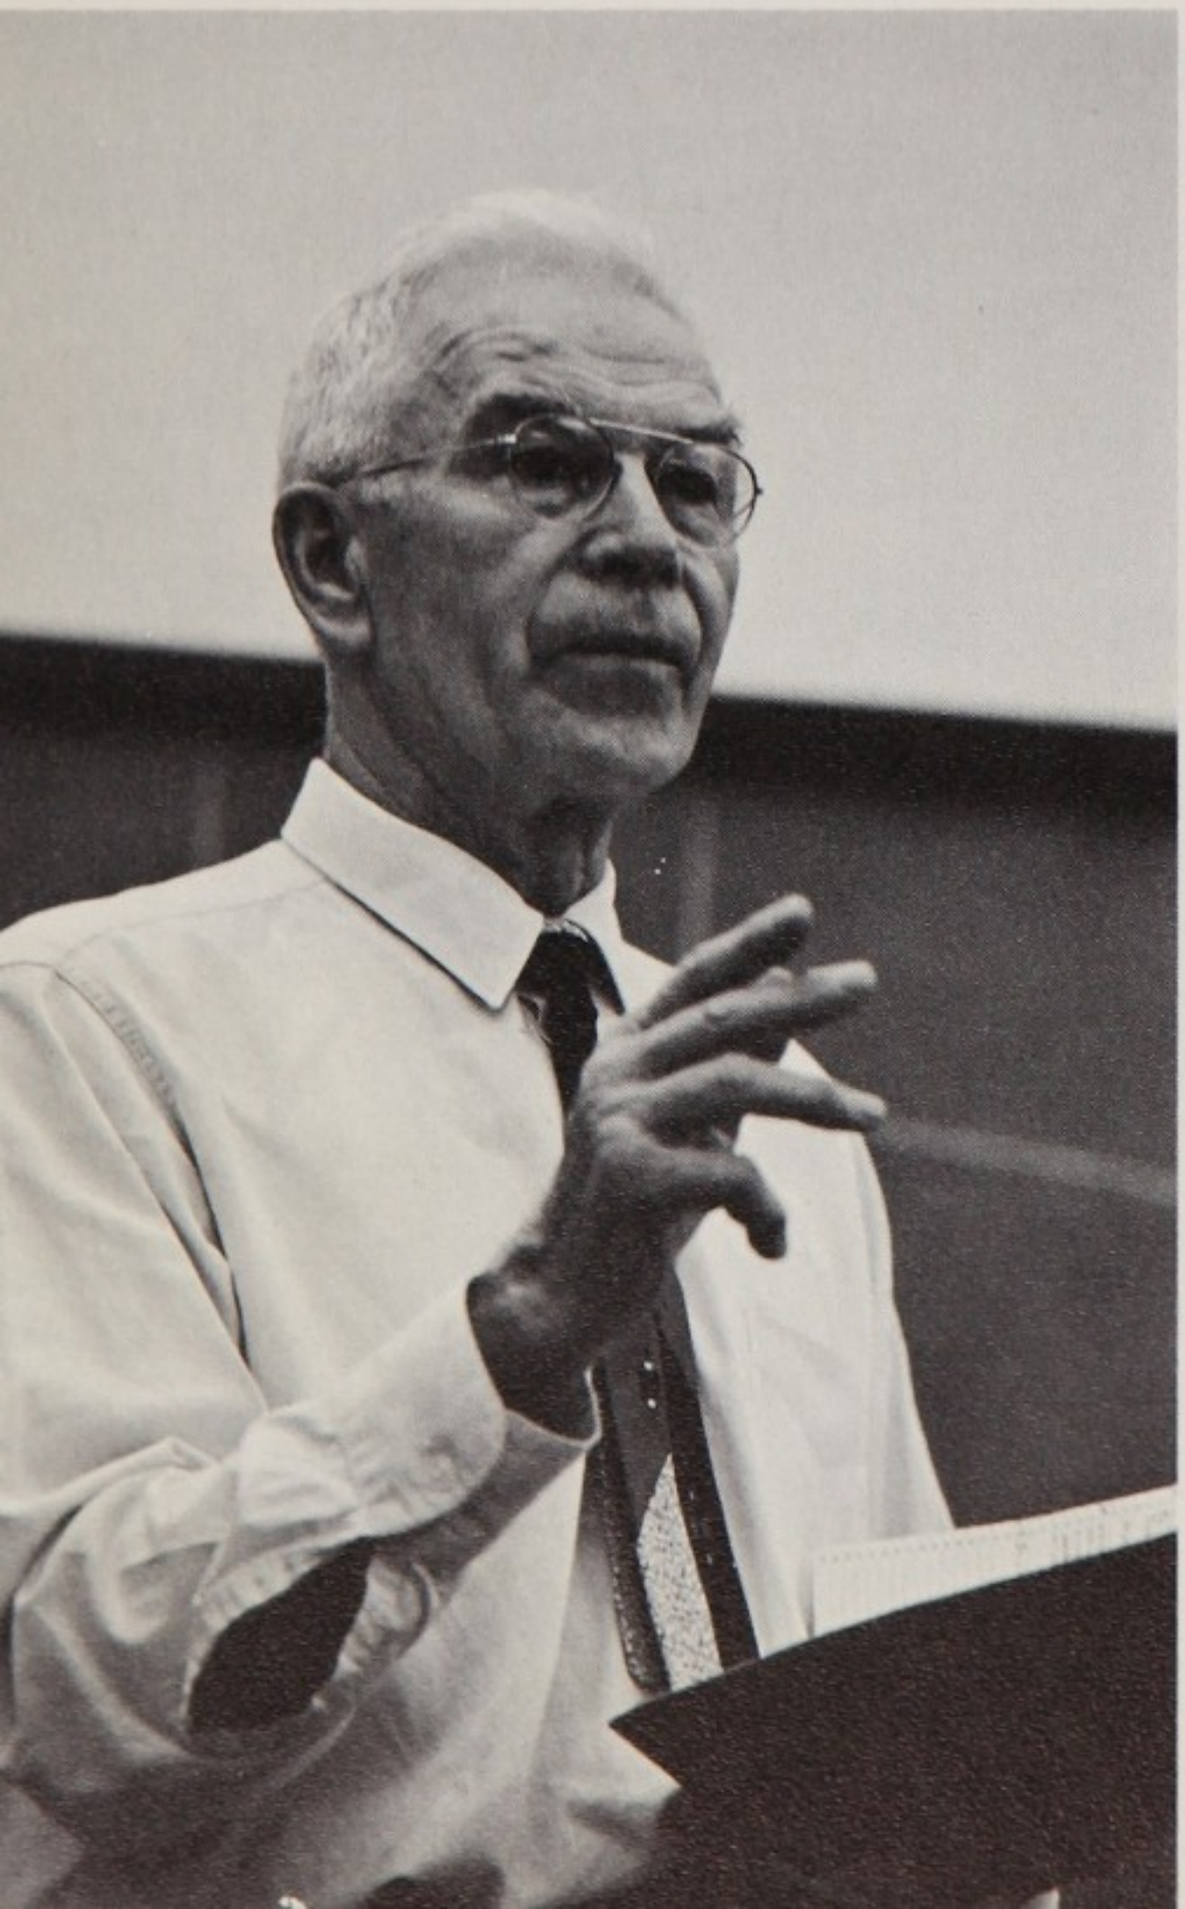
Many students on graduation from high school or college who wish to enter various phases of business, find the curriculum offered by the business department essential. This curriculum places emphasis on accounting, typing, retailing, and other courses. Originally, the idea behind the business education curriculum was to prepare students to hold jobs in offices. Now, however, the business curriculum has widened its scope. All courses, which may be elected by anyone, follow three major curriculums: stenographic, retailing, and general office.

One of the more widely chosen subjects is typing which can be used for almost any course. Knowledge of typing is practically an essential for students going on to college.

Through business education it is the aim of the department to teach students the fundamentals of our present economy.

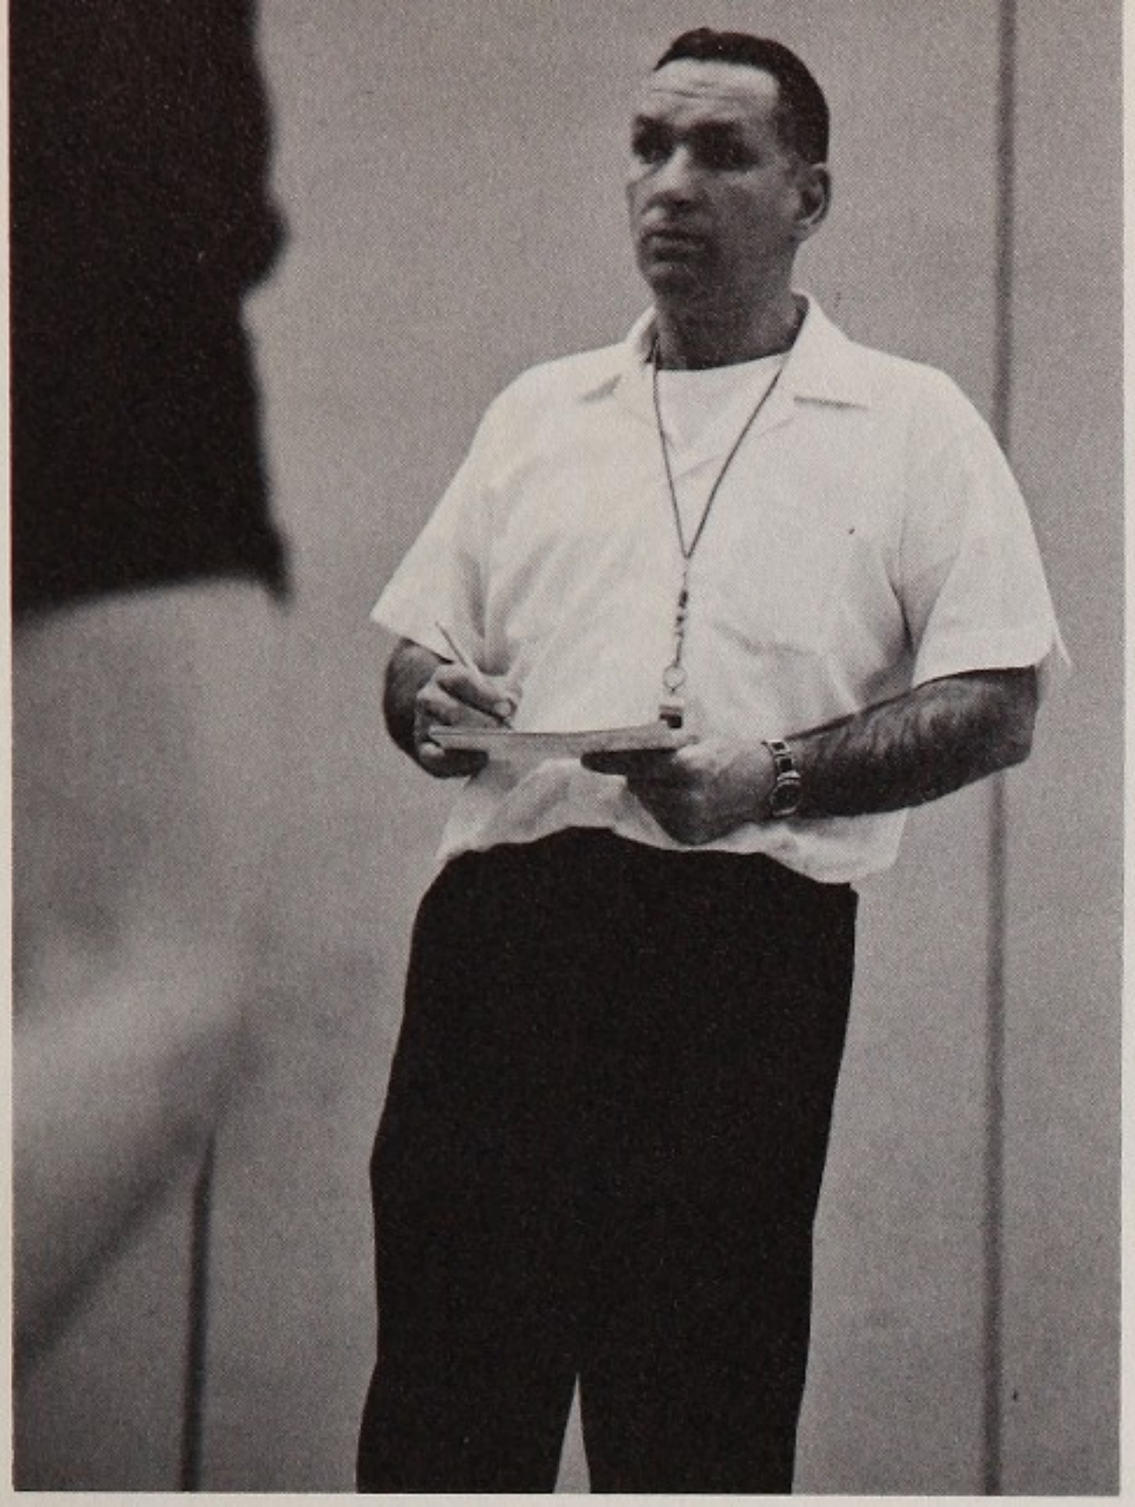
Mr. Thomas Bradley is the department chairman of business education.

Essentials for the good driver



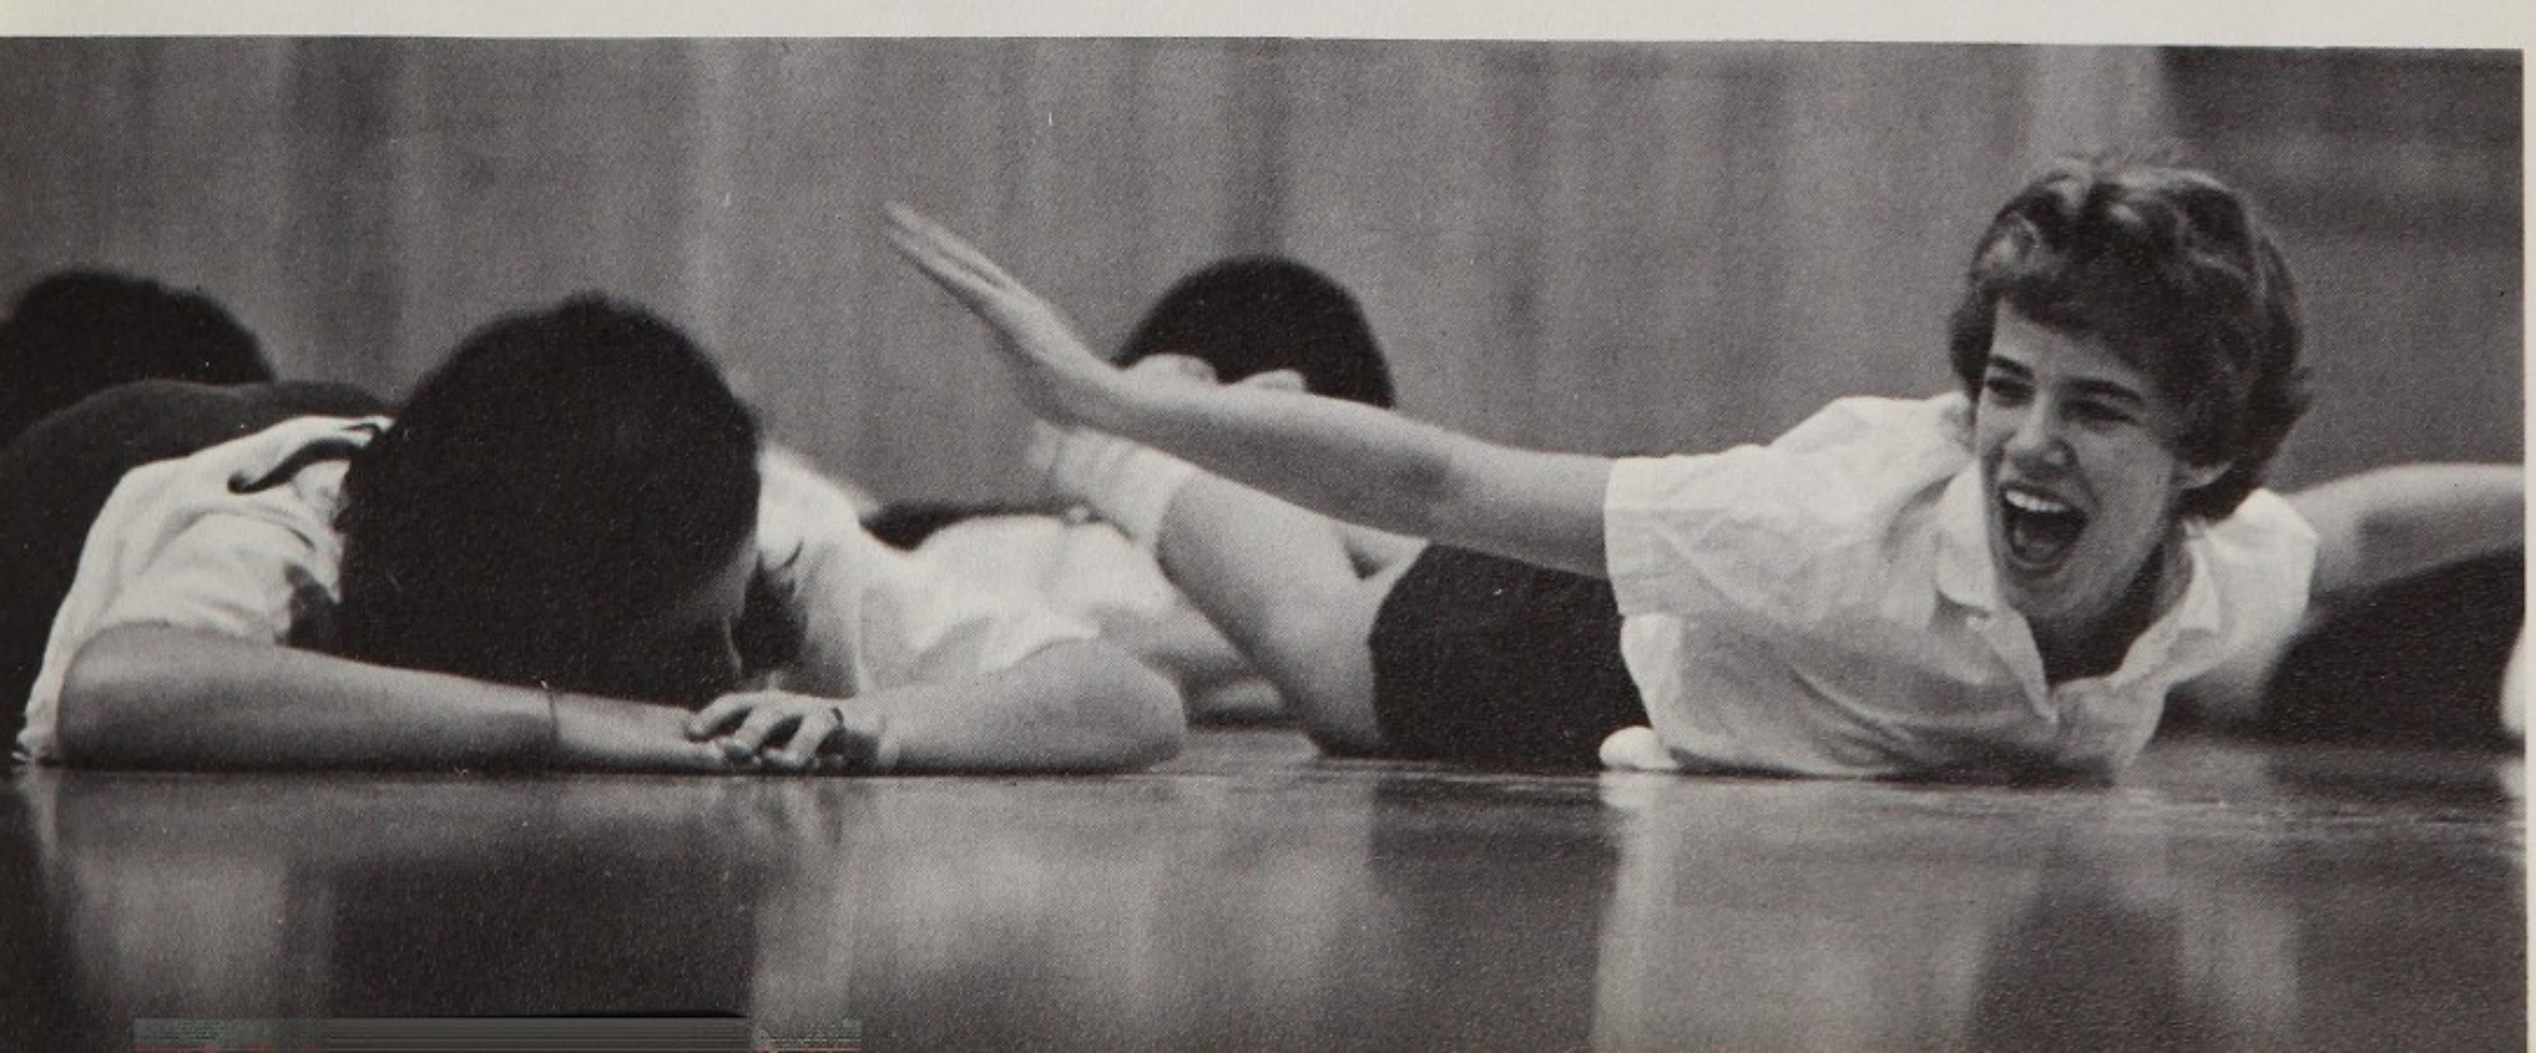
The classroom portion of driver education is taken by the boys every other day during the first semester of their sophomore year, and the girls take it every other day during the second semester. The student receives instruction in driving skills, practice in courteous driving, rules of the road, safety practices, and simple maintenance of the automobile. Other aspects of this course include automobile economy, insurance, and procedures in case of an accident. A student may take behind-the-wheel training if he is sixteen years old by the end of the semester that he is taking the classroom portion. This, of course, depends upon whether or not there is a teacher available. Behind-the-wheel may be taken during study hall, before or after school, or during vacation. After completing both classroom and BWT, the student is eligible to get a driver's license.

Mr. Frank Kline is the department chairman.



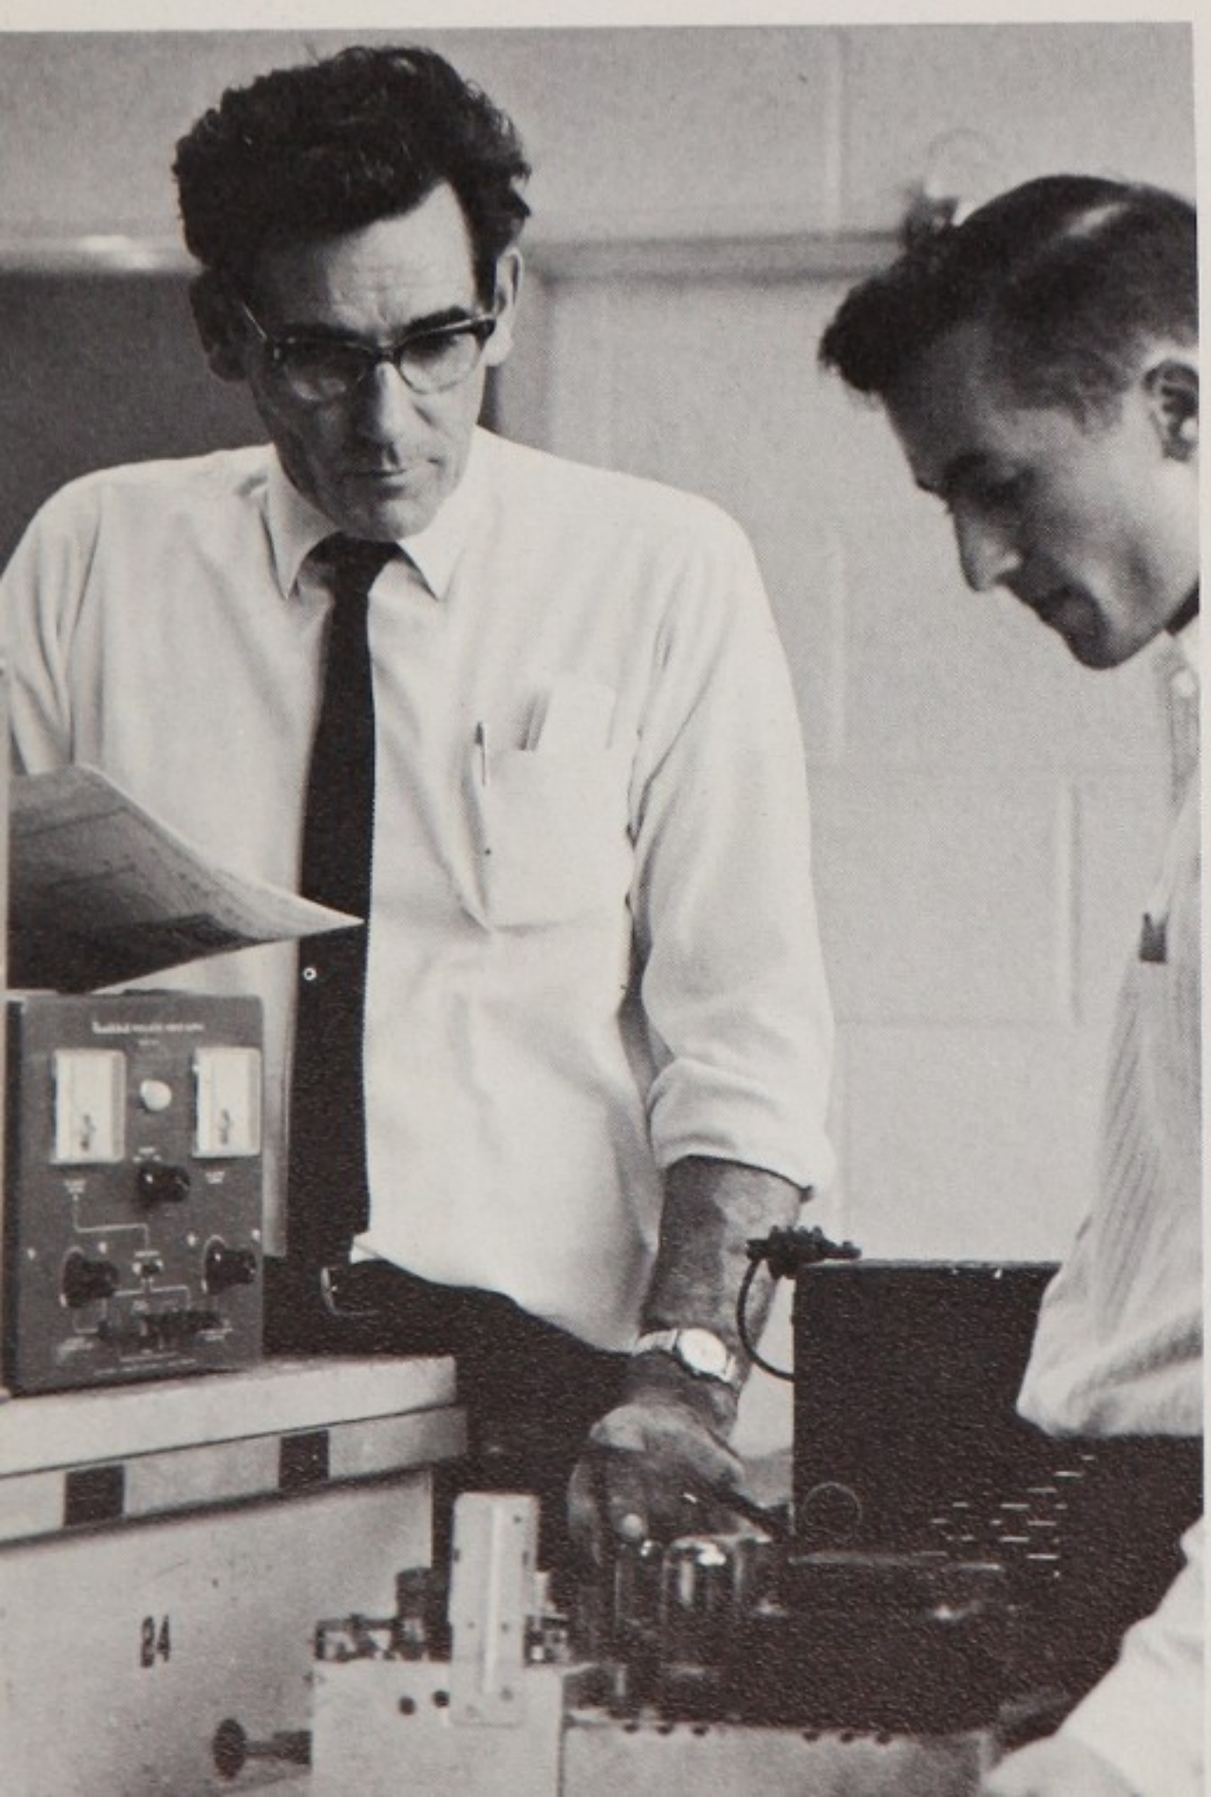
During the beginning of a students sophomore year he is assigned to a motor ability group, either x, y, or z. He is then grouped with those students of approximately the same ability for gym classes. After the sophomore year a student may enroll in other phases of physical education. Some of these are aquatics, personal sports, and, for girls, rhythms, a course in modern and folk dancing. Although there is no physical education requirement in the senior year, one may elect a course. Miss Elise Harney and Mr. Howard Patthoff are the heads of the department.

Physical Education—an aid to achieving physical fitness



Industrial arts is a group of courses of primary interest to the boys at the high school. The mechanical drawing courses are based on knowledge of the techniques of drafting, the instruments used, and how to make working drawings. If one is interested in metal-working and the machines used for it he might want to elect metal technology. Too, a series of electronics courses are offered, promised on the fundamentals of electricity as applied to machinery and the application of electrical circuits to house wiring. Autoshop is taught mainly through experience with the repair of parts of the car and the operation of the engine. Another course offered under the industrial arts program which consists of quite a specific subject matter is entitled small gasoline engines. This course deals with the proper maintenance procedure and operation of small gasoline engines. Mr. Rudolph Silverstone is the coordinator of the industrial arts department.

Industrial Art—creative in its own right



For students who become ill during school or are injured in a physical education class, the clinic and the school nurse, Mrs. Kyprie, are available. Mrs. Kyprie often has assistants who are interested in becoming nurses after graduation from high school.

. . . Sick and tired, and in search of knowledge . . .

Even though the Ann Arbor High School library is built in the form of an arc, it is figuratively called "the hub" of the school. This is because it contains supplementary information on every subject taught in the high school.

The librarians are available to help students and teachers use the numerous books efficiently and effectively. The librarians are trained teachers as well as specialists in library techniques, and are selected because of their interest in young adults as well as their academic training.

The library is available to students before and after school, to English classes, and to students with research work to do. The library provides reference material to help students, interesting books to increase their reading ability, and books for individual reading pleasure. Mrs. Tatiana Gedrovics is the head librarian.

The basic planning and creating of policies for the entire school system in Ann Arbor is the work of this group of people known as the Board of Education. Members seated: (left to right) Dr. Robert J. Bolt, Hazen Schumacher, N. Edd Miller, Mrs. Tom Lilley, Dr. Alexander Gotz. Members standing: (left to right) James A. Crippen, Lloyd T. Quite often this planning is the combined efforts of the Board of Education and the public as shown in the picture below.

Mr. Jack Elzay is the chief administrative officer of the schools. He is shown here before plans for building expansion. This expansion is an ever present concern to care for our growing school population.

These men are involved in setting up and carrying out the administrative procedures which will fulfill the policies of the School Board. From left to right they are: Gerald Neff, Theodore Rokicki, George Balas, Thad Carr, Scott Westerman, Jack Elzay.

With the introduction of a mini-tramp this year's kicks were higher than ever.

Gridders grab share of title.

Head football coach Jay Stielstra called the 1964 Six-A co-champions his "greatest team ever." This remark is based upon the season's record. After losing to Grosse Pointe, 7-6, Ann Arbor was beaten by Kalamazoo, 12-6. Following a start like this, most teams would have fallen apart, but not the Pioneer gridders.

To say that the Ann Arbor machine was finally in high gear versus Jackson is to understate the matter by some forty-five points. The defense, led by captain Bill Wood, John Sharemet, Fred White, and Mike Wall recovered a Jackson fumble, intercepted five passes, and held the Vikings to 46 yards in total offense. The defensive unit set up four of the seven touchdowns while earning the fifth consecutive shut-out of Jackson. Quarterback Dave Dean, fullback Tom Weinman, and halfback Dave Hampton each scored twice, while halfback Don Dates scored the seventh touchdown.

While the proverbial die cast, the Pioneers proceeded to win five more in a row for a 6-2 record overall and a 4-1 in conference play for a share of the title. The first of these five involved defending state and league champions Lansing Sexton, whom the Pioneers outlasted, 21-18, on three touchdowns by Dave Hampton, three conversions by Bob Alow, and a strong defensive effort. The next victory came at the expense of Riverview, the Homecoming guests. Tom Weinman scored twice, end Don Hill, quarterback Dennis Beemer, and fullback Duane Clark each scored once. The final score was 32-7.

After clobbering Lansing Eastern, 26-12, on Hampton's three touchdowns, the Pioneers showed Hollway Field and Battle Creek the game of the year. Total offense was 428 yards, and the final score was 27-7. Quarterback Dennis Beemer ran for one touchdown and passed to end Don Hill for another, while Weinman scored twice, including an eighty yard effort, the longest run from scrimmage during the season.

The 6-2 record was not completed until the final six seconds of season. With the score tied at 7-7 against Lansing Everett, and thirty-one seconds remaining on the clock, Dennis Beemer intercepted an Everett pass and returned it to the Lansing forty-five. Twenty-five seconds later, Beemer hit end John Sharemet with a fourth down pass of nineteen yards for the touchdown. The final score was 13-7.

Beemer was later elected Most Valuable Player by his team-mates, while Tom Weinman and John Sharemet were elected co-captains for 1965. Hampton, 1964 captain Bill Wood, and tackle Nick Vlisides received All-Six-A honors, while Hampton and Wood earned All-State recognition.

Weinman and Hampton each scored eighty touchdowns during the season, while Dennis Beemer ran for three and passed for five. Bob Aloe added a total of 14 extra points.

At seasons end, the Pioneers were rated sixth in the State Class A By both A.P. and U.P.I.

Harriers retain league championship.

Outstanding performances by Steve Burns and Captain Bruce Gaffney along with tremendous team depth gave the Ann Arbor High Cross-country their second straight 6-A crown and sixth in the last seven years.

The Pioneers opened the league with a decisive 21-34 victory over Battle Creek. Gaffney and Burns finished one-two to pace the winners. The following meet was a double-dual affair against East Lansing and Lansing Sexton. Team depth proved the winning factor as all five of the Ann Arbor runners finished better than tenth. The Pioneers tied East Lansing 28-28 and routed Sexton 15-45 to keep them in first place in the 6-A through two dual meets.

The next meet proved to be the most important of the season. In another double dual affair with Kalamazoo and Lansing Eastern the Purple and White harriers edged the Maroon Giants 25-30 and sped past Eastern 20-39. These two victories left Ann Arbor all alone in first place.

The Pioneer harriers completed the league dual meet season by sinking the Jackson Vikings, 24-35, at home. Steve Burns set a new course record by completing the two-mile circut in 10:21.8 seconds. The record of 10:55 was broken by each of the first six finishers.

Ann Arbor closed its dual-meet season with a heartbreaking 27-29 loss to Milford High. Thus the cross-country team carried a 6-1-1 season into the 6-A league meet.

In a great exhibition of team depth, the Pioneers grabbed second, fifth, seventh, ninth and tenth places. Burns gave another great effort and finished second, only three tenths of a second behind Ron Nehring of Kalamazoo. Sophomore Mike Lutz was the surprise of the meet as he finished seventh. Ann Arbor's team score of thirty-three points was almost half as many as that of Kalamazoo (62), the second place finisher.

The junior varsity team closed an undefeated season by scoring 25 points to place first in the league meet.

Coach John Nordlinger has great hopes for next year as Captain-elect Alan Campbell, Mike Lutz, Larry Steeb, Dale Woodard, Pete Kempf, Francisco Meza, Mike Hampshire, and Bob Kien will be back.

Then Tom Morrow and Kent Leslie, last year's co-captains, presented Sally Fawcett with a bouquet of roses as she was crowned 1964 Homecoming Queen. The game was a victory. Saturday night Sally and her Court, sophomores Mary Eddie and Vickie Gilligan, juniors Alicen Lang and Ann Kniffen, and seniors Mary Brown and Nancy McArtor were guests of honor at the Homecoming Dance.

After–game dances

This year the recreation room was packed tighter than ever with students who came to the many after game dances. Crowds waited outside the doors after each home football game, waiting to be let into the dance. The Student Council sponsored most of these dances, charging 25¢ per person for admission. The dances after the football games drew the largest crowds, which sometimes reached the 1,300 mark. Generally, between 200 and 1,000 students came to the dances. This year's diskjockeys were Jim Barnes and Jeff Hall.

Hostesses serve school

The Hostess Committee is a group of girls who act as hostesses at school functions. Their main duties are serving at banquets and luncheons, guiding visitors, and ushering at meetings. The Hostess Committee has other activities throughout the year too, such as decorating lobbies and staircases at Christmas, Christmas caroling at hospitals, sponsoring an after-game dance, and sponsoring the annual Twin Spin in March or April.

The committee was formed at the request of Mr. Schreiber in 1956 to fill the needs of the new and larger high school. Since then, the committee has grown to approximately sixty girls. To be a member one must have a 2.5 grade point average and be selected by the committee from a submitted list of nominees. Being selected in such a way makes this membership an honorary position. The officers of this year's committee were Buffy Baker, president; Jan Levenson, vice-president; and Ellen Strand, secretary.

to be versatile

Under the excellent direction of Mr. Bordo, the band first displayed its talent during the football season. The interesting formations of the band members, such as the eternal flame, were observed during half-time periods.

After the football season, Mr. Bordo directed the band for other entertaining occasions. This group plays a wide variety of music, such as marches, Latin American music, classical, and show tunes. Officers for the year were Nick Van der Schaelie, President; Tom Bloomer, Vice-President; Karen Reider, Secretary; and Don Christopherson, Treasurer. The band is the largest organization in the school.

quality provided by assemblies

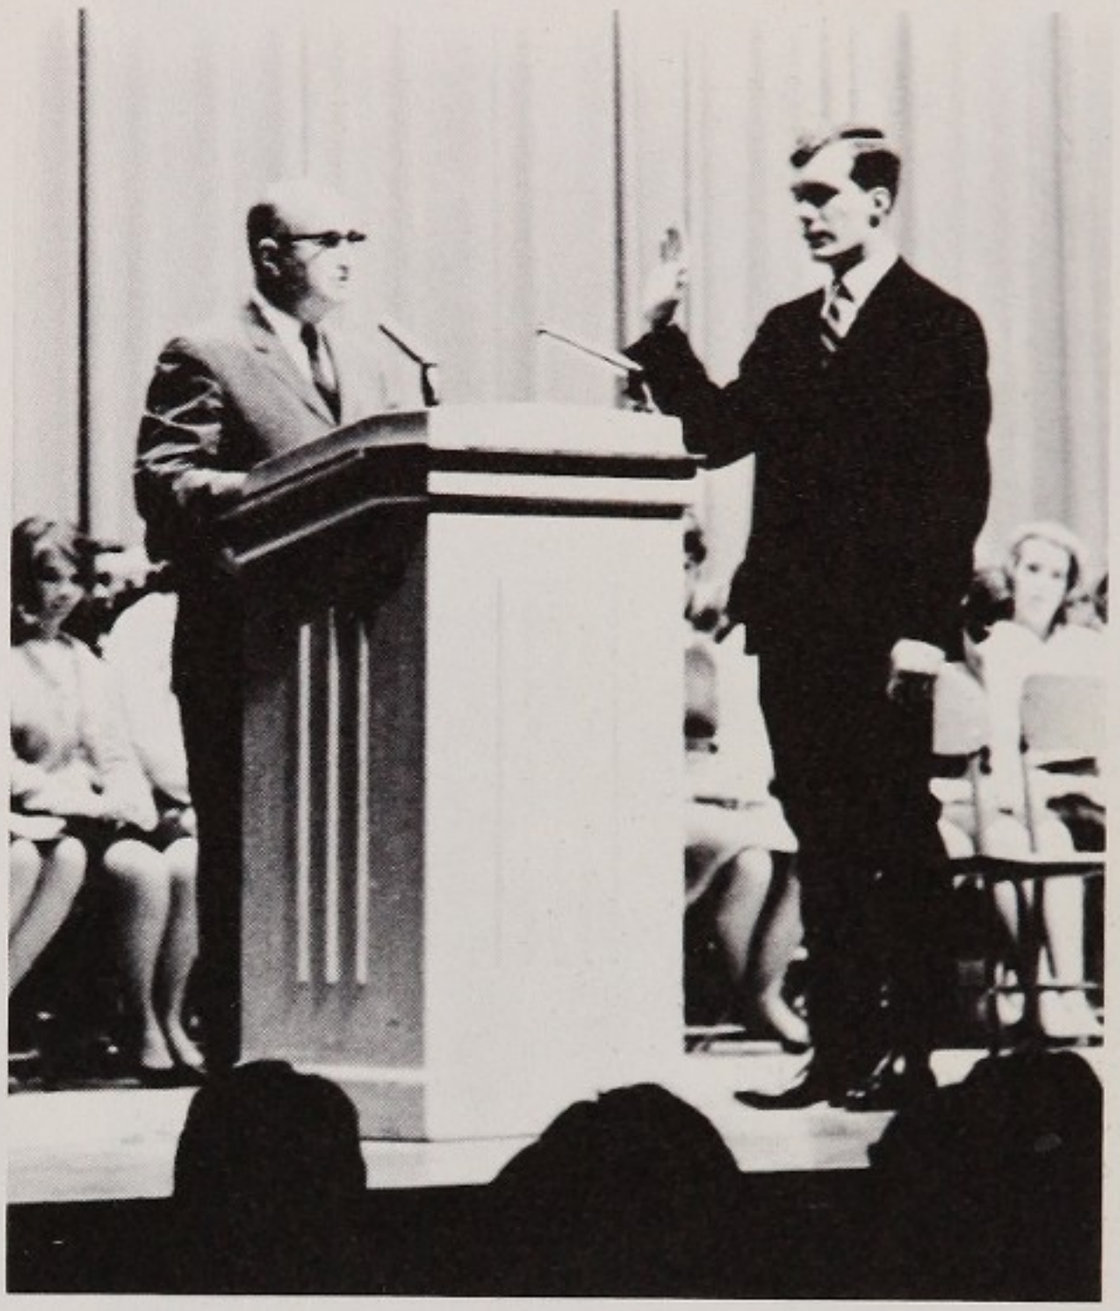
This year Ann Arbor High's assemblies reflected the varied activities and interests throughout the school.

School and student recognition was apparent in several assemblies. The annual pep assembly was held outside in the football stadium to start the year off. The cheerleaders and fall sports teams were introduced, and the marching band added its pep to the occasion. The Honors assembly recognized high achievements in sports and academic records. The Student Council conducted assemblies to swear in the council in the fall and to introduce candidates for offices in the spring. The nominating convention was held in the gymnasium with the entire student body witnessing the first hour to share the interest and excitement. In a special assembly, the Exchange Club presented the school with reproductions of famous documents, which are now on display in the Freedom Shrine next to the library.

The U.N. assembly stirred student interest in other countries, as well as introducing the foreign students. Native costumes and a panel discussion on teen-agers in other lands proved especially informative.

As in the past, music groups contributed greatly to the assembly schedule. The music department produced the Pop Concert, the Christmas Program, and the Band Assembly.

All in all, the assemblies proved to be both interesting and educational for the entire student body.



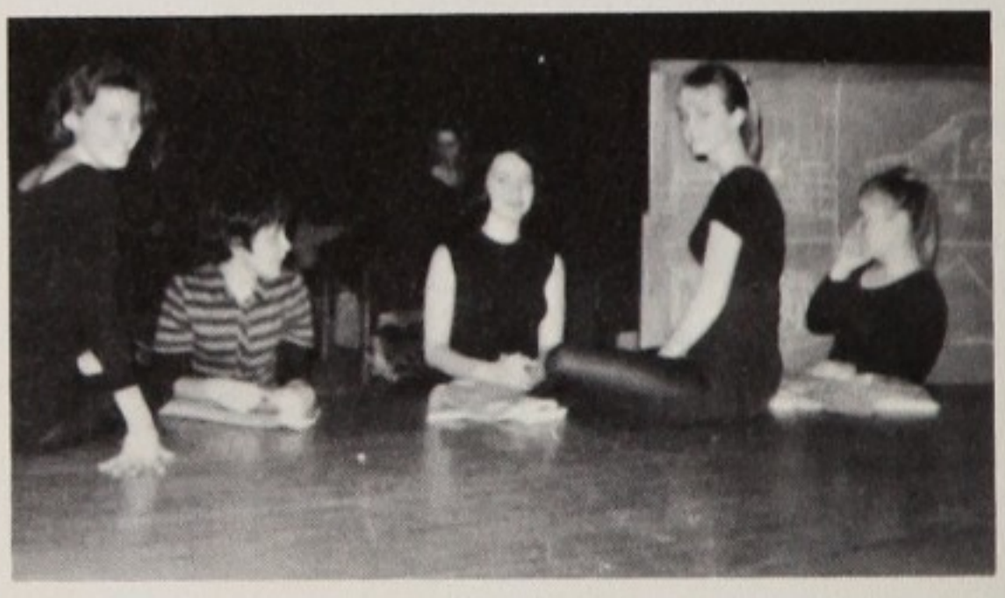
Fred White takes the oath of office for President of the Student Council.

Mr. Robert Pratt leads the A Cappella Choir, one of several vocal groups which sang in assemblies.

Modern Dance Club participates in musical

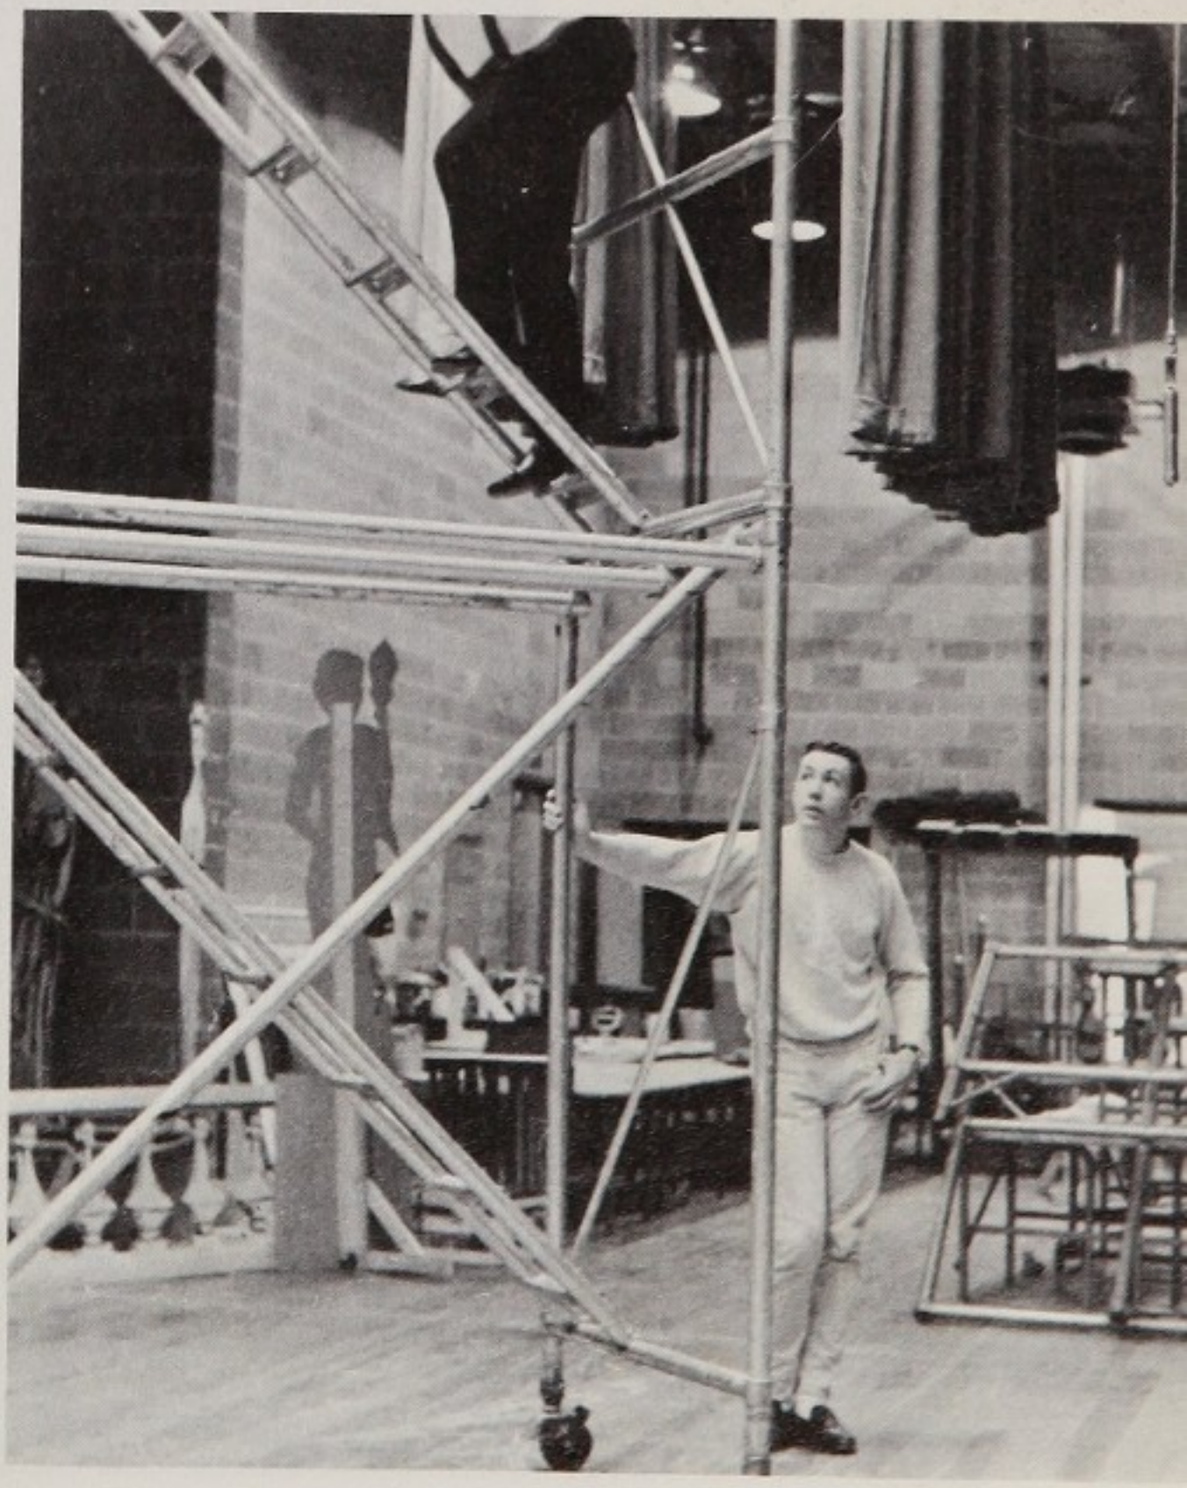
The Ann Arbor High School Modern Dance Club introduces and promotes the art of dance at the high school level. This year members choreographed and danced their own numbers in the musical, The Unsinkable Molly Brown. They gave other performances in concert for the school and the general public and for all performances, they created their own choreography. At the music assembly in the fall, some of the members of the club did an interpretive dance while the A Cappella sang.

The only requirements for membership are interest and attendance. No previous experience in dance is necessary. The officers this year were Debby Ward, president; Kris Alvord, vice-president; Sue Fitts, secretary; Karen Reider, treasurer.



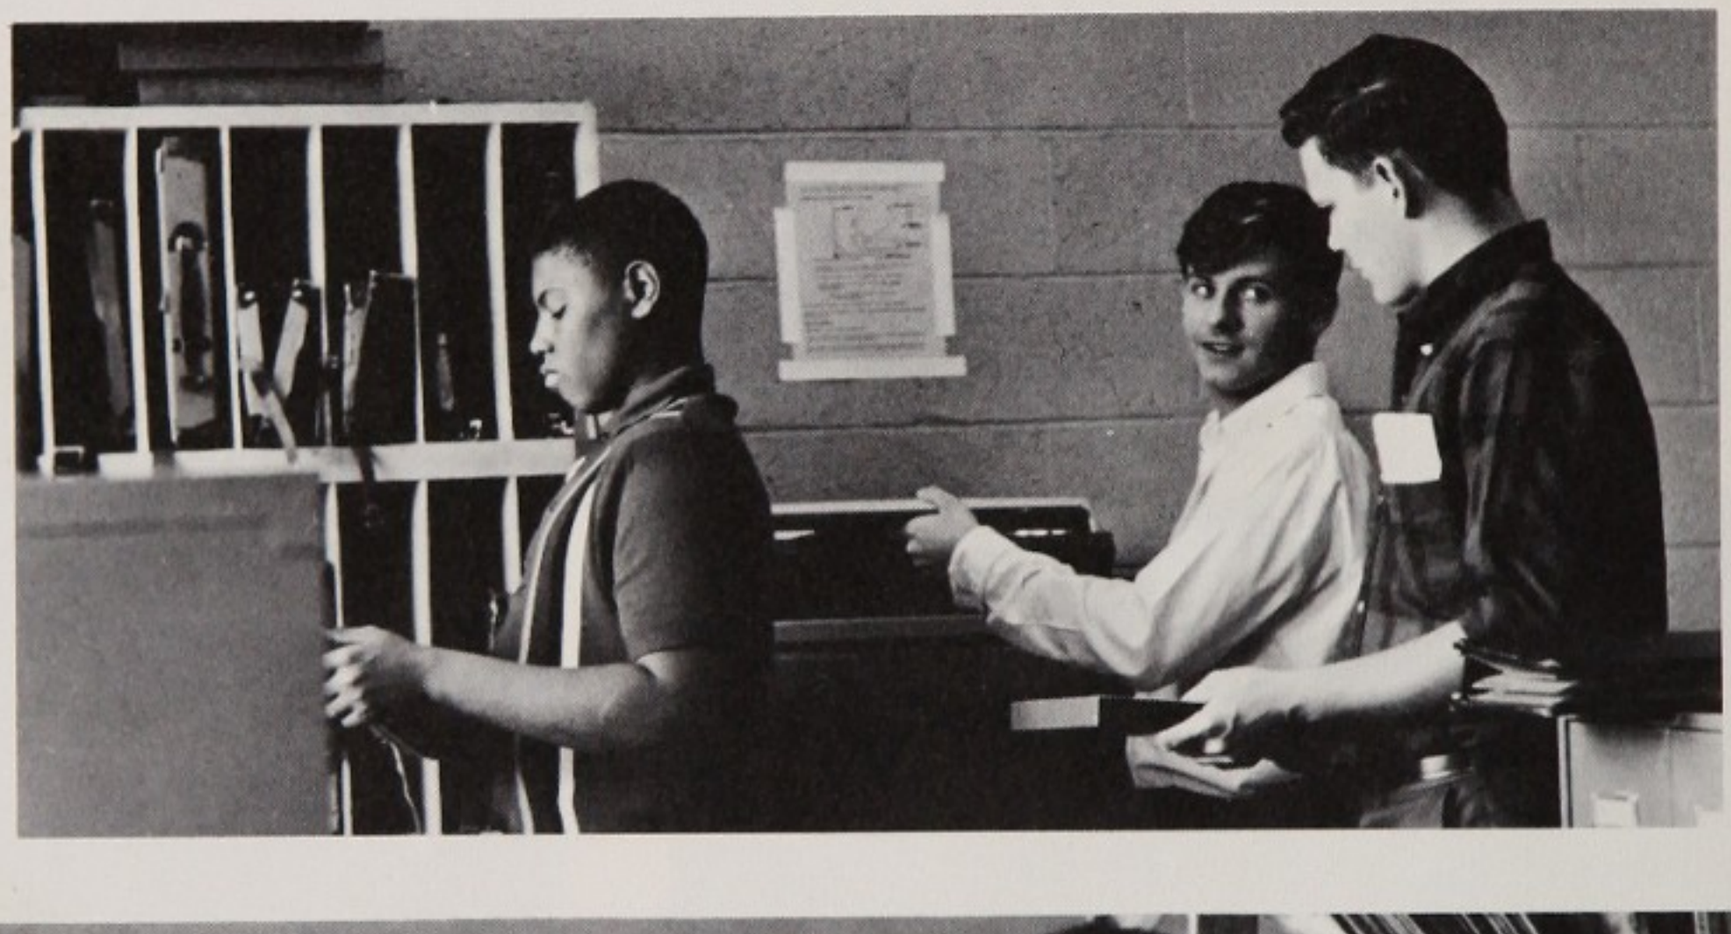
Stagecraft—An essential service

The Stagecraft Class plays a large part in scenery construction for plays, and also works the light and sound systems for assemblies and other productions. Among other projects this year, the members of stagecraft worked hard on the set for The Unsinkable Molly Brown. Without the cooperation of the members of stagecraft, our school would be unable to have activities such as assemblies, plays, and talent shows.



Audio-visual becomes part of Materials Center

The Materials Center or Instructional Resource Center is the term given a new organization which is an aggregate of the library and audio-visual. Most of the members of audio-visual are also members of the Lambda Club, and likewise, members of Lambda work in audio-visual. The Materials Center has four major purposes: to help out in the library, to provide service and audio-visual equipment and materials to teachers, to train students in the use of audio-visual equipment, and to promote student service to teachers.



Radio Guild provides communication

The members of the Radio Guild are the managers of the Pioneer Broadcasting System (WPBS.) The Radio Guild members learn broadcasting techniques as well as provide the school with a modern communications system. The guild provides AAHS with radio and closed circuit television coverage for assemblies and the Student Council Convention in the spring. The Radio Guild is able to originate programs from remote places in the building and send these programs, via telephone, directly to a local radio station for broadcasting.

Joan of Arc

This year Joan of Arc was presented by the drama department, designed by Mr. Miller, and directed by Mr. Dawson. Sheryl Hoefle was Jeanne d'Arc; Dave Woycke, the Dauphin; Paul Ingber, the uncrowned Charles VII; Pete Cartwright, the Archbishop; Jim Brudon, the Knight, Dino Vlisides, Joan's father; Beth Berry, Joan's mother; and Schuy Owens, Joan's brother.

The play depicted Joan's life as a maid in France and how she was able to lead the French soldiers against the invading English.

Students demonstrate ability on stage

Theater Workshop is a partial credit course. This class is concerned with acting and play production. With the guidance of Mr. Miller, the workshop presented "Time Out for Ginger" and another play during a school assembly. The productions instruct the student in such areas as, make-up, costuming, scene design, publicity, and lighting. The Stage Craft class assists by operating lights and curtains. Twenty students compose this entertaining group.

Ted Andrews, Dave Berera, Clyde McKenzie, and Mrs. Field discuss a new layout.

Optimist maintains close to half

The noise of rickety typewriters, their pounding barely heard above the constant argumentation, the snipping of scissors on copy all emitting from the Optimist room before each deadline, tell a busy story. Before each paper is issued, stories must be written and copy read, photos developed and cropped, and ads designed. Nerves knot as headlines are finally decided upon and the pages are laid out. Almost anticlimactic is the final dash of copy to the printer.

Clyde McKenzie, Jane Crawford, Doug Olsen, and Ted Andrews listen diligently at a staff meeting.

objectives for a century

Staff stops listening and starts working.

The Optimist was fathered by the late Mr. Robert Granville, formerly chairman of the English department, in 1921. The original objectives of the Optimist, to furnish information and entertainment to Ann Arbor High School students and to provide communication between the high school and the community have been the goals of the Optimist for close to half a century.

Pep Promoted By Sophomores

This year the Class of '67, through the Sophomore Executive Board, has promoted pep by the distribution of class buttons included with the payment of class dues, chosen their class colors which are olive green and white, sent flowers and cards to students who were ill for period of time, and accomplished much more.

Mr. Albert Gallup, Mr. James Clark, and Mrs. Frances Hughes supervised the class activities. Tom Wood served as class president, Dave Beemer was elected vice-president, and Lindsay Kahler was secretary.

Winter Remembered

Two evils, monstrous either one apart,
Possessed me, and were long and loath at going:
A cry of Absence, Absence, in the heart,
And in the wood the furious winter blowing.

Think not, when fire was bright upon my bricks,
And past the tight boards hardly a wind could enter,
I glowed like them, the simple burning sticks,
Far from my cause, my proper heat and center.

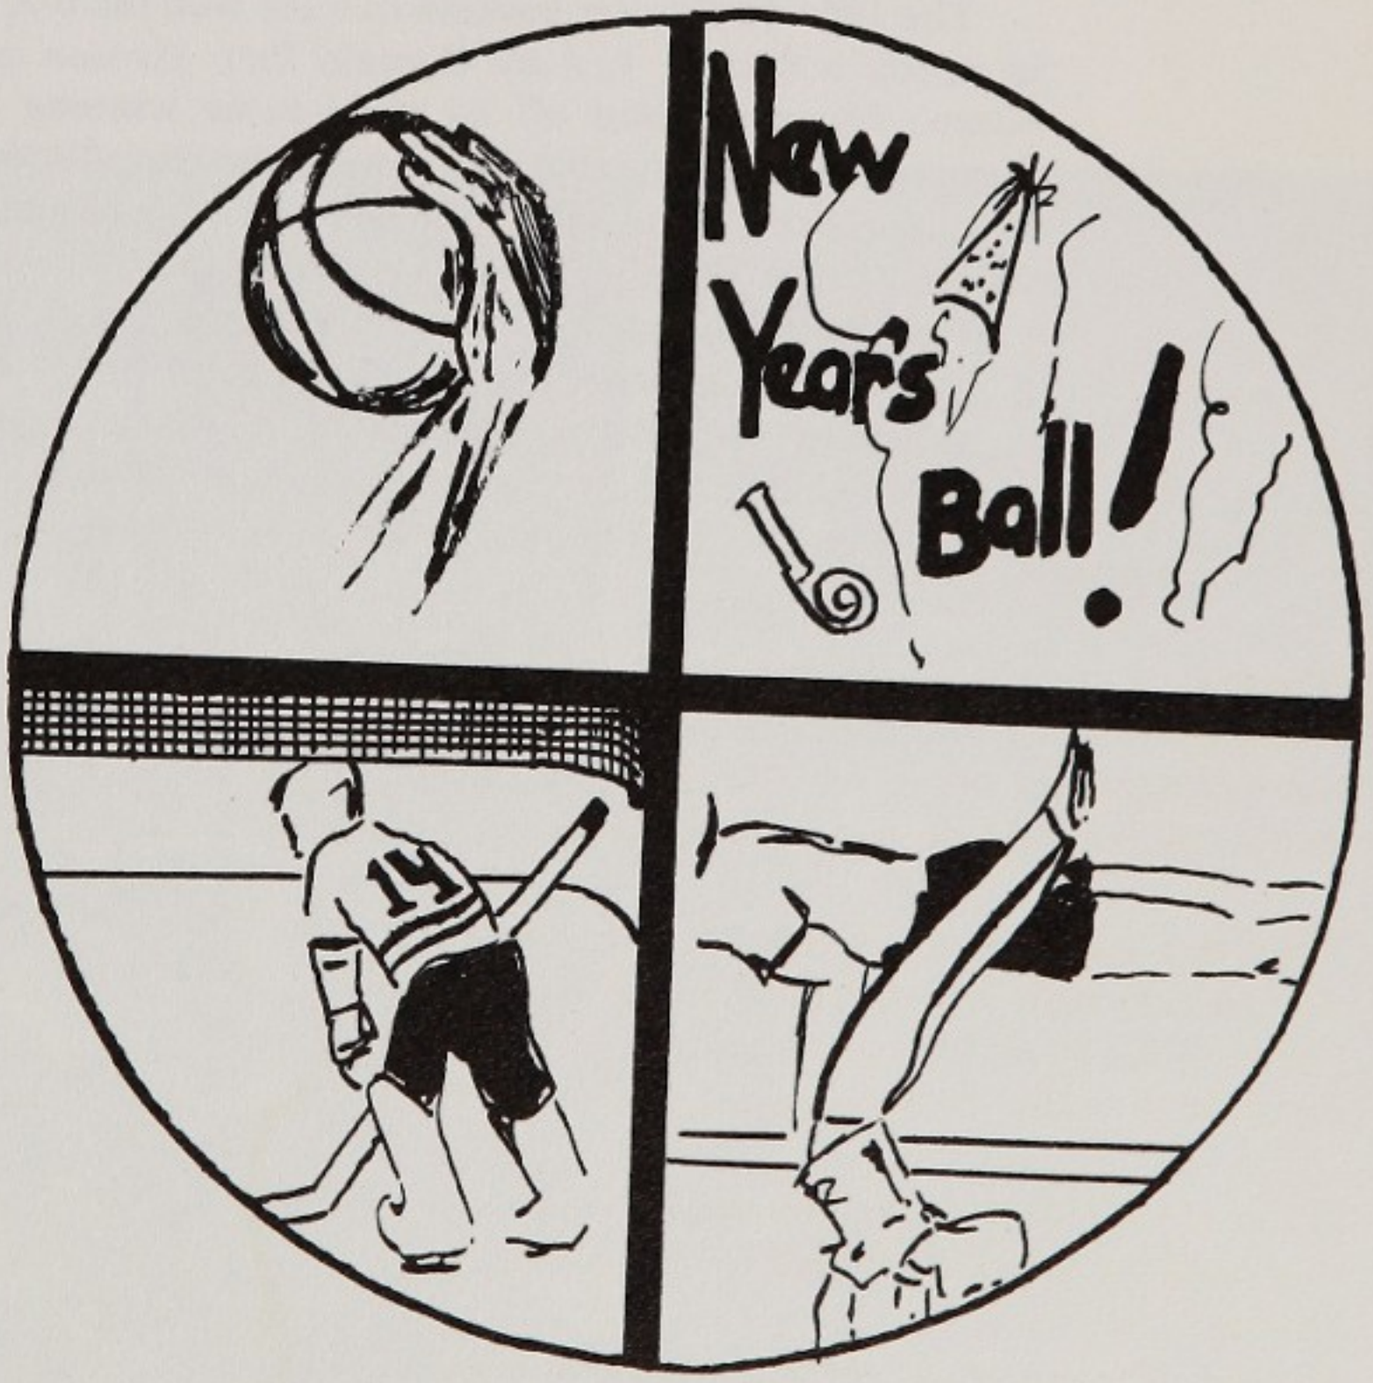
Better to walk forth in the frozen air
And wash my wound in the snows; that would be healing;
Because my heart would throb less painful there,
Being caked with cold, and past the smart of feeling.

And where I walked, the murderous winter blast
Would have this body bowed, these eyeballs streaming.
And though I think this heart's blood froze not fast
It ran too small to spare one drop for dreaming.

Dear love, these fingers that had known your touch,
And tied our separate forces first together,
Were ten poor idiot fingers not worth much,
Ten frozen parsnips hanging in the weather.

John Growe Ransom

WINTER



Cagers capture first title since 1956.

The 1964-65 Pioneer basketball team won the 6-A League title for the first time in nearly a decade. Led by Captain Pete Hansen and Earl Higgins, Coach Ed Klum's charges reeled off an eight-game winning streak, extending from mid-January to late February, including a thrilling 77-69 conquest of Sexton in Lansing, to clinch the title. The Pioneers, although eliminated by league foe Jackson in the district semi-final, finished with a fine 12-5 record, their best since 1952.

Hansen led in scoring with a 13.8 average, with Higgins second with 13.7. Jim Hosler, Dave Hampton, and Don Hill added 10.4, 8.1, and 8.0, respectively.

A strong bench, let by Mike Wall, Al Stevens, Bill Fraumann, and Don Dates also contributed largely to the fine season. Following the completion of the season, the team elected Earl Higgins as next year's captain and chose Pete Hansen as most valuable player.

Swimmers finish second in 6-A.

Aided by returning lettermen Dick and Bob Cope, Dick Fortune, Jim Gale, Pete Souza, Scott Terhune, Steve Wever, and Carl Weber, the 1964-65 Pioneer swimmers completed another successful season.

To compliment these lettermen, Coach Jerry Misner brought in several promising underclassmen. These swimmers turned in an impressive 4-1 league record, and sixth in the state meet.

They came a close second to Battle Creek in the 6-A league meet. At this meet Carl Weber, who placed third in the state, tied the 6-A record in the Breaststroke-1:04.6 minutes. He set a new pool record at Kalamazoo to aid our swimmers to a 63-42 win, and help gain the title of most improved swimmer.

Co-captains Bob and Dick Cope set several records. Dick set a new Warren Fitzgerald record in the 100 yard Backstroke-59.1 seconds, while Bob set two in the 400 freestyle-4:18.1 minutes at Jackson and 4:15.8 at Jackson Parkside, Bob also set a new varsity record of 4:11.7.

Dick Cope, the teams "can-do-anything" man, set a new varsity record in the individual medley-2:12.5. Dick was elected, by his team mates, most valuable swimmer of 1964—65. This seasons meets record was:

Matmen second in league.

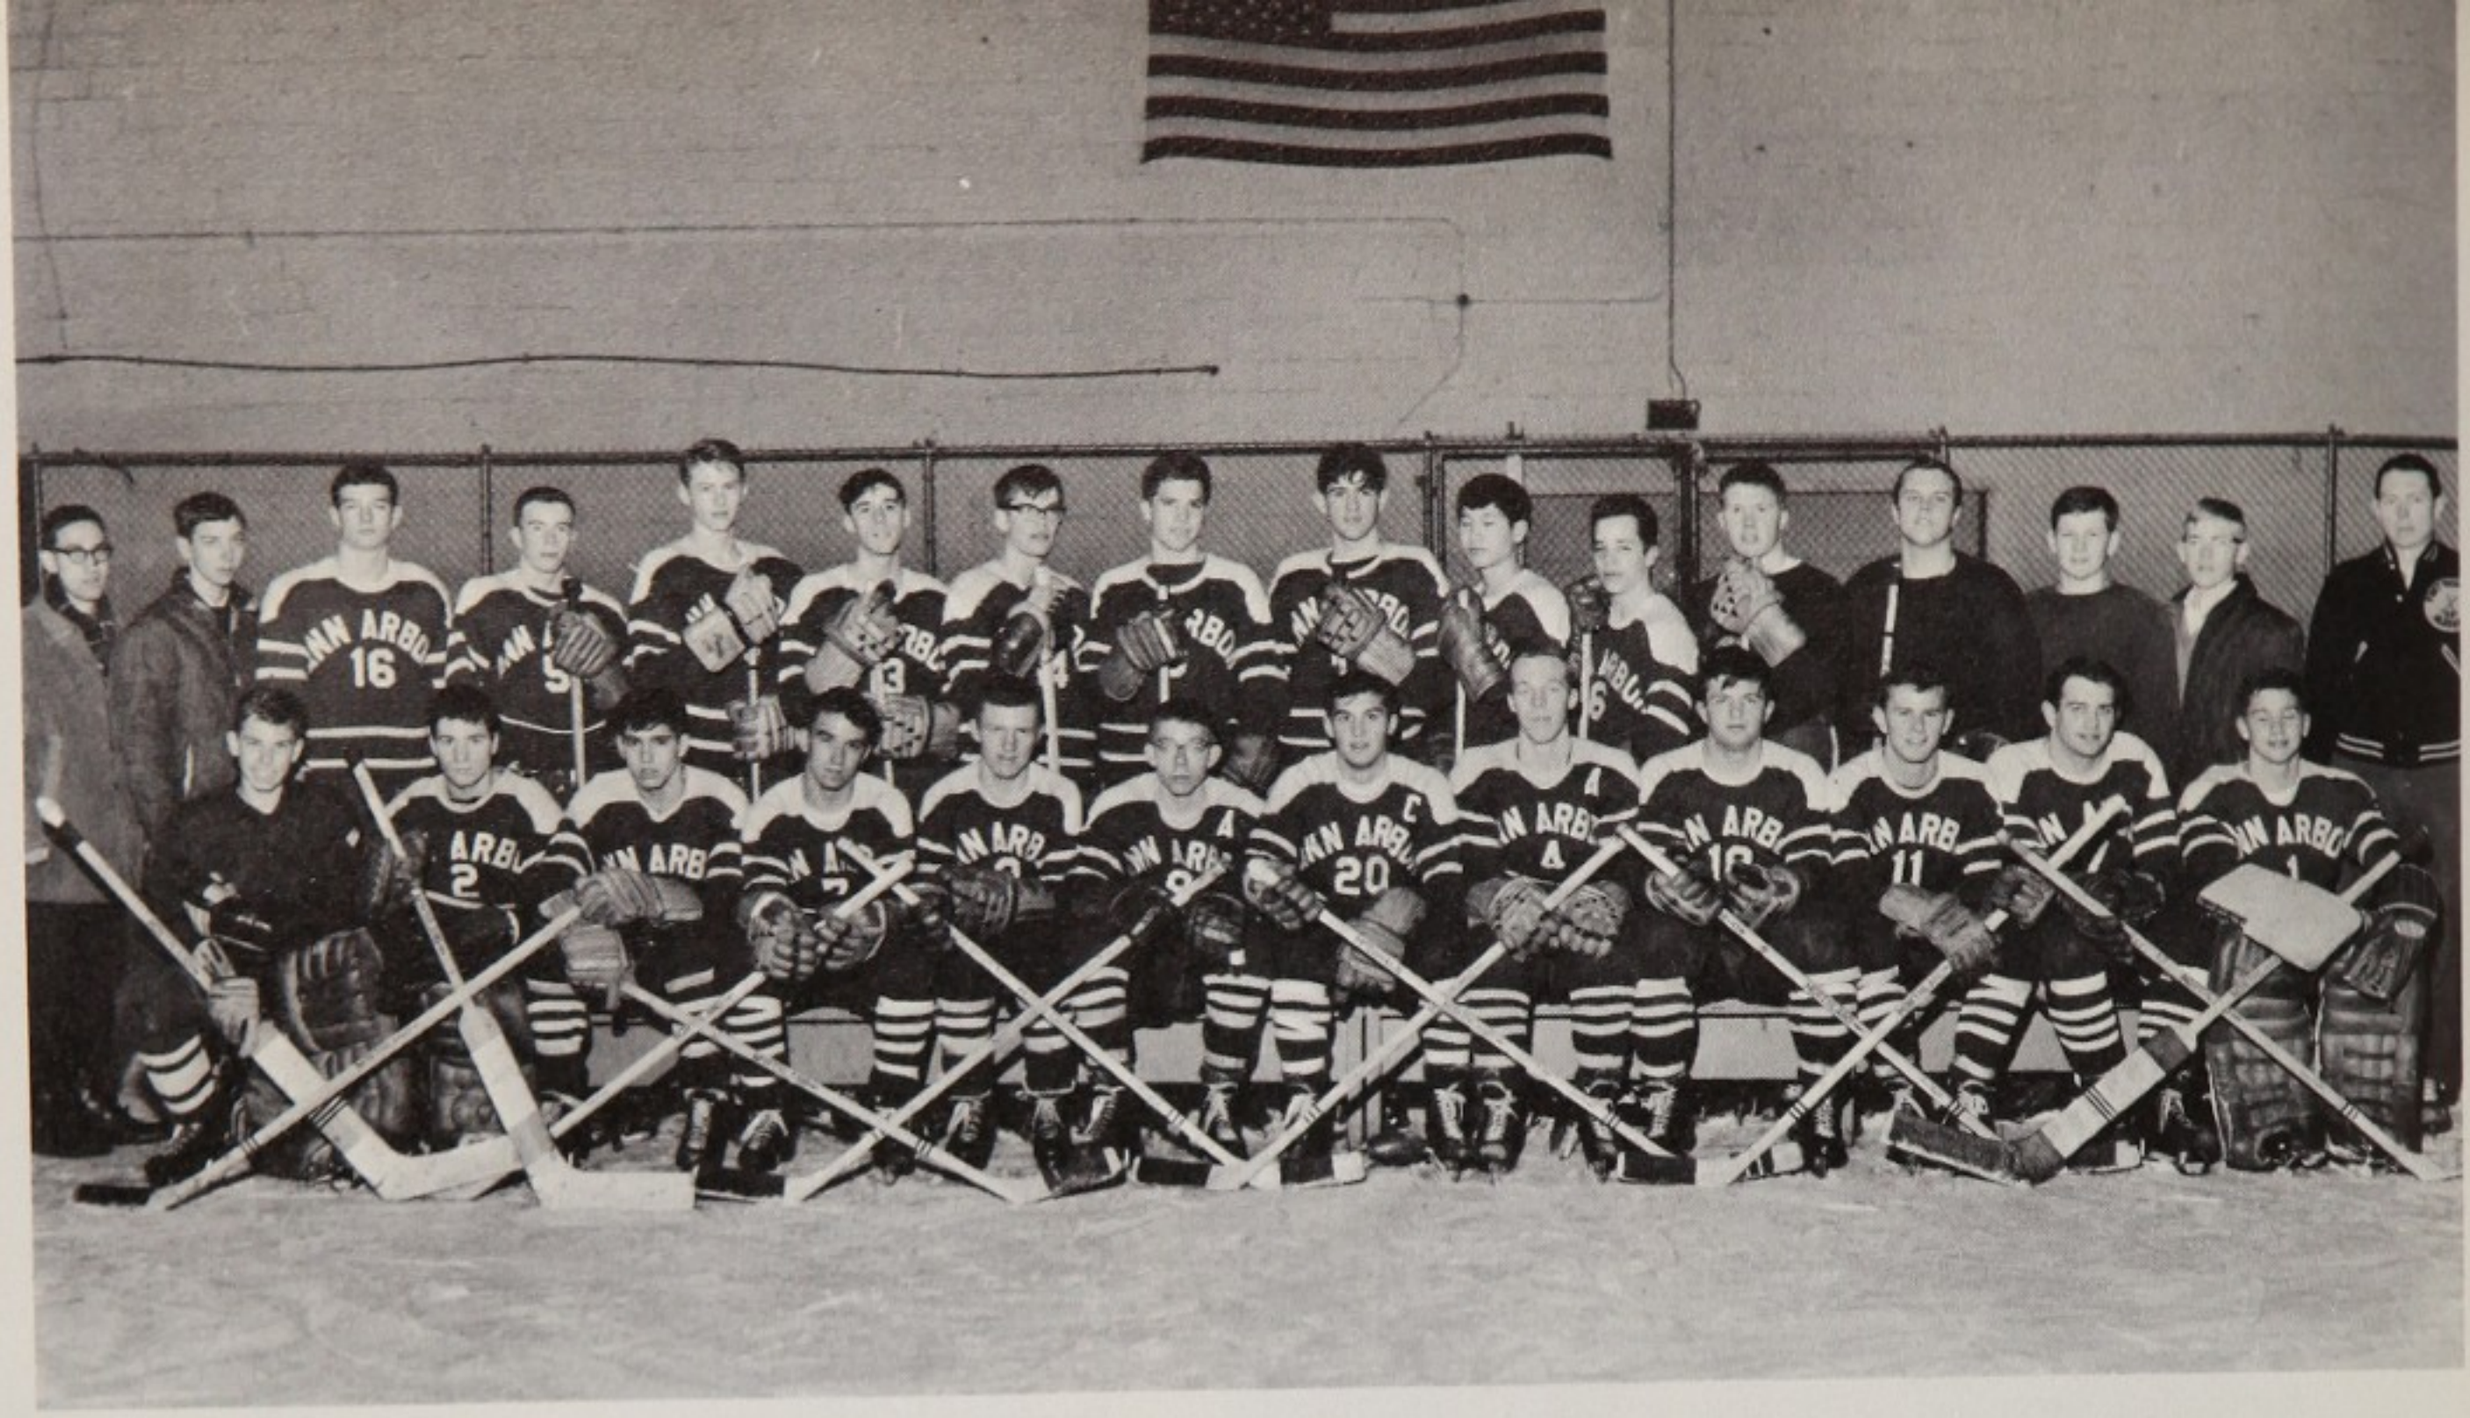
The 1964-65 Wrestling team, coached by Jerry Budzik and led by Captains John Yablonky and Denny Olmsted, turned in one of the greatest seasons ever. This year's squad compiled a 13-1-1 dual and quadrangular meet record. They set a new varsity record for the margin of victory against a Six A opponent when they smeared Jackson 43-2. This broke the old rcord of a 39 point margin set in 1950. The following week the matmen smashed this record when they levelled Kalamazoo 49-2.

The Pioneers started the year by winning the Ann Arbor Quadrangular, defeating Owasso, Trenton and Walled Lake. The next week the Pioneers again come out on top of a 4-team meet with Lansing Eastern, Thurston and Berkeley. Over the holidays, the Pioneers kept up their winning streak by routing Jackson Parkside 38-6 and Flint Northern 32-14. Next they tied defending State Champions, Ypsilanti, 20-20. The matmen resumed battle in the Six A, by defeating ever tough Lansing Eastern 29-15 in a crucial battle to stay in the running with Sexton for the crown. Then they overwhelmed Battle Creek 33-9 to set the stage for the league championship meet with Lansing Sexton, at home. Before a crowd of about 600 fans, the largest crowd ever to see a Pioneer wrestling match, the matmen lost a 20-19 heartbreaker. This loss spoiled the squad's bid for an undefeated season and left them in second place in the Six A standings.

Great performances were turned in this season by seniors Denny Olmsted, John Yablonky, Dave Slee, Bobby Ross and Melvin Knox. Coach Budzik will miss these five tough competitors.

In the Regionals the Pioneers placed ten of the team's twelve men, but, unfortunately five were fourth places which doesn't qualify one for the state meet. Of the five who went to the state meet, two boys placed. Dave Slee finished second place at 138 pounds, while Co-Captain John Yablonky earned a fourth place at 112 pounds.

Next year's squad promises to be a great one, with valuable lettermen Milford Hart, Charlie Rabinson, Paul Brusher, Jim Dickinson, Pete Thall and John Martin returning. Promising sophomores who will make their weight felt next year include Lou Henderson, Dave Beemer, Tom Dyer, John Jenkins, Doug Kline, and Chris Clemens.



Pucksters first in first division, lose playoffs

Led by alternate captain Don Kennedy's 22 goals and 15 assists, the Ann Arbor High Hockey squad grabbed the first division regular season title in the International High School Amateur Hockey Association league for the second consecutive year.

Kennedy broke Tom Huntzicker's season scoring record of 18 goals and 18 assists by one point and now is third in career scoring. He trails Huntzicker and Jerry Hartman.

Captain Mark McDonald was second in scoring with 16 goals and 14 assists while alternate captain Bob Keen beat opposing goalies eleven times and set up two other scores.

The most memorable of the Pioneer victories were the 12-0 stomping of Madison Heights and a 4-3 decision over Port Huron to help the pucksters take the regular season crown.

Ann Arbor lost only three games all season, each by one goal. Two of the losses came at the hands of Port Huron Catholic Central which eliminated the Pioneers from the playoffs.

Three Pioneers were honored by being placed on the six-man all star team. Don Kennedy, defenseman Bob Koebnick and goalie Bill Busch composed half of the glitter team. Busch was outstanding in the nets and showed great promise as a sophomore. Koebnick broke-up his share of plays and threw devastating blocks while scoring six goals.

"We played real well for a young team." commented coach Art Armstrong at the end of the season. His statement is well founded. Only a half-dozen players will be lost by graduation.

It's shear determination as Scott Shear scores against Port Huron.

Pioneer Bill Simpson takes a shot on goal.

Gymnasts are state champions.

Sparked by Don Portman, John Walton, and Will VandenBroek in all around competition, the 1964-65 gymnastics team chalked up a perfect season.

They began by defeating St. Clair 86-42 and 78-50. They beat Portage 77-51 and North Farmington 90-38 and 77.5-50.5. They also defeated Hillsdale 93-35 and 88-40 and Ionia 86-42. They trounced Allen Park 97.5-30.5 and 81-47.

After having been runners-up for two years, this year they captured the state championship meet. This they have a record of one first and two seconds in the event since its revival in 1959.

In his last year as coach, Mr. Howard Pathoff directed a team consisting of many capable gymnasts. Don Portman, John Walton and Will VandenBroek all ways came through in all around competition. George Huntzicker worked tumbling, free exercise, horizontal bar, rings, and trampoline, Sut Nelson on the parellel bars and side horse; Jim Walton on the parallel bars, trampoline, tumbling, and in free exercise.

Steve Crosswait covered the rings and long horse; Doug Smith the horizontal bars, rings, and trampoline; Dave Colwell the rings and tumbling.

Karl Steiner took care of the side horse; Don Warner the parallel bars and horizontal bar; Richard Shiller the side horse; and Craig Charnov the horizontal bar.

The season point totals for the team members were as follows: Don Portman-268-1/2; John Walton-190-1/2; Will VandeBroek-138-1/2; George Huntzicker-200; Stu Nelson 65-1/2; Jim Walton 44; Steve Crosswait 40; Doug Smith 36; Richard Shiller 6; Karl Steiner 3; Dave Colwell 2; and Don Warner 2.

149 Students in C.O.T.

Cooperative occupational training, commonly called C.O.T., is a form of vocational education which combines in-school education and supervised work experience. Opportunities are provided in three major occupational areas: distributive, office, and trade and industrial. This program prepares the students for useful employment best suited to their interests and abilities.

Month of December

On the night of December 5, couples came semi-formally dressed for the Toyland Ball. Each couple brought a toy for admission. These toys were then presented to the hospitals. The music for this occasion was albums. The decorations provided a Christmasy affect.

Diane Ellis and her date, Mike Engles, pass under the rose arbor at the entrance to the Senior Ballroom.

provides happy memories

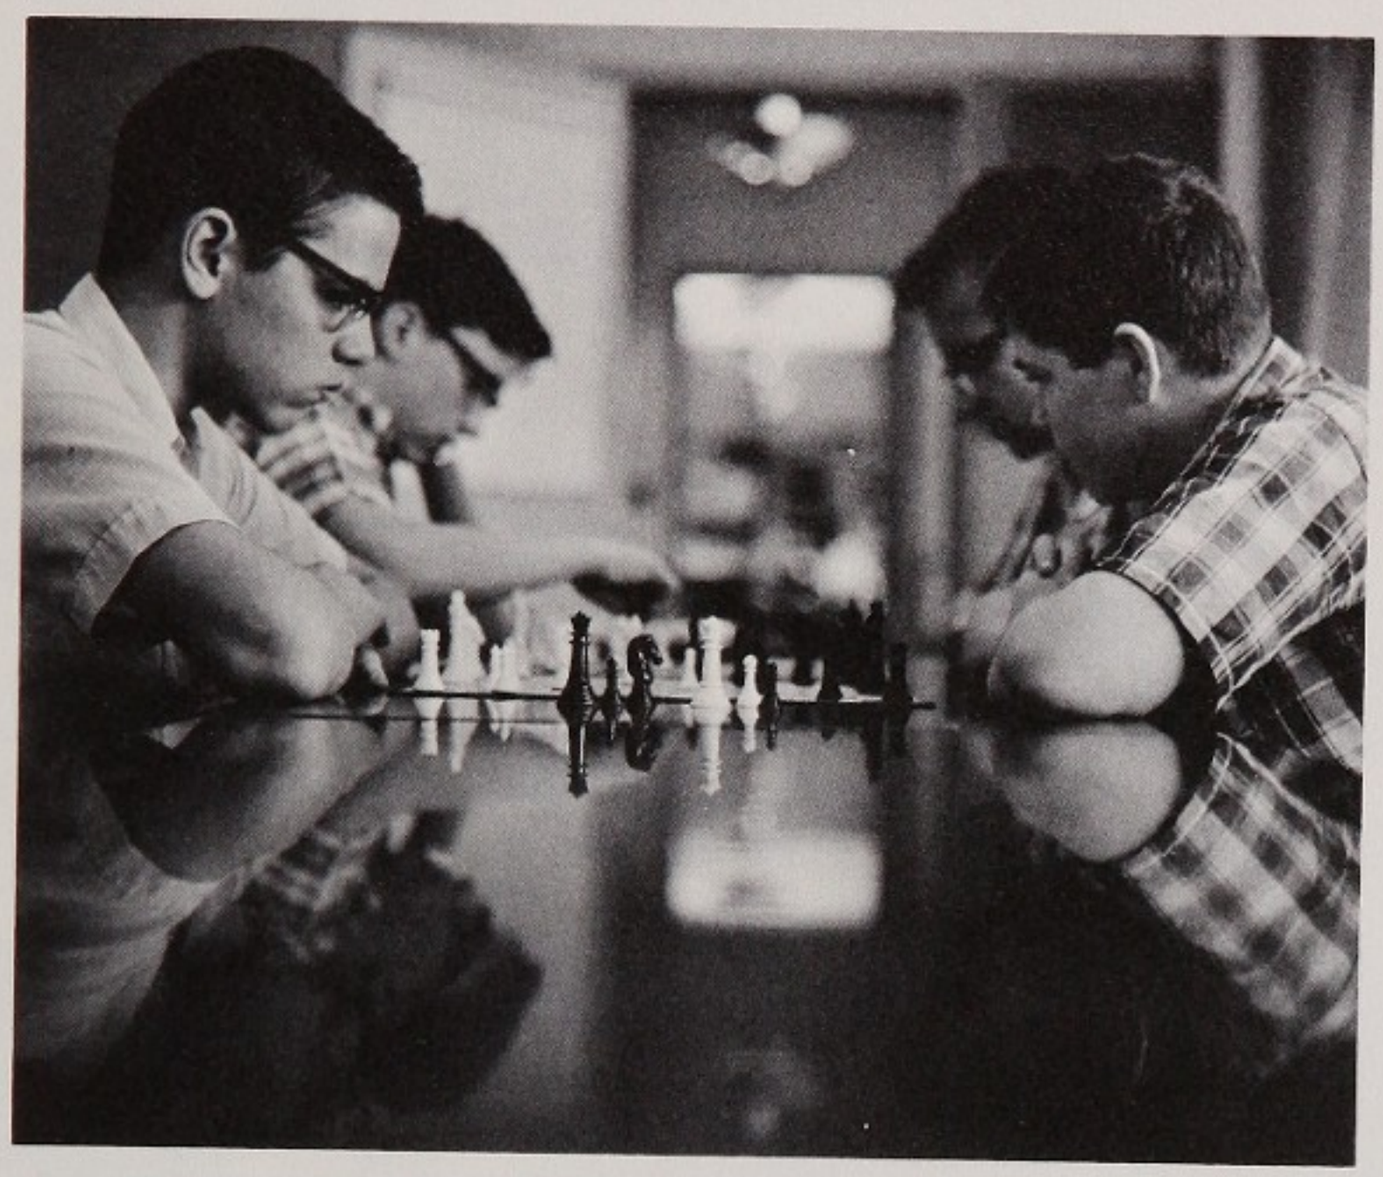
The annual New Years Eve dance at the Michigan Union Ballroom completed the year of 1964 for many students. The theme was "The Rose Ball." A lighted Christmas tree occupied one corner. The Iguanas played part of the evening, and albums provided dancing music for the remaining time. Balloons were showered over the couples at midnight to welcome the New Year.

Students enthusiastically welcome the New Year.

Bridge, Chess, and Ski

During the past year, the Bridge Club nearly doubled its membership, which now stands at thirty. Anyone who was interested in bridge, either to learn or to improve, was welcome. The club found that by using the Goren system, the game was more unified because all the players used the same basic rules. The Bridge Club was first organized in 1958 by a group of boys who were interested in bridge and wanted to develop their playing skills. The club was headed by Bob Berning, president, while Linda Kell held the vice-presidency. It was interesting to note that some of the members played in the duplicate games at the "Y", Arborland, or at the Michigan Union.

Clubs show tremendous growth



Chess is another one of the many extracurricular activities which is supervised at AAHS. The Chess Club, under the direction of Mr. Cassello, is open to all those students who are interested in chess, and those who enjoy learning this fascinating game. This club is comprised of those students who like a game which presents a challange and requires mental agility. New members are welcome and encourage to come.

The main purpose of the Ski Club is to promote skiing and bring together those people interested in skiing. The club sponsors trips to the nearby slopes, such as Mt. Holly and Mt. Brighton, on Friday evenings with possible trips on Saturdays during vacations. Anyone who enjoys skiing or who wishes to learn is welcome to join.

The ski Club was formed last year at the request of a number of students, and has become one of the more popular intramural activities sponsored by AAHS. There were 280 students in the club last year, and the membership has continued to grow.

16 National Merit Semi-finalists from A.A.H.S.

Merit semi-finalists demonstrate study habits.

This year Ann Arbor High School had sixteen National Merit Semi-finalists. These students were singled out by their performance on a standard test given to more than half a million high school juniors a year. It is indeed an honor, to both the students and to the school, that we had sixteen semi-finalists. The finalists are usually announced in the late spring. They are selected on the basis of their performance on a second exam which all the semi-finalists take. The student who is so honored as to be recognized by the National Merit Organization is given special consideration at many colleges and universities.

In 1934, a charter was granted to Ann Arbor High School by Quill and Scroll, the international honorary society for high school journalists. Annually, since that time, several students from the staffs of our three publications have been commended to the society. In order for a student to be selected, he must be in the top third of his class and have the recommendation of his publication's advisor. This award is given only to students who have made large contributions and, therefore, is a great honor. In April, additional new members were announced at the Quill and Scroll banquet.

Forty-six AAHS students placed as semi-finalists in the eighth annual Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition after completing the first part of the test. This put these students in the top 4% of the participants in Michigan. The examination was in two parts: the multiple choice section, which tested the student's mathematical background, and the written portion, which tested the student's mathematical ingenuity. The scores from both of these parts were combined to determine the winners. This year AAHS had five silver medal winners.

"The Unsinkable Molly Brown"

Molly promises that she is "goin' to learn to read and write."

Ann Arbor High School's semi-annual musical was again a success. Meridith Wilson's, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," was presented in four performances for high school students and the public.

"The Unsinkable Molly Brown" is a comedy about a mountain girl who attempted to join Denver Society. Molly Brown (Holly Church) left her home promising "I'm going to learn to read and write." While working in a saloon she met Johnny "Leadville" Brown (Tom Folk), and after a wild courtship she married him. After he discovered gold they moved into a mansion in Denver, but the "Elite 36" of Denver refused to accept them. The J. J. Browns travelled to Europe to learn some social graces, and after a successful trip they again were rejected by Denver. Discouraged, Molly returned to her "friends" in Europe, but Johnny went back to Leadville. In Europe Molly was forced to choose between her Johnny and Prince Delong (Ned Farrar). She made her decision and survived the sinking of the "Titanic" to return home to Colorado and Johnny.

Supporting members of the fine cast were Tim Murtaugh, Mary Eddy, Chris Kentes, Steve Burns, and Debbie Dowson.

The music department called on the talents of many for the musical. Members of the cast were from the A Cappella Choir, and the orchestra played all the music. Both the singing and orchestration were conducted by Mr. Robert Pratt, while Mr. Ronald Dawson supervised the acting plus the scenery and stagecraft. Members of the modern dance club added their talents and hard work which made "Molly Brown" an unforgettable performance.

The Mixed Ensemble was directed this year by Mrs. Henkel and was composed of 77 boys and girls. This chorus performed in several assemblies and also had a madrigal group (similar to the Choraliers from the A Cappella Choir) composed of 22 singers.

The Girls' and Boys' Choruses are separate groups, under the direction of Mrs. Henkel, which are composed of girls and boys interested in participating in a musical endeavor. These choruses may be considered as training groups for the more advanced choirs. They usually perform in a combined form at the all-school musical assemblies.

high quality musical entertainment

The A Cappella choir and the Choraliers are the most select groups of singers in the high school. Students who wish to join the A Cappella choir must try out at the beginning of the semester. The choir consists of about 90 members and is directed by Mr. Pratt. All of the students in it are from the junior and senior classes. This year the choir sang for the Rotary Club, the Student Library Association, and in various assemblies before the student body. Their biggest project was the production of the school musical, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

From the A Cappella choir, Mr. Pratt selected twenty students to be the Choraliers. This group is not a regular class and practices twice a week during homeroom. This year the Choraliers sang for service groups and the Mock U. N. Assembly, among other numerous activities.

The eighty talented members of the Orchestra would have no direction without the guiding ability of Mr. Richard Massmann. He has retained its fine reputation and its high standing in performances throughout the year. The group plays different types of music, such as classical, semi-popular, and broadway hits. The Orchestra expressed its excellence during school assemblies, such as the Pop Concert and the Christmas assembly, and it was also featured in the school production of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

Student Council has been very active this year.

A book drop was set up in the council room and a student mailbox was put in the office. The canned food drive was again sponsored by the Student Council and peanuts were sold throughout town with donations used as Ann Arbor High's contributions to the March of Dimes. The council found the '64–'65 year one of the busiest and most successful.

Model United Nations Assembly

This year, on March 13th and 14th, the 16th annual Model United Nations Assembly convened at Hillsdale College, in Hillsdale, Michigan. Ann Arbor High School was ably represented by a delegation of eight members, four of whom represented Burma. The other four members comprised the Yugoslavian delegation. Ann Arbor had several proposals to present to the group, a miniature United Nations General Assembly, including resolutions on colonialsim, the Panama Canal, Antartica, and Vietnam. Out of the twelve proposals passed from the assembly of 89 schools, three from Ann Arbor. Mr. White, the group's advisor, and Mr. Wilson accompanied the group on the trip, which was financed by the Rotary Club of Ann Arbor. Selection of students was made from the Saturday Social Science Seminar on the basis of prepared speeches on a stated topic.

Latin Club

A new activity for the foreign language clubs this year was the preparation of displays for the trophy case in the clock tower lobby. The articles included in these displays ranged from clothing and musical instruments to cookies and paintings. Aside from the regular meetings where slides were often shown and panel discussions held, there were other activities. The French Club went Christmas caroling, singing in French, of course, and later in the year held La Soirée Parisienne, a banquet complete with French food and dancing girls. The Spanish Club also went caroling and had a dinner later in the year. Cana Romana was the highlight of the Latin students' activities. This was a banquet following the pattern of a Roman feast, and those attending wore togas.

Debaters discuss nuclear weapons

The members of Ann Arbor High's debate team were busy this year. Between October and the middle of March they participated in at least 86 judged rounds of debate. They tied for first place in the University of Michigan Tournament and in the Berkely Tournament. In March they hosted the district tournament. All of their debates were on the national high school debate topic, "Resolved: that nuclear weapons should be controlled by an International Organization." These debates were coached by Mrs. Ann Eppinga and were under the leadership of Skip O'dell, this year's Dean of Debate.

Ruven Brooks and Carol Walters listen attentively as Skip O'dell argues for the negative.

Mrs. Eppinga helps Kay Sauer and Jeff Blum organize for future debates.

The 1965 Overtones staff was headed by Mrs. Jean Procasky and met after school at least once a week. The job of the staff was to gather material from Ann Arbor High School students for the magazine which includes poems, essays, short stories, and art work. This material then had to be compiled and arranged by the staff. Overtones, however, represents not only literary and artistic talent, but is designed to include material from the sciences, mathematics, and industrial art departments. Its aim, therefore, is to represent all creative talent in Ann Arbor High School. This year's editors were Mike Allen and Kris Jones. Mary Lu Houston was manuscript editor; Judy Anderson was general editor; Tara English was Layout editor; and Martha Hairston was the art editor.

The juniors had an enjoyable year under the leadership of their class officers; Jamie Buhr, president; Barry Bateman, vice-president; and Kippy Pritula, secretary. Under the guidance of their class advisors, Mr. Barclay, Mrs. Odell, and Mr. Roth, the juniors collected class dues and had a class color day. They participated in Pride Week and will sponsor a dance in the fall of '65 for the juniors. The class executive board float won 3rd place in the homecoming parade, while another junior float placed first.

Trackmen expect another great year

This year's track team, while feeling the loss of Ken Dyer and other graduated thinclads, looked forward to a very successful season. A large group of returning lettermen and many promising sophomores provided depth in all events which helped the team in its effort to gain a 6-A championship and to secure the All-Sports trophy for Ann Arbor.

Last year Mr. Tim Ryan stepped down as head coach after 38 years of coaching which produced traditionally strong track teams. His replacement was, appropriately enough, Mr. Jim Love, a former Pioneer record-holder and Big Ten hurdle star coached by Mr. Ryan in his high school days.

Under the leadership of co-captains Gary Baker and Dennis Beemer, the team compiled a fine dual meet record both indoors and outdoors. Consistent point earners were the following returning lettermen: Gary Baker, Scott Westrum, Don Dates, and John Sharmet in the 440 and Mile Relay; Bruce Gaffney, Dale Woodard, Bob Carrow, and Bill Hueter in the 880; Zonnie Askew, Dennis Beemer, and Dates in the sprints; Steve Burns and Al Campbell in the mile; Beemer and Al Stevens in the hurdles; Dave Rea, Bob Aloe, and Steve Smith in the shop put; Sam Swisher in the high jump; Beemer and Stevens in the broad jump; and Tom Lowrey in the pole vault. Transfer students Mike Sims and Ed Oxley, both sprinters, as well as sophomores Tom Wood, Larry Robards, Don Warner, John Holt, and Dave Spann also turned in fine performances.

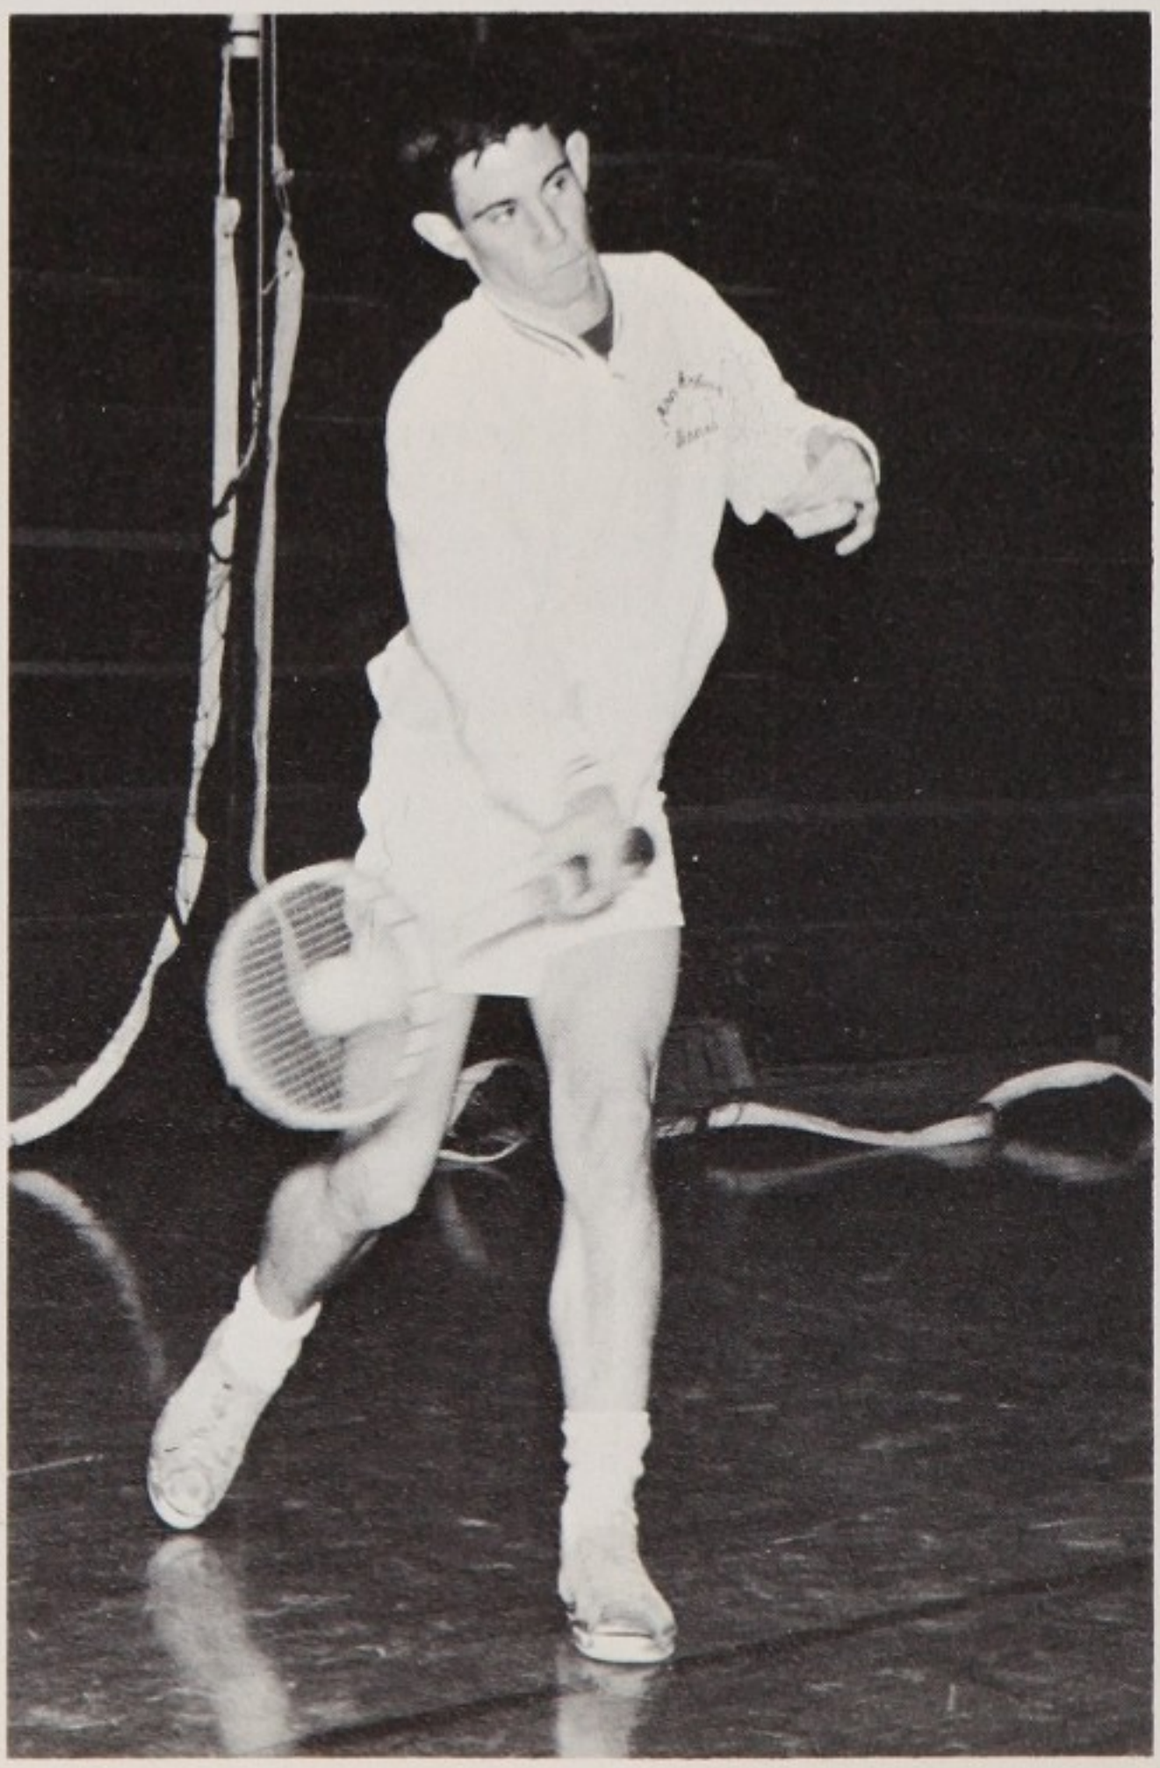
Perhaps more so than any other sport, success in track depends upon a combination of fine individual efforts by each team member and the incentives to achieve were provided both by personal goals and by the stiff competition of the 6-A league, especially title contenders Kalamazoo and Battle Creek.

Tennis, golf teams foresaw excellent

Ann Arbor High's tennis team entered the 1965 season with a much improved team despite the loss of about six lettermen. A large number of returning seniors and juniors plus several very promising sophomores added to the strength of the team.

"Kalamazoo was the team to beat this year" said coach Jerry Misner. Last year Kalamazoo's all-junior team won the league championship and that team returned in its entirety this season.

Also aiding the Pioneer team was the completion of ten new courts behind the high school.



season.

In its quest for the Six A championship, and points toward the All-Sport trophy, this year's golf team called on several returning letterman. Under the leadership of co-captains Bob Halock and George Malacos, the linksters scored well in their many home meets at Huron Hills Golf Course.

Seven returning lettermen strengthen baseball.

Under the leadership of Coach Pete Palmer and Captain Jim Hosler, the 1965 Baseball team completed a fine season.

Backed up by seven returning lettermen, Jim Hosler, Mike Abbott, Mike Conner, Marty Wilcox, Pete Hansen, John Lane, and Jim Louwsma, members up from the Junior Varsity team and new members made a fine showing.

Some of these new members were Bob Arndt, Mark Smith and Tim Murtaugh. Also sophomores Mark Carrow, Tom Connor, and Doug Kline.

Those coming up from Junior Varsity were Ron Ross, Pat McAllister, Dan Fredrickson, and Doug Hanselman.

Likewise Pete Lesch, Mike Samuelson, John Peterson, and Clyde McKenzie came up from Junior Varsity.

The Ann Arbor High School Aquaneers is a group of precision swimmers. Each year they attend state-wide synchronized swimming clinics, offer a clinic for junior high school girls, and present an annual show. Good synchronized swimming requires more hard work and practice than many realize and the girls must work toward good physical shape and muscle control.

This year the group has thirty-eight members. To join the Aquaneers, a girl must pass tryouts consisting of basic skills, and once in the club, she must participate in the clubs activities. The major purposes of the club are to stimulate an interest in artistic and creative swimming and to improve swimming techniques.

The Lambda Club

helps in library

The Lambda Club is a charter member of the Student Librarian Assistant's Association of Michigan (SLAAM.) Lambda Club has been in existence ever since the library itself, and has increased its membership from the eighteen members of last year to twenty-five at present. The purposes of this organization are to improve our library, to serve the school, and to aid the community. For an individual to become a member of the Lambda Club, he must be a student of A.A.H.S., and be able to work in the library during study hall or after school.

FTA

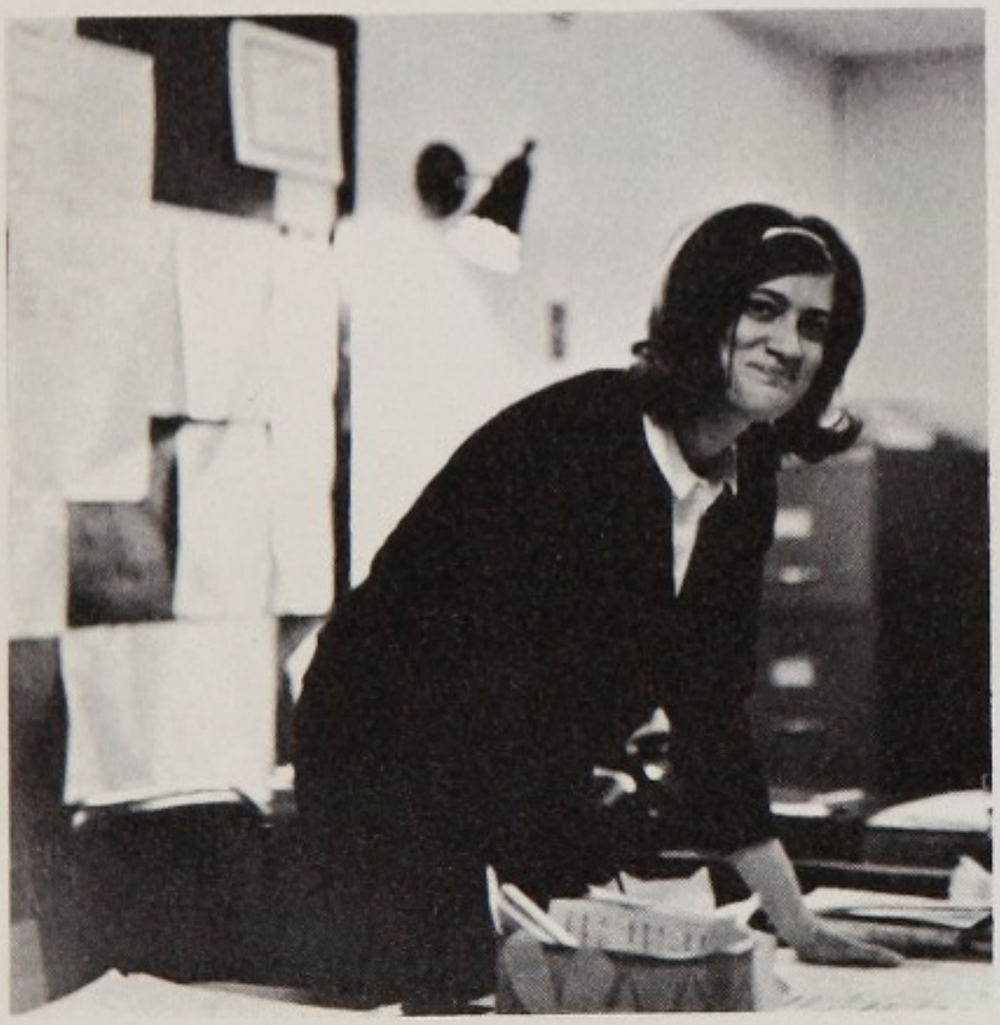
Various phases of the teaching profession were presented to the members of the Future Teachers Association (FTA) by speakers, group discussions, and visits to various schools. Any student with satisfactory academic standing and with an interest in teaching was welcome to join. Projects and activities for this year included guiding and ushering at the MEA conferences, playing host to the area meeting in November, holding a Christmas dinner in honor of the exchange students and alumni, and having a tea for the teachers.

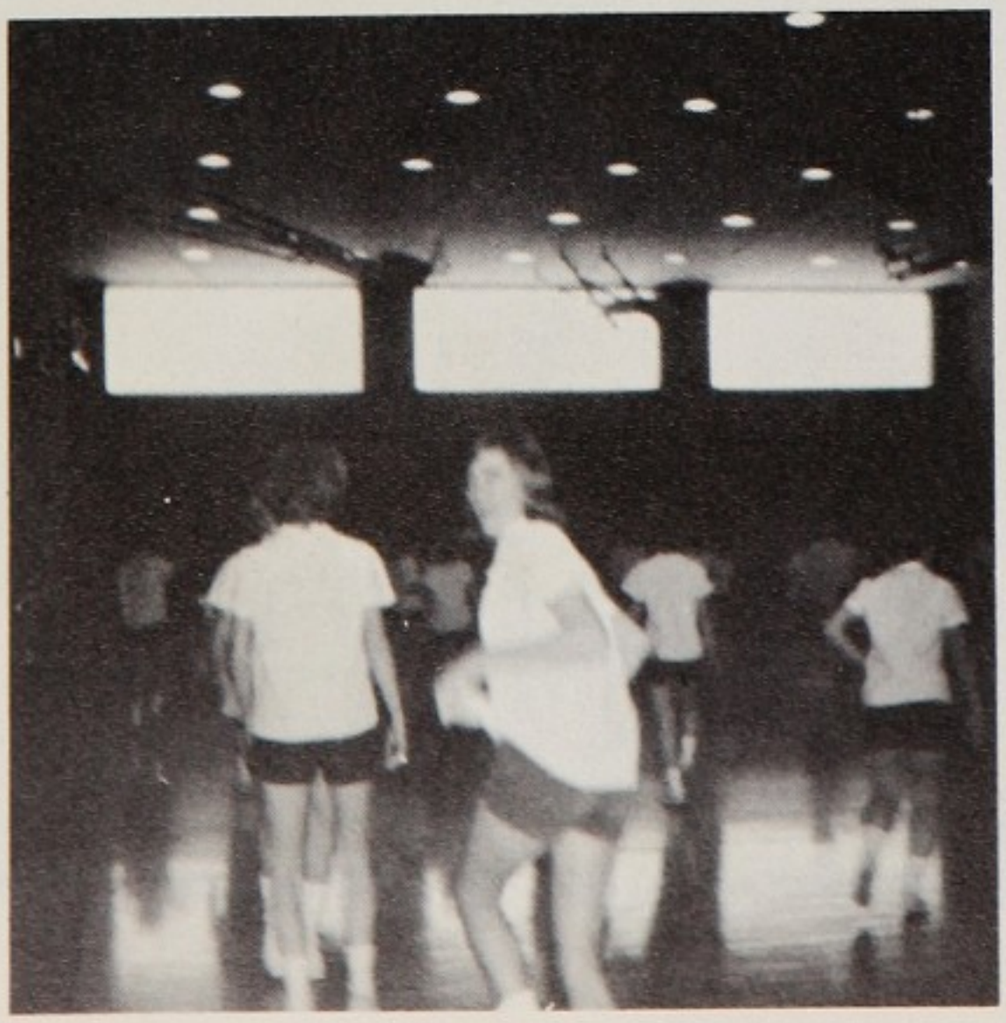
FNA

Exploring the opportunities and requirements for a nursing career has been the goal of the Future Nurses Association (FNA) since 1948. In order to become a member of the FNA, a student must have a good academic standing and be interested in either professional or practical nursing as a career.

This year the FNA program included speakers, field trips, and volunteer work as nurses' aides at Veterans' Hospital. This volunteer work was sponsored by the American Red Cross. Along with these activities, the FNA also took on the project of wrapping Christmas gifts for the Salvation Army and held several social events throughout the year.

G. A. C. enjoys busy year





The Girls Athletic Club has enjoyed a busy year. Intramural field hockey, volleyball, basketball, and baseball tournaments were held for all interested girls. Also, the G.A.C. sponsored a fun night and operated a football consession booth.

The all-city play days were considered a big success. Girls from all the high schools and junior highs throughout Ann Arbor participated in sports such as volleyball, basketball and swimming.

Girls participating in the G.A.C. have an opportunity to win various awards. In order to get an award a girl must earn a required number of leadership and participation points. These points can be gotten through participation in club and physical education activities. The awards include the small letter (500 points), the large letter (1000 points), the Ann Arbor High School pin (1500 points), the high award (2000 points), and the trophy which is given to the senior girl with the greatest number of points.

Welcome foreign students!

Any student interested in international relations may join the International Club. The club wishes to create friendly and lasting relationships between foreign and American Students. At the club's meetings the students learn about various countries and their cultures.

This year, the slate of activities included a social hour and acquaintance meeting, a Christmas party, the showing of films and slides, and panel discussions. Mrs. Davis was the faculty advisor, and the officers were Pete Graff, president; Jitty Molenaar, vice-president; and Evelyn Lee, secretary.

Omega aims

Under the direction of Dr. Charles Eastwood and the editorship of Chris Kentes, the 1965 Omega staff passed a busy year in C319. With the aid of both the assistant and associate editors, the various section editors worked with their individual staffs covering the many sides of school life. This includes activities, clubs, sports, curriculum, seniors, and underclassmen. Also, the addition of a professional photographer into the budget offered a welcome improvement to the pages, and the art staff experimented with a new cloth cover for the book. Meanwhile, behind the scenes, the business staff solicited ads, making production possible. The total effort produced one of the biggest and best yearbooks which, according to purpose, reflects the interests and school life of students here at Ann Arbor High.

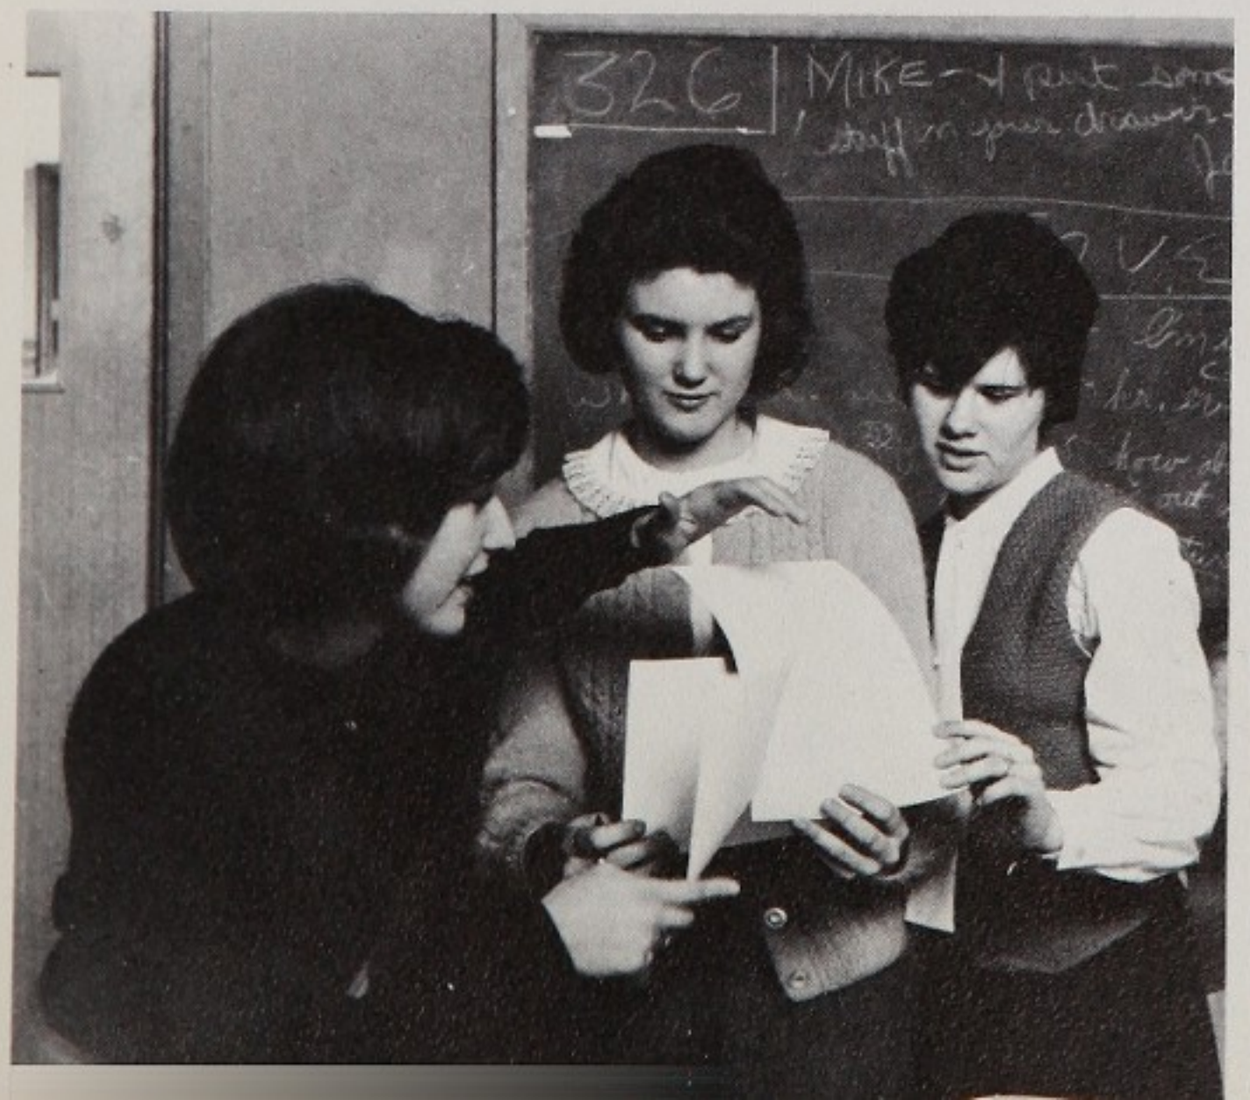
Staff members Pam Ufer, Kris Alvord, and Gail Cooper experiment with pictures and layouts.



The 1965 Washington Club has 330 members this year. They work hard to earn membership hours by selling football programs at Pioneer games, by hanging coats in the cloak room at dances, by selling candy, and by rendering other services. The members can also earn money by selling Christmas wreaths and cards.

Washington Club members plan to visit New York and Washington, D.C. during spring vacation. While there, they will see the United Nations Building, Radio City Music Hall, the White House, the Capitol Building, and the Lincoln Memorial. These are but a few of the places the members will see. The four officers this year are Bruce Gaffney, Maggie House, Pam Ufer, and Mac Whitehouse.

Senior Talent

The Senior Talent Show for '65 was composed of eleven acts and the grand finale. The first act announced by Master of Ceremonies Rick Hodges, who was assisted by Hyacinth, was The Iguanas, who also played before and after the assembly. The successive acts were: The Senior Chorus Line, The New Nose Pickers, Barbara DeHart, The Hungry Five German Band, Dennis Polk, The Saxons, The Spiritual Singers, TW3-1+Y, Jim Wilson and The Entertainers, and The Swabs. The show ended, as wild as it began, with everyone on stage for the Grand Finale.

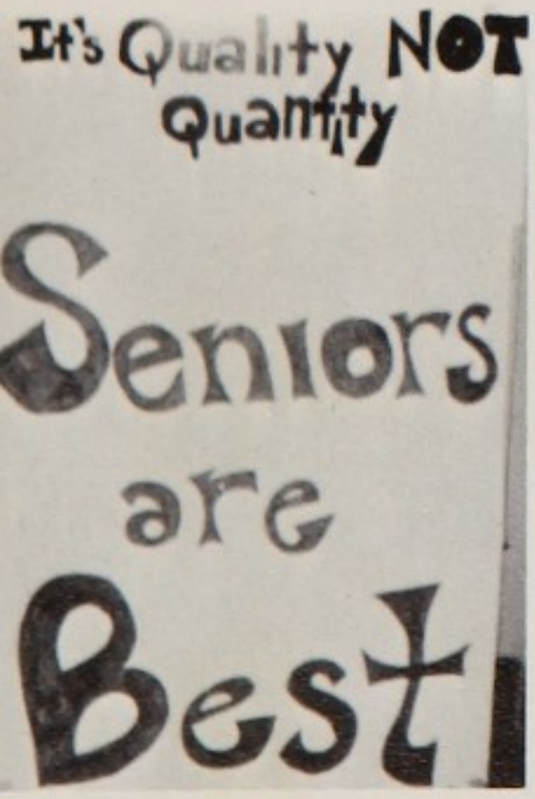
Class Of '65' Graduates 850



The Senior Executive Board met this year and assumed significant responsibility in class affairs. At least seven major projects were handled and quite a few other issues made the agenda. Dave Rea was again class President, Stephanie Collins was Vice-President, and Nancy McArtor was Secretary. In accordance with a new policy, Mrs. Ruth Straight acted as class advisor, and Mr. Donald McEwen and Mr. James Zornes were counselors.

The first main job for the Executive Board was building a float in October for the 1964 Homecoming Parade. Working with the general theme of Movie and Television Show Titles, they constructed a float based on the T.V. show "Shindig." Sweatshirts were sold before Christmas and were navy with white lettering and Pioneer crest.

The next two projects came almost together at the end of February and beginning of March. A twelve act Talent Show was presented on March 10th and orders for originally designed commencement announcements were wound upon the 12th.

Dues were collected early in the spring and helped to finance the remaining events on the calendar, most notably the Senior Picnic in May and the Senior Banquet and Prom held during the last few days of the school year in June.

Certainly there were drawbacks to having a class as large as the class of '65, but Seniors took pride in the many hours its diversified members earned for the class and school.
